Summers New OFCL Veep

Bob Summers, member-at-large of the ASUO senate was elected vice president of the Oregon Federation of Collegiate Leaders at its convention last weekend on the Reed college campus in Portland.

Dale Jorgenson of Reed was elected president of OFCL, opposing Summers for the post. Summers selection for the second spot was unanimous.

Next year's convention site is to be Southern Oregon College of Education. Pete Soderland of SOCE was chosen as secretary-treasurer for the group. A host school representative always fills this office.

Resolution Passed

Among the resolutions passed at the convention was one to have the new president appoint a committee to study the feasibility of the formation of a Northwest Federation of collegiate leaders. This would include colleges in Washington, British Columbia, Idaho and Montana in addition to Oregon. The committee could arrange for a trial "NFCL" convention next spring or fall.

The resolution was introduced by Summers as a compromise measure when it appeared that the convention was not ready to decide on the formation of such a group immediately. Oregon senate members had prepared a proposed constitution for an "NFCL" after consultation with other Oregon schools.

Representatives from Washington, Washington State and the Evergreen conference schools attended the Portland meeting in anticipation of a possible approval of the NFCL. Fifteen Oregon schools were represented.

Discussions Held

The convention also passed a resolution suggesting that OFCL schools investigate the possibilities of membership in the National Student association. The national president of NSA, Jim Edwards, spoke to the convention Saturday morning. Vote on this resolution was unanimous except for Oregon which abstained.

Meetings during the convention consisted of discussions by various school representatives on school problems. Reed College Pres. Duncan S. Ballantine and State Sen. Richard Neuberger addressed the group during the convention.

In addition to Summers, Oregon's delegation included: Don Collin, ASUO vice-president; Kit-

Homecoming Heads Tell Weekend Plans

Polls will open today at the Student Union, Commonwealth square and the Co-op for Homecoming queen elections, Marcia Tamiesie and Ann Blackwell, queen selection co-chairmen, have announced. The booths will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. both today and tomorrow.

Fall term registration cards must be presented at the time of voting. Campus-wide participation in the election has been requested by Miss Tamiesie. Only 900 students voted in last year's election, she reports.

The queen, whose selection will be announced at the Homecoming variety show Friday night, will be selected from the 1953 Homecoming court.

Competing for the title are Florence Wright, Sylvia Wingard, Nancy Randolph, Janet Miller, Ann Gerlinger and Mary Cosart. Shirley Boner, senior in education, was the 1952 Homecoming queen.

SIGN CONTEST

Homecoming sign plans and a financial statement are to be turned in by all living organizations wishing to participate in the contest by 5 p. m. Wednesday. They are to be submitted to Ann Gerlinger and Ann Bankhead, sign contest co-chairmen, at Kappa Alpha Theta.

"Those living organizations failing to follow these rules will be disqualified," stated Miss Bankhead. A price limit of $35 has been placed upon each sign, she added.

Judging of the signs will be based upon adherence to the central theme, effort, originality and impressiveness. Men and women's living organizations will be judged separately with a rotating trophy going to each first place winner. The second and third place awards will be donated by downtown merchants.

The trophies and awards will be presented during the intermission of the Homecoming dance by Patty Fagen, prizes chairman.

DANCE TICKETS

Tickets for the Homecoming Dance, Nov. 21, are on sale today, reports Carol Oakley, ticket committee chairman. They may be purchased for $2 at the main desk of the Student Union and at the Co-op until 3 p. m. Thursday. They also will be sold in all men's living organizations.

Dick Schwary and his band, rated Portland's "newest and best", will be featured at the dance, which is scheduled for the SU ballroom. Schwary, a 1952 graduate of Oregon, has just completed an engagement at Jantzen Beach.

All Oregon State college students have been invited to attend the affair.

Attire will be short silks for women and suits for men. "We urge everyone to buy his ticket early," states Miss Oakley.

VARIETY SHOW

What Oregon's new president, O. Meredith Wilson, will see on campus has been selected as the theme of the annual Homecoming variety show.

"We are leaving all the football to the team on Saturday," said Judy Morse, chairman of the Friday night show. "Of course the main event of the show will be the official announcement and crowning of the 1953 Homecoming queen, but along with her you will meet such campus figures as Professor Snarf, and if we can get him out of the Dean's office long

Montague's Talk Opens Lane County Bar Case

The third annual "Lane County Bar Association Case Analysis Contest" begins today when Malcolm Montague, senior in law, addresses the Lane County Bar at a luncheon.

Montague is the first of the law school students who will appear before the bar on the first and third Tuesday of each month to discuss a recent case of interest selected by the student.

Each contestant is allowed twenty minutes for his oral presentation. He can speak from notes, but he cannot read a manuscript. His performance is rated on a standard rating sheet by three members of the bar who act as judges.

At the end of the year all of the judges rating sheets will be examined and the two students with the highest composite scores will be awarded a first and second prize offered by the Lane County Bar Association. The prizes are $50 for first place, $25, second, and will be presented at the annual law school senior banquet held on the Friday evening preceding University commencement exercises each year.

First, second and third year law students are eligible to participate in the contest.

Hickenbottom Injured in SF

Ken Hickenbottom, junior in liberal arts, was injured in an automobile accident Friday night in San Francisco. Bill Loch, junior in geology, riding with Hickenbottom, was not injured.

Hickenbottom suffered internal injuries but is expected to recover and return to the University in a few days, according to Jack Boehme, senior in general science and member of Hickenbottom's fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega.

Coming Lecture Will Feature Art

A lecture presenting the basic principles of ancient and modern art will be given Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Student Union browsing room by Mrs. Chandler Beall of the Chula Vista street art studio. She will suggest a practical approach to the understanding of the abstract art expression of our times.

Mrs. Beall was born and reared in southern France. She studied art in Paris at the Academie Julian and at the Academie Moderne with Fernand Leger. She worked with Hans Hofmann at the Chouinard School of Art in Los Angeles in 1931, and was given a scholarship in 1933 to Hofmann's Art Academy in Munich, Germany.

More recently Mrs. Beall studied again with Hofmann in his New York school. She has also done work with Ozenfant in his Paris school and with Archipenko and has studied art in Mexico.

Army Colonel McKenney Inspects Oregon ROTC

The Army ROTC department was host Monday to Col. Alfred McKenney, chief of the Oregon Military district. Colonel McKenney inspected the department and became acquainted with its staff members.

Having recently returned from Augsburg, Bavaria, where he was the post commander, Col. McKenney is now stationed at the District's headquarters at Vancouver Barracks, Wn.

During his 36 years of military duty Colonel McKenney has served in numerous capacities throughout the world. He has been on tours of duty in Puerto Rico, Greece, the Philippines and the Middle East.

Written Articles

Fourteen years of this time was spent in ROTC units at Boston university, the University of New Hampshire and Gettysburg college, Pa. Colonel McKenney has written numerous articles for military journals.

One of his most interesting experiences came during World War II when he was sent as an emissary to the Emperor of Ethiopia, and later conducted him to the Bitter Lakes conference with President Roosevelt. While on duty in the Middle East he was awarded the Legion of Merit honor.

Classes Seem Attentive

Commenting on his first visit to the University, Colonel McKenney stated that, "the classes seem very attentive; the boys ask good questions and seem to take a genuine interest in the subject matter."

He referred further to the Oregon program by saying that he was happy to see the way in which the Army and Air Force were so well integrated with the University program. "That's the way we should find it everywhere," he stated.

Colonel McKenney will be on campus again next spring.
