

Deadline Is Set For Noise Parade Float Positions

All floats in the Homecoming noise parade should be in position by 5 p. m. Friday evening, according to Edna Humiston, chairman of the noise parade committee. The parade will start at 5:30 p. m.

The parade will form on 19th and University streets, with the head of the parade at 19th. Route will be west on 19th to Alder, north on Alder to 13th, east on 13th to University, where floats will proceed singly past the Student Union, stopping before the judges' stand, and south on University to McArthur court where the parade will end.

Fifteen points will be subtracted from the total score for delay in starting, Miss Humiston said. Floats will be judged on sustained noise in the one block judging interval, 40 percent; spirit of those on float and following, 30 percent; and ingenuity and originality in noisemaking, 30 percent.

Three first place cups will be awarded for the winners, according to Miss Humiston. The awards will be presented at the Variety Show, at which time second and third place winners will also be announced.

Judges for the event are as follows: Colonel E. B. Daily, head of the military science department; Ray Hawk, associate director of student affairs; and Donald Dushane, director of student affairs.

Onthank Back From Cal Trip

Karl W. Onthank, associate director of student affairs returned to his office Monday after spending two weeks in California representing the University of Oregon in several phases of his work as director of graduate placement and chairman of the scholarship and financial aid program.

Spending the greatest part of his time making and renewing contracts for graduate placement with employers, Onthank spoke to many alumni in the areas visited. These alumni co-operated in giving him helpful placement counseling, he said.

The aim of his work in this field is to see that graduates of the University have the opportunity to be considered, along with those of universities in metropolitan areas, for the best positions available. Contacts such as he made are essential in fulfilling this aim, says Onthank.

Representing the University at the annual meeting of the Western Personnel Institute at Pasadena and at alumni gatherings in the Los Angeles and San Francisco areas, he also met with the Oregon Mothers of Southern California and conferred with the officers of the Northern California Mothers' and Dads' clubs.

His study of methods used in awarding scholarships and grants-in-aid at universities in California will be used in strengthening Oregon's growing program in this field, Onthank added.

Television Step Taken on Compus

The first step toward television production on the University of Oregon campus was taken this week when workmen began the installation of a pipe grid system from which to suspend television lighting units in Villard Studio A.

Equipment now being installed will be used for instructional purposes. A television workshop to be added to the regular curriculum next September is now pending official faculty approval, according to E. A. Kretsinger, assistant professor speech. Following completion of the lighting system, cameras and other operational equipment will be set up.

Equipment Arrived

Equipment which has arrived, in addition to the lighting apparatus, includes one camera; a synchronizing generator, which produces the wave forms and timing voltage; a video switcher, for handling switches and fades for pictures from up to three cameras and a film, and a camera control unit, which is used by the director, with the camera, to adjust focus and preview pictures coming up for selection.

One more camera and control unit have been ordered, along with a dumitter, or miniature transmitter. The dumitter feeds the picture through a cable to the receiver for closed circuit operation.

Outfit Standard

The complete outfit, which is the standard for small station operation, produces a picture and wave forms of professional quality.
