

Pre-med Student Scholarship Awarded to Lowell, Williams

Ronald Lowell and Christopher Williams have been awarded the Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie Memorial scholarships for the "outstanding pre-medical student."

Although the scholarship is ordinarily awarded to only one student each year, the superior scholastic records of the two winners occasioned the duplicate awards.

The scholarships, established as a memorial to Kenneth A. J. Mackenzie, former dean of the University of Oregon medical school, is endowed through a bequest from the late Mrs. Mildred Anna Williams. Made during the student's last year in premedical study on the Eugene campus the scholarship provides $200 for that year and $2000 for each of his four years in medical school, with the provision that he maintains a high scholarship rating.

Lowell, a senior, entered the University in 1950 as the freshman recipient of the Standard Oil of California $500 leadership award, which has been renewed each year since that time. He is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman men's honorary; Friars, senior men's honorary; and one of the Phi Beta Kappa "senior six" this year.

He has a 3.93 grade point average, and received the Koyle cup in the spring of 1953 as the outstanding all-around junior man on campus.

Williams, a graduate student, has a 3.97 grade point for his time on campus. He is a member of last year's "senior six;" Phi Eta Sigma; Pi Delta Phi, French honorary; Alpha Phi Omega, service honorary; Friars; Sigma Xi, national science honorary, and in 1952 received the Zimmerman scholarship as an outstanding senior.

Both men are members of Asklepiads, premedical honorary.

America First

The most agreeable foreign country to Brazilian students is the United States, according to a newspaper survey there. Of 1,422 students polled, the U.S. got 30 per cent of the votes.

Italy and Switzerland tied for second place with 13 per cent apiece. Eight per cent favored Britain, France, Portugal and Germany. Switzerland was termed the "most civilized" country in the world.

NCP to Sponsor UT Costume Party

A costume party, sponsored by the National Collegiate Players, will be held in the University theater Jan. 15 at 8 p. m.

The public is invited, according to Clarence Suiter, president of the sponsoring group.

Costumes for the no-date affair should depict the title of a play or movie, Suiter said.

Entertainment will be provided by NCP members, refreshments will be served and a door prize offered.

Suiter said the group hopes to make the party an annual affair.

Monday Deadline For Editor Petitions

Petitions for editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald will be accepted until 5 p. m. Monday. They may be turned into Dick Williams, secretary of the student publications board, on the mezzanine floor of the Student Union.

The publications board will interview candidates and make its selection of the new editor at its monthly meeting Jan. 13. The new editor will take over the Emerald at the end of this month.

Honorary Pledges Women Writers

Thirteen women have been pledged by Chi Delta Phi, national literary honorary, according to Valera Vierra, president. Members are selected from women interested in short story, poetry and play writing.

Stern to Do Study On Burma Dialects

A study of disappearing hill languages of Burma will be the research project of Theodore Stern, assistant professor of anthropology, in the coming year. He will work under a Fulbright award.

Stern, a specialist in linguistics, has made a study of Indian languages, particularly that of the Klamaths.

The Burma research will be under the University of Rangoon and will cover approximately nine months of the 1954-55 academic year.
