

Alumni Leaders Meet Saturday

Top University and alumni officials will address the sixth annual Alumni Leader's conference to be held on campus Saturday.

John Richards, vice-chancellor of the state system of higher education will give the main speech at the 1 p. m. luncheon. He will speak on "The Place of a State University."

Other reports on the agenda include "The Year Behind Us and Plans for 1954," by Les Anderson, alumni association director; "Is Our Expanding Grant-in-Aid Program Paying Off?" by Bill Bowerman, assistant athletic director; "Why Liberal Arts?" by Eldon Johnston, dean of the college of liberal arts and the graduate school, and "Community Scholarship," by Charles R. Holloway, Jr., chairman of the alumni scholarship fund.

All county directors, club presidents, executive committee members and other leaders of the Alumni association are expected

Alumni Council Meets Monday

The annual convention of the American Alumni Council, district VIII, will be held on campus Monday and Tuesday. Sessions of the conference open at 10:30 a. m. Monday.

Seward J. Marsh, president of the American Alumni Council from Bowdoin college, will be the featured speaker for the conference. Howard Overback, manager of Taylor and Company, a Portland advertising firm; Ernest T. Stewart, Jr., executive secretary of the American Alumni Council and R. Bronson Harris of the University of Washington will also address the conference.

Attending the sessions will be professional alumni workers representing colleges in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia.

Annual Mixer Follows Game

The traditional post-Oregon State college game mixer, the Lemon-Orange Squeeze, will be held Saturday night following the game. Phyllis Pearson, Student Union dance committee chairman, has announced.

Playing for the dance will be the "Four Shades of Rhythm," a group of University students. Campus clothes will be in order for the Squeeze.

An admission charge of 20 cents will be made, Miss Pearson reports. The dance is of a "stag or drag" nature, she emphasized.

Master of ceremonies for the dance will be Boyd Harris, freshman in art. Appearing on the program will be Donna Aaris, freshman in art; Bob Kelly, sophomore in liberal arts, and Ann Stearns, freshman in music.

to attend the day-long session.

The conference will begin with registration followed by morning, luncheon and evening sessions, an Oregon football highlights film, a reception and the Oregon-Oregon State college basketball game. Tickets for the luncheon and the game will be distributed at the time of registration.

Presiding over the morning session will be Ray E. Vester, vice-president of the association. George M. Corey, president, will deliver the opening remarks at the 9:30 meeting.

Office Petitions Called by YWCA

YWCA officer petitions are still being called for, according to Mrs. Cathy Tribe Siegmund. They will be due Monday at 5 p. m. at the YWCA office in Gerlinger hall. Petitions may also be picked up there.

Executive offices are those of president, first and second vice-presidents, secretary, treasurer, chairman and secretary of the sophomore commission. Juniors may petition for the first three offices, sophomore women for secretary and treasurer spots and freshmen women for sophomore cabinet positions.

Appointive positions are assistant treasurer, junior and sophomore adviser and chairmanships for program, worship, religious growth, public affairs, international affairs, membership, faculty-at-homes, conference, promotion, publicity and service.

Sophomore commission appointive positions are vice-chairman, chaplain and chairmanships of membership, finance, service, social, promotion, Duckling counseling and members-at-large.

Members of the present YWCA cabinet will interview petitioners between Feb. 3 and 15. Elections will be on Feb. 18.

An admission charge of 50 cents will be made for the breakfast, according to Sally Allen and Betty Anderson, general co-chairmen. Representatives from the commission are handling the arrangements for the affair.

Luanne McClure and the public affairs commission will provide the decorations and handle ticket sales. Working on food, serving and cleanup are Sally Calkins and the international relations commission.

Publicity is being handled by the religion and worship commission under Connie Long's direction. The service commission, with Cynthia Vincent, is in charge of the style show. In charge of the modeling are Nan Hagedorn and Adrienne McRae.

Ann Stearns, freshman in music, will provide the background music during the style show. Modeling will be Patricia Deeny, Sue Erickson, Mary Gerlinger, Lynn Gildersleeve, Joan Jolly, Carol Kern, Julie Lewis, Arlene Moad, Mary Sandberg, Barbara Williams and Betty Anderson.

Flood Subsiding In Amazon Area

The worst of the flooding seems to be over at the Amazon flats Malcolm O. Mau, graduate in architecture and manager of the housing project for married students, reported Thursday night.

Mau said that no water had entered the homes, however, to gain entrance to some homes students had to hop or go barefoot.

There was no need for anyone to leave the project Mau asserted, although at least two couples were reported to have left Wednesday night. The student manager explained that perhaps the water slapping around under their floors had kept them awake.

The weather bureau expects the rains to continue today and slack off tonight. Cloudy weather will continue.

Featured on today's Friday at 4 program are Donna Brewer, with a piano solo, Barbara Johnson, a record pantomime, Cece Enman, an accordion number, and the Beta Quartet, winners of the Barber-shop quartet contest held on Dad's day.

Don Parr, senior in speech will be the master of ceremonies. Pat Koeppel, freshman in liberal arts and Bob Porter, sophomore in pre-law are in charge of this Friday's program.

Oregon Picketing Law Ruled Unconstitutional

Oregon's new anti-picketing law was declared unconstitutional Wednesday by Circuit Judge O. J. Millard of Grants Pass. The law, passed by the 1953 Oregon legislature, banned picketing for the purpose of forcing employees to join unions.

Millard said that the law conflicts with the first amendment of the United States constitution, as well as court decisions and an Oregon law of 1940.

He stated that it was a test case, and that it will undoubtedly be appealed to the Oregon supreme court. Millard ruled on a case in which the state labor examiner sought an injunction to force the AFL Culinary Alliance to stop picketing a Grants Pass restaurant.

The owner of the restaurant asked for an injunction under the anti-picketing law. The injunction

'Wonderland' Dance Theme

"Winter Wonderland" will be the theme of the Senior ball Feb. 20, according to Paul Lasker, senior class president and general chairman of the dance.

Band for the dance, which will be formal with dark suits for the men, will be Bill Becker, one of the Northwest's top bands and Portland's largest organized unit.

Ticket sales will begin next week, according to Bob Berry, co-chairman for tickets, and house representatives will be announced early next week.

The Senior ball is for everyone on campus, Ben Schmidt, senior class representative, stressed at Wednesday's joint meeting of the dance's committee chairmen with senior class officers.

Jazz Concert Set for Feb. 10

George Shearing and his jazz quintet will hold a concert in McCArthur court February 10 from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

Shearing, one of the most popular jazz pianists of today, is especially noted for the fact that he was born totally blind.

Starting life in a poor district of London, England, Shearing struggled to the top unassisted. He originally planned on a career in classical music, but when he was 16 he heard recordings by Art Tatum, Teddy Wilson and Fats Waller and became interested in American jazz.

The blind pianist became England's top jazz player winning the British Melody Maker's popularity poll for seven years in succession. He was a regular broadcasting artist at the British Broadcasting corporation.

In 1947 Shearing first came to America to play at the Three Deuces on 52nd St. in New York. The English artist's original style and superb technique amazed New York audiences.

Shearing met his wife Trixie in an air raid shelter in London in 1941 when he was playing the piano at one of the regular concerts given for the occupants. Mrs. Shearing always accompanies her husband on his tours.

Tickets will cost 85 cents and will go on sale at the main desk of the Student Union Feb. 1.

Perry Art Exhibit Continued to June

The exhibition at the art museum which was constructed as part of the recent Perry centennial celebration will be continued until June announces Wallace S. Baldinger, museum head.

A special exhibit of books which was part of the original collection will be on display until the end of next week, Baldinger says.

The art exhibit occupies four galleries, three of which are allotted to Japanese prints from the period prior to Perry's historical visit and the fourth to Perry's historical following Perry for about 20 years.

There are also four large wooden sculptures. Some of the objects on exhibition have never been displayed here before.

Copies of the pamphlet published for the exhibit are still available at the museum, states Baldinger.

'It Happened One Night' To Be At SU Sunday

Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert star in this week's Student Union movie, "It Happened One Night," scheduled for Sunday, at 2:30 and 5 p. m.

The picture won the 1934 Academy Awards for the best picture, of the year, best actor, best actress and best direction. The movie is sponsored by the SU movie committee.

Male Tryouts Monday For 'The Lonely Man'

Male tryouts for the stage production of "The Lonely Man," Frank M. Robinson's short story, will be held Monday in Villard 206 at 4 p. m.

"The Lonely Man" will be a class production and will be produced arena-style. For those interested in gaining stage experience, the one-act play offers numerous parts.

Petitions Due Wednesday For AWS Officer Positions

A call for petitions for the 1954-55 Associated Women Students officers has been issued by Jean Mauro, vice-president. The petitions, which are due next Wednesday, may be turned in to Miss Mauro at Alpha Chi Omega.

Regular ASUO petition forms are to be used, Miss Mauro said. An election slate of two candidates for each office will be selected from the petitioners.

Elections for the six AWS posts will be held Feb. 18, the date set for all-women's organizations elections. Also participating in the elections will be the Women's Recreational association and the Young Women's Christian association.

Applicants for the positions of president and vice-president must be juniors. Sophomore women may petition for secretary and treasurer, and freshmen women for reporter and sergeant-at-arms.

Present AWS officers are Judy McLoughlin, president; Miss Mauro, vice-president; Janet Wick, secretary; Dorothy Kopp, treasurer; Rosemary Hampton, Inter-collegiate representative; (an appointive position); Sally Cummins, reporter; and Paula Curry, sergeant-at-arms.

Rally Petitions Due Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday has been set as the deadline for submission of petitions for the rally board, Sally Stadelman, chairman, has announced. The petitions may be picked up and turned in on the third floor of the Student Union.

Any student who has a 2 point or higher GPA for fall term and a cumulative GPA of 2 point or higher is eligible to petition.

A chairman of publicity and promotion will be selected from the petitioners. Other posts are for general committee work, Miss Stadelman reports.

Miss Stadelman was selected chairman of the board by the ASUO senate last week. She succeeded Al Goldenberg, senior in business, who held the position from the beginning of winter term, 1953 until the end of last fall term.
