UO Faculty Club To Hold Dinner

The University of Oregon Faculty club will hold their annual dinner meeting Friday at 6 p. m. in the clubhouse.

The dinner is free to all faculty men who have paid their $6 annual dues by 5 p. m. today and to all life members of the club.

Governor Paul L. Patterson will give an informal talk following a short business meeting.

Those faculty men desiring to join the club need only send their $6 to J. O. Lindstrom, treasurer, with a note indicating their desire to attend the dinner.

Advanced AFROTC Medical Exams Set

A medical flight examination team will be on campus February 8, to examine all students interested in enrolling in the advanced Air Force ROTC program, according to Col. E. B. Daily, head of the military science department.

To be eligible for the advanced ROTC program a student must have qualified veteran standing, must have two academic years remaining at the University, must not be over 26 and one half years of age at the time of completion of the course and must qualify physically for flight training. However, there are a few openings for non-flying personnel.

Anyone interested should contact the ROTC department before February 8, according to Col. Daily.

Members of Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary, will meet at 6:30 p. m. in the Student Union, according to Janet Wick, president. The meeting is compulsory, she said.

All ticket salesmen for the Senior ball will meet at 4:30 p. m. today in SU 313, according to Bob Berry and Jack McClenahan, ticket co-chairmen.

House chaplains will meet at 6:30 p. m. today, according to Jo Hutchon, Danforth fellow. J. Spencer Carlson, director of admissions will speak on counseling, and a discussion period will follow.

All students interested in working on decorations for the Senior ball should come to the Student Union work room today at 4 p. m., according to Dick Briggs and Jane Flippo, decorations co-chairmen.

Members of the Ski club are to meet in the Student Union at 6:30 this evening, Sonny Stoyanov, president, has announced.

A meeting of the house managers will be held at 6:30 p. m. today in the Student Union. Maytag representatives will attend, according to Gerry Bowden, president.

The Air-Command Squadron will meet at 4 p. m. today in the Student Union to elect officers for vacant posts.

IFC to Receive Advice from Alums

A seven-man group to act as liaison between the Inter-fraternity council, the office of student affairs and the Alumni association was appointed at the annual alumni leaders conference last Saturday in the Student Union.

A. T. (Ted) Goodwin was named chairman of the group, which is to be called the Alumni IFC Advisory board. The group will meet with representatives of IFC and the office of student affairs to discuss common problems, according to Les Anderson, alumni secretary.

Other members of the group are Lou Torgeson, Kurt Olson, Milo Marlatt, Paul Landsdowne, William Robert and Ray Hawk, associate director of student affairs. All are residents of Eugene.

Scholarship Program Expanding in Oregon

by Lee Ramsey
Emerald Reporter

Plans for expansion of a community scholarship program which enabled four Bend high school students to attend the University this year on $200 scholarships is underway, according to Herb Nill, alumni scholarship director.

Present hopes are to include 11 areas under this plan which is managed by a local committee acting in cooperation with the University alumni office. The Bend scholarships, offered for the first time this year, were an experiment to see if the plan would work.

Four freshmen — Charles Austin, Barbara Ream, Ronald Tippets and Barbara Loehr — were the first students to attend Oregon under this plan. A total of $1400 was raised in Bend last year and with the surplus from this sum plus an expected $1000 this year, the Bend committee hopes to award five $300 scholarships for entering freshmen next fall.

The plan is also underway in The Dalles where local chairman Art Miller has already collected $200 toward four or five scholarships to be awarded in this year's high school senior class.

Program Expanded
Money for this project is raised by personal solicitation. The campaign in Bend, under the direction of local chairman Bob Thomas is just beginning to get underway. Besides Bend and The Dalles, community scholarship programs are planned for Eugene, Pendleton, Hillsboro, Hood River, Grants Pass, Albany, Oregon City, Astoria and Klamath Falls.

By fall of 1955 the Alumni association plans to offer about 30 or 40 scholarships of this sort per year. "We feel that it is one of the best projects the University alumni have ever undertaken," said Nill.

Students are selected for these scholarships on the basis of ability plus need for assistance. Selections are made by the University scholarship and financial aid committee in conjunction with the various local committees.

Further expansion of this program will depend on alumni interest, Nill said. Among future prospects for community scholarship programs are Medford and Portland. A problem is raised, however, by the Portland area because it is harder to generate community spirit in such a large area, according to Nill.

Nill travels to the various towns seeking participation in the program to see that the alumni there have a strong enough organization with enough interest to promote the project. The alumni committee in the various cities must then solicit for funds and make plans for the awards and further soliciting.
