

Building Oregon

1876-1953 yes, Lumber has made Oregon a great state. Here are just a few of the things that lumber has done for Oregon—

- Oregon is America's greatest lumbering state.
- Every year since 1938, more than 26 million acres of commercial forests have been harvested.
- Oregon's lumber goes to every state in the Union and many foreign countries.
- Forest products reach the total average of $803, 375,00 a year.
- Oregon produces about one-fourth of the nation's lumber output.
