

Ducklings Stage Tough Practice

The Oregon Frosh, with three straight impressive wins added to their slate, were put through their paces Thursday afternoon by assistant coach Keith Farnam. Farnam has taken over the reins temporarily from Don Kirsch, who as head baseball coach, is directing the early season conditioning of his diamond men.

To keep the Frosh from becoming stale from lack of competition, Farnam had his team scrimmage against Phi Delta Theta fraternity. The Phi Deltis proved good competition too, dropping a 49-41 game to the speedy Ducklings.

Farnam, substituting freely and working with different combinations, gave the entire Frosh squad a good workout, finishing up with wind-sprints.

The freshmen have two games left on their ten game schedule, both with the Oregon State Rooks. The Rooks and the Frosh have a split in their previous two meetings this season and will finish their series with games at McArthur Court Friday, February 26 and at Gill Coliseum the following night. Both games will precede the Oregon-Oregon State varsity clashes to be played on the same nights.

Waltzing to easy victories over the Linfield Frosh, the Grants Pass All-Stars, and the Reedsport All-Stars in their last three starts, the Ducklings have bolstered their record to five games won against three setbacks.

Oregon Wrestlers Tangle with OSC

The University of Oregon wrestling team will tangle with the Oregon State Beavers in a return match at Corvallis Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m.

Bill Hammer's fast-improving grapplers will be looking for revenge against their favored opponents who downed them rather handily a few weeks back at McArthur Court.

After this match the Ducks will travel to Klamath Falls for a dual with Oregon Tech on Monday afternoon, February 15.

Duck Tankers In Two Meets

Oregon's swimming team left Thursday afternoon for the Inland Empire and a pair of very important dual swimming meets on the coming weekend.

Despite their opening Northern Division loss to the University of Washington, the Duck tankers still have high hopes of picking up a second place finish in the conference this year. This weekend will go a long way in deciding just what their chances are for such a finish.

On Friday afternoon John Borchardt's team takes on the Washington State Cougars at Pullman and on Saturday they move over to Moscow, Idaho for a meet with the Idaho Vandals.

Making the trip for the Ducks were Coach Borchardt, and swimmers John English, Jerry Froebe, Yogi Matsushima, Phil Lewis, Henry Kiuara, Orlando Mathias, Harry Fuller, and Bill Gass.

Selvy Shoots For Records

The National Collegiate Service Bureau has figured out that Frank Selvy of Furman, if he stays healthy, will set five more major basketball scoring records before the season is over.

Selvy already holds the record for most points scored by a major college player in a three-year span. With seven regular season games to go, these additional records are within Selvy's reach: all-time career point total, scoring average for a single season, most points in one season, career scoring average, and largest two-year scoring total.

Selvy's average for 19 games this season is 37.7 points. Bob Pettit of Louisiana State is second with a 32.5 average. Others in the top ten are Arnie Short of Oklahoma City, Bob Schafer of Villanova, Buzz Wilkinson of Virginia, Johnny Kerr of Illinois, Tom Marshall of Western Kentucky, Don Schlundt of Indiana, Richie Guerin of Iona, and Togo Palazzi of Holy Cross.

Determined Webfoot Five Faces Crucial Vandal Tilts

The University of Oregon basketball team will face one of their most crucial series of the season Friday and Saturday nights when they take on the strong Idaho Vandals in a two game set scheduled for Moscow, Idaho.

The Ducks, currently tied with Oregon State for first place in the Northern Division championship race, will have to win at least one of the Vandal tussles if they are to retain any hopes of winning the crown this season. Two victories would be of tremendous value to the Webfoot cause.

Coach Bill Borchers' outfit will go into the series rated as about a toss-up with their opponent despite the fact that the Ducks have a much better seasonal won-loss record than Chuck Finley's five. The Idahoans have been playing very unpredictable ball as of late and because of this it is hard to tell just how they will play when they take the court against the Oregons.

Teams Split

In their first pair of games at McArthur Court earlier this year the two teams split, the Ducks winning the first contest 81-63 and the Vandals coming back to take the second fray by a 60-53 score.

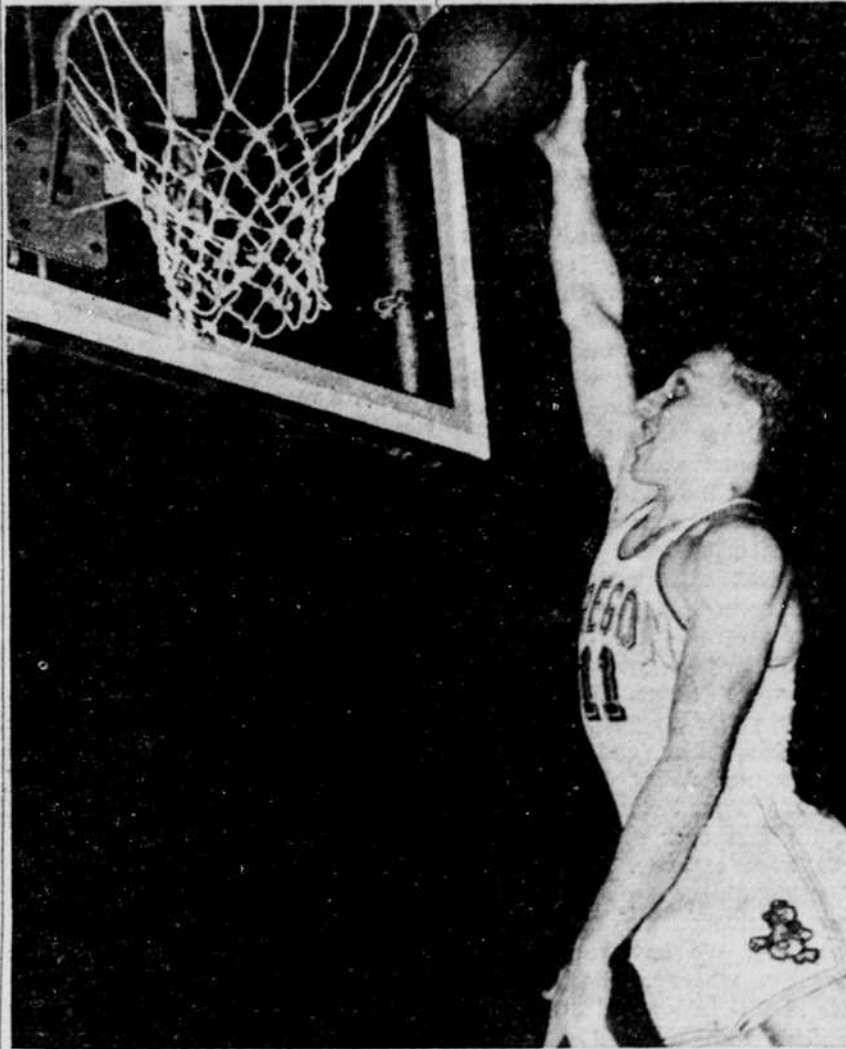

Oregon chances for a sweep of the two games will depend on the Ducks ability to hit with a good percentage of their shots. Idaho will have a definite height advantage and will no doubt get more shots at the basket than the visiting Webfoots and, therefore, it will be necessary for Oregon to outshoot them if they are to come out on top.

Borchers has indicated that he will probably stick with the same starting line-up as he has used in the last few games. If he does the first five will consist of Ed Halberg and Jerry Ross at the forward spots; Max Anderson at center; and Barney Holland and Ken Wegner at the guard posts. Also due to see some action will be Howard Page, Ray Bell, and Bob Hawes, the Ducks' first line substitutes.

Finley Names Starters

A probable opening line-up for Idaho as named by coach Finley late in the week had Harlan Melton and Tommy Flynn at forwards; Dwight Morrison at center; and Bob Falash and Bob Garrison in the backcourt.

Duck Hustler

JERRY ROSS, hustling Duck forward, will be in the starting line-up tonight and Saturday when Oregon takes on Idaho in an important Northern Division series at Moscow, Idaho. Ross is a six-foot, one-inch sophomore from Portland.
