

Tweedell, Adams, Named New Journalism Instructors

Two new faculty members have been added to the University of Oregon school of journalism this term. They are Robert Tweedell and Roy Adams, instructors in journalism.

Tweedell, who teaches advanced reporting, came here from Denver Post where he held the position of make-up editor. He graduated from the University of Oregon journalism school in 1950.

The advanced reporting class was formerly taught by Paul Deutschmann, assistant professor of journalism, who is now studying at Stanford.

The new instructor for principles of advertising, Roy Adams, has a retail advertising agency in downtown Eugene.

Adams has held positions on the advertising staffs of the Pontiac Illinois Daily Leader, the Grants Pass Courier, and the Valley Times in North Hollywood, California. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Illinois in 1946 and his master's degree here.

All Visitors Barred By Campus Hospital

The infirmary was closed Wednesday morning to all visitors because it was filled to capacity, it was announced Wednesday afternoon. Length of the ban on visitors is uncertain.

The number of cases of infectious diseases in the infirmary prompted the closure when capacity was reached Wednesday.

Paintings Of Congo Displayed In Library

Scenes of the Belgian Congo painted during the 1870's by Lievan Van de Velde are now on display in the circulation lobby of the library. The material for the exhibit came from the special collections division of the library.

The watercolors were painted by Van de Velde, an officer in the Belgian army, when he was stationed on the lower Congo at Viri. A bound volume of letters from Henry M. Stanley, African explorer, to the artist is also on display.

Registration Drops For Current Term

Enrollment at the University of Oregon at the end of the first week of winter term was down 354 from the fall term registration figure, according to figures of the registrar's office made available to the Emerald Wednesday by the University News Bureau.

The winter term figure of 3659 is an 8.8 per cent drop from the fall term enrollment of 4013. It is also 4.4 per cent lower than the 3830 registered winter term, 1953.

Last fall term's registration dropped 4.3 per cent from the 4231 who registered fall term, 1952. The enrollment drop between fall and winter term last year was 401, or 9.4 per cent.

Of the total number who dropped from fall term, five per cent were men and three per cent were women.

TV Housewarming Scheduled March 3 In Villard Studio

"TV Housewarming," a sneak preview of television facilities in the Villard studios, has been scheduled for March 3. Kappa Rho Omicron, radio honorary, is sponsoring the event.

Campus entertainers will perform for the first time before new Dage cameras. Demonstrations of televising tricks and tours of the KWAX studios are other features of the "housewarming."

Although the University has had possession of two cameras since early fall, actual closed circuit operations were delayed pending arrival of additional equipment.

"This two-hour housewarming is designed for all students and instructors, whether or not they share a professional interest in the field," said Gordon Rennie, president of Kappa Rho Omicron.

The following committee chairmen were assigned at Monday's meeting: engineering, Ken Whittle; entertainment, Paul McMullen, Dick Hiatt and Loann Morgan; hospitality, Mary Wilson and publicity, Mary Patterson.

Story by James Hall To Be in Prize Group

A short story, "Estates and Trespasses" which originally appeared in Epoch, by James B. Hall, assistant professor of English, has been selected for inclusion in "Prize Stories 1954: The O. Henry Awards," which is scheduled for publication today. The 23 prize-winning stories included were selected from 14 magazines, including the New Yorker and Harpers.

The 1954 edition is the first publication of the series in two years. The two-year lapse followed the death of Herschell Brickell, former editor.

New co-editors of the series are Paul Engle and Hansford Martin, both of the State University of Iowa.
