

Talk Features Slides From Japanese Life

"Japan in Pictures," the story of everyday life in Japan, will be the topic of the browsing room lecture at 7:30 tonight in the Student Union.

Paul S. Dull, associate professor of history and political science, will show documentary slides he took last year while doing research on the political behavior of Japanese farmers. Wallace S. Baldinger, associate professor of art, who also spent last year in Japan, will be discussion leader following the showing of the slides.

Dull chose Okayama for his research, because it was a town untouched by the influence of the American G.I. It is a town about 100 miles south of Kobe, Japan.

The first half of the slides to be shown depict the everyday scenes in this town. Street scenes with unglamorized shops and houses will be stressed.

Second half of the slides in the lecture will show scenes in the rice-farming countryside where Dull worked. An attempt has been made by Dull to show in his slides the typical everyday life of Japan.

Two weeks ago in the browsing room, Baldinger was the guest lecturer, presenting his slides on the "Art of the Common Man in Japan." Dull acted as discussion leader for that lecture.

All 'Moon Is Blue' Tickets Are Sold

Tickets to all performances of "The Moon Is Blue," University Theater's next production, are sold out, according to Mrs. Gene Wiley, theater business manager.

Students and faculty members who do not have tickets, but wish to see the play, may put their names on the waiting list, Mrs. Wiley said. They will be called if any cancellations are made, she added.

The play will open in the arena theater Friday and run through Feb. 18. It will be presented nightly, except Sundays. The production is under the direction of Horace Robinson, associate professor of speech.

Requests for tickets may be made at the theater box office. The office will be open daily this week from 1 to 5 p. m.

Squeeze Scheduled In SU After Game

The annual Lemon - Orange Squeeze will be held Saturday night, immediately following the Oregon-Oregon State basketball game in the SU ballroom.

Furnishing the music for the dance will be the "Four Shades of Rhythm."

Donna Aaris, freshman in art; Ann Stearns, freshman in music; and Bob Kelly, sophomore in liberal arts, will furnish entertainment at intermission. Boyd Harris, freshman in art, will be master of ceremonies.

Twenty cents will be charged for admission, for the no-date or date affair. Campus clothes will be in order.

'Smarty Party' Set Tonight In SU

The annual "Smarty Party," for all freshmen women who made a 3 point or better grade point fall term, is slated for tonight at 6:30.

The affair, sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, will be held in the Student Union. Phi Theta and Kwama, junior and sophomore women's honoraries will serve refreshments.

The three sophomore women who hold the highest cumulative grade average for their freshman year will be presented with the Mortar Board plaque. The presentation will be made by Mrs. Golda P. Wickham, director of women's affairs.

Marilyn Patterson, senior in speech, and Spencer Snow, sophomore in liberal arts, will provide entertainment.

Seventy-one women, contacted last week by invitation, are expected to attend, according to Sandra Price, Mortar Board president. Any eligible woman who did not receive an invitation to the "Smarty Party" should call Miss Price or the office of women's affairs.

ber of the band as is Jack Woodward, who plays the tenor saxophone.

Pauline Paul, one of Portland's top song stylists, is the female vocalist, and Ralph Wood serves as male vocalist as well as playing sax.

Further plans for the dance, which will be formal, will be discussed this afternoon at a meeting of the committee chairmen with the senior class officers, according to Pres. Paul Lasker, who is serving as general chairman.

Lasker's assistant chairmen are Ben Schmidt and Al Oppliger, and Nancy Reine is chairman of programs and chaperones.

Bob Barry and Jack McClenahan are ticket co-chairmen, and Jane Flippo and Dick Briggs are co-chairmen for decorations. Jack Lally and Anne Ritchey are publicity co-chairmen.

AWS Offices Open For Petitioning

Petitions for officers of the Associated Women Students are due at 5 p. m. next Wednesday. Petitions are to be turned in to AWS Vice-Pres. Jean Mauro at Alpha Chi Omega.

Junior women are eligible for the position of president and vice-president; sophomore women, secretary and treasurer, and freshman women, sergeant-at-arms and reporter. Elections will be held Feb. 18.

Officers for the women's organization are selected annually during winter term and serve for a period of one year.

Lasker Chosen Senior President

Paul Lasker, senior in education, was chosen permanent president of the senior class, and Jean Mauro, senior in liberal arts, was named secretary at the senior class meeting held Tuesday afternoon.

The two officers will serve as coordinators for future class activities following graduation. Lasker was the only nominee for his post. Al Oppliger, senior in business, and Ann Lawrence, senior in history, were also nominated for the secretary position.

About 150 seniors attended the meeting, during which the Senior Ball plans were announced and information on graduation explained. Les Anderson, former alumni secretary, and Herb Nill, the new secretary, were present at the meeting.

Anderson explained the activities of the alumni association. It was announced that Commencement will be held June 13 on Hayward Field, as McArthur Court will be under renovation at that time.

Graduation announcements, caps and gowns, and name card orders, must be taken care of at the Co-op by May 25. In order to graduate, applications for degrees must be filled out at the registrar's office, also by May 25, but should be done winter term, it was announced. The senior class picnic has been set for June 11. The possibility of a class gift will be decided after the senior ball profits can be determined.

Lasker, who was elected class president last spring, presided over the meeting, with the other class officers, Kitty Fraser, vice president, and Ben Schmidt and Oppliger, senate representatives, assisting.

Court to Decide Dental School Spat

(P) — The Oregon State Supreme Court will decide soon whether the University of Oregon dental school in Portland will remain under the University or have an autonomous place in the state system.

The Oregon State Board of Higher Education put the school under the University, but the Oregon Dental association sued to get independence for the school. Circuit Judge Rex Kimmel of Salem then ruled in favor of the dental association, but the state board appealed the case.

Chancellor Charles Byrne said that meanwhile, construction of a new dental school building may be held up until the court's decision.

In other action at its meeting in Portland Tuesday, the state board took into consideration various methods of revising state laws which give the state finance director the power of censorship over state publications.

Tickets Available

Tickets for Friday's basketball game with Oregon State at Corvallis may be obtained at McArthur court ticket office at $1.20 for general admission for adults and $1 for students, according to Sally Stadelman, rally board chairman.

OSC to Teach New Ag. Economics Course

Oregon State College won the right to teach an economics course from the State Board of Higher Education Monday, at the University's loss.

Previous to this time, only the University could teach courses in economics. OSC Pres. A. L. Strand told the board the econ course is necessary to round out OSC's program for graduate students in agriculture.

Acting University Pres. Victor P. Morris, said he had no objection to the agriculture course, but said he felt it should be labeled as an agricultural economics course.

Presidents Testify

The course will be called "Contemporary Economic Thought." Both presidents testified before the board Monday.

Although the catalog will list the course as limited only to graduate agricultural economics students, Strand said the course is definitely general economics.

The board gave permission to teach the course in the feeling that they should do everything possible to help OSC build itself into a "first class institution."

Censorship Feared

The review power of the state director of finance also came under attack at the meeting.

The discussion arose out of a dispute between Strand and Harry Dorman, director of the state department of finance and administration. Strand insists that Dorman's right to review and approve all state publications amounts to censorship power.

Strand did not accuse Dorman of attempting to censor educational publications, but said that the power is there if an unscrupulous director wanted to use it.

The state system and Dorman's office have worked out a gentleman's agreement as a temporary compromise on the review power.

However, the board did feel that a new law is needed to remove the possibility of censorship of educational publications. A representative of the board will meet with Gov. Paul Patterson to discuss proposed changes in the law.

Mu Phi Schedules 'Focus on Bloch'

"Focus on Bloch" will be the title of the music program to be presented at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, in Gerlinger hall.

The program, sponsored by the alumnae of Mu Phi Epsilon, music honorary, will include the playing of the Bloch Piano Quintet by the Oregon Alumnae Quintet. Exine Anderson, assistant professor of voice, will sing Bloch's "Four Poems of Autumn."

A commentary will be given by Helen McFetridge Johnson, one of Bloch's composition students. Admission to the event is $1.

Rally Petitions Are Due Wednesday

Deadline for petitions for membership on the rally board is 5 p. m. next Wednesday, Rally Board Chairman Sally Stadelman has announced.

Most of the positions open are for general committee work, Miss Stadelman said. However, a chairman of publicity and promotion will be selected from among the petitioners.

Any students with a 2 point or above cumulative GPA and a 2 point or above GPA for fall term is eligible to petition. Petition-blanks may be picked up on the third floor of the Student Union and are to be turned in there.
