

OSC-Idaho, Wash.-WSC Students to Get Look At Wrestlers Saturday

Northern Division basketball got underway this week at Eugene with the Oregon-Idaho series but the competition really gets heavy on the coming week-end as four big games are on tap.

The unpredictable Idaho Vandals move into Gill coliseum Friday and Saturday nights for two clashes with Slat's Gill's rangy Oregon State Beavers.

WEEKEND GAMES
Idaho at Oregon State
Washington at WSC

On the same two evenings at Pullman, Washington, the Cougars of Washington State play host to Washington's defending champion Huskies.

By the time these contests are all completed Saturday night, basketball fans along the Pacific Coast ought to be much more in the light as to which teams will be the ones to beat this season.

O.S.C. Favored

At the present writing everyone is pretty well agreed that O. S. C. and its automatic scoring machine, seven foot-three inch Wade Halbrook, has to be placed right at the top in the list of favorites. The Beavers on paper appear to have everything needed to waltz away with the N. D. crown.

The biggest threat to the Gillmen's title plans appears to be Idaho so when these two quint's square off for their week-end tussles the chips will definitely be on the table. By virtue of their two game split with Oregon's Ducks the Vandals must win at least one of the games with the Beavers in order to stay in the running for the championship.

Must Stop Halbrook

Idaho's hopes for victory against Oregon State will probably rest on the shoulders of their six foot eight inch center, red-headed Dwight Morrison, who will no doubt get the toughest defensive assignment of guarding Halbrook. If Morrison can do a reasonably good job of holding down his skyscraping opponent and also produce a few points of his own the Vandals might have a chance. Chuck Finley's courtsters demonstrated in the Oregon games that they have the speed and the scoring punch to stay with the Beavers if they can just find a counterpart to Halbrook.

The W. S. C.-Washington games, although not drawing as much interest as the O. S. C.-Idaho affairs, should be very revealing. Both teams are conceded little chance of getting far this year as far as championship intentions are concerned but both have crafty coaches and either one might prove to be a "darkhorse" contender.

Tippy Dye's Huskies, minus all five of last year's starting lineup, have lost eight straight contests this season and have yet to score their first win. However, all of Washington's games have been against top flight competition and this probably makes them look much weaker than they actually are.

Parsons Leads Huskies

Big scorer for the Huskies so far has been their big pivot man, Dean Parsons, who has tallied 146 points in the eight Washington pre-conference games for a neat average of 18.3 per game. Parsons will be counted on to score heavily against the Cougars this week-end.

Against Dye's hoopsters Coach Jack Freil of Washington State will send a team onto the boards whose talents are somewhat unknown. W. S. C. has many veterans returning from their team of last year but in games to date the Pullman lads have left much to be desired in the way of playing ability. High scoring forward, Ron Bennink, has been the only Cougar to show any consistent pointmaking skill at all.

University of Oregon students get their first glimpse of collegiate wrestling in twelve years Saturday when Coach Bill Hammer puts his grapplers on the line against Oregon Tech in McArthur court at 2:30 p. m.

The Frosh, under the coaching of Bill Denman, go to the post earlier in the day, taking on Klamath Falls high school in an 11 a. m. preliminary match.

Eight bouts are slated for both teams, each bout lasting three rounds of three minutes each. Collegiate rules will govern the action.

This is the first match in an eleven game schedule that Hammer has lined up for his mat men. Most of the competition will come from state opposition, but there will be engagements with Washington State and California.

THEY STARTED OUT EVEN AT GRADUATION:

Why is one doing better now?

You may not see it in their outward appearances — but there's a big difference between these young men. One has held three jobs in the five years since graduation. He's still looking for a job that offers him a lifetime career. The other has been with a Bell Telephone Company during that time. He's on his way up!

Seventy-five per cent of college men hired by the Bell Companies since World War II are still with these telephone companies after five years! Here's why:

Telephone Work Is Interesting — You may train to supervise forces engaged in constructing, installing or maintaining telephone facilities; or to manage groups of people handling customer contact, accounting or statistical work. You may work on engineering problems or be engaged in planning or other important staff activities, such as personnel relations, public relations, or revenue studies.

You Grow with a Growing Business — The Bell System is one of the fastest growing businesses in the world. Since the end of World War II, it has spent about nine billion dollars for new construction. The past five years have seen the introduction of network TV transmission, dialing of Long Distance calls and the development of the remarkable transistor. And the next five years will bring many more changes. In addition, each year the number of college people hired is related to estimates of the number of future management positions to be available.

No matter what your military status, it's worth inquiring about Bell System employment opportunities. Your Placement Officer has the details. See him soon. And be sure to talk to our employment representatives when they visit the campus. The time to plan your future is now!
