

'Wonderland' Ball Set for Saturday

PILING UP SNOWFLAKES for the Senior ball are Dick Briggs and Jane Flippo, decorations co-chairmen, and Nancy Reine, chairman of chaperones and programs for the dance.

"Winter Wonderland," the first formal dance of the school year, will begin at 9 p. m. Saturday night and last until 12:30 a. m. It is sponsored by the senior class, under the general chairmanship of Paul Lasker, class president.

Tickets may be purchased at the Student Union main desk today until 5 p. m. for $2 each. They may also be obtained at the dance, according to Jack McClenahan and Bob Berry, ticket co-chairmen.

Music will be furnished by Bill Becker, whose orchestra is one of Portland's largest organized units with twelve pieces and a female vocalist.

The group has been house band at Jantzen beach ballroom, the Palais Royale and McElroy's in Portland and has played at many college campuses.

Players Featured

Featured players with Becker's band include Max Evans on the alto sax and clarinet and Hal Swafford on the trombone. Swafford was with Alvino Rey for several years.

The trumpet player, Larry Morrel, was featured on a national television show. Playing the tenor sax is Jack Woodward. Ralph Wood plays sax and is male vocalist, with Pauline Pauls the featured female vocalist.

Color scheme for the decorations is blue and white, and the ballroom will be decorated with twenty large cotton snowballs suspended from the ceiling.

The decoration committee, under the direction of co-chairmen Dick Briggs and Jane Flippo, will be working on decorations today from 3 p. m. to 1 a. m. and Saturday from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. They have asked anyone interested to assist them.

Chaperones Named

Official chaperones for the evening will be Howard L. Ramey, instructor in speech, and Mrs. Ramey. Other chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Victor Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sabine, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Esslinger, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Little, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Hollis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacobson and Mr. A. B. Stillman.

Other chaperones include Mr. and Mrs. E. W. E. Baird, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. Donald DuShane, Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. Wickham and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hawk.

Flowers for the dance are optional, according to Lasker. Formals are in order for women, with dark suits or tuxes for men. He emphasized again that the dance is open to everyone on campus.

Students Will Observe World Day of Prayer

Oregon students will join students in 56 nations in observing a Universal Student Day of Prayer Sunday.

All students and faculty members are invited to participate in the inter-denominational service in Gerlinger hall. The service will begin at 9:45 p. m. and will end in time for church services.

Lost Your Keys?

Do you have all your car keys? Better take a quick check, because at this moment there are 15 ignition keys at the police station, all belonging to campus cars. The police department has asked students with missing keys to inspect the keys they have on hand, police Sergeant Nelson has announced.

The Wesley House choir will provide music and both international and American students will participate in the service. Bill Walker, senior in philosophy, has arranged special music and Joan Hutchon, Danforth fellow, arranged the service.

This is the first time that an inter-faith service has been held on campus except for special religious celebrations such as Easter and Thanksgiving. The event is being sponsored by the University Religious Council.

The Day of Prayer is also being sponsored by the World Student Christian Federation, which encompasses most of the Christian movements in the world. Sunday is also the first day of World Brotherhood Week.

Moroccan Writer Speaks Tonight

A man who once visited King Ibn Saud and King Abdullah of Jordan and published a book about these two monarchs will lecture in the Dad's Lounge of the Student Union at 8 this evening.

Speaking on Morocco, Rom Landau has been internationally acknowledged as the leading authority on that country. He is also the author of a biography on Mohammed V, the present Sultan of Morocco.

His survey of Morocco was published by the Carnegie Endowment of International Peace in 1952. He is also the author of numerous articles on the area which have appeared in London and American newspapers and magazines. Landau's books have been translated into French, Dutch, Danish, German and Polish.

During the second world war Landau volunteered for the Royal Air Force and became an air-gunner in bombers. He was later made a member of the Arab Committee of the Intelligence Department in the Foreign Office in London.

For the last five years Landau has concentrated exclusively on Morocco and Moroccan affairs and has written five books about that country. Last year he taught courses in Moroccan history and civilization and Islamic mysticism at the American Academy of Asian Studies.

Amphibians' Show Plays Second Night

"Under the Big Top", water pageant written and produced by Amphibians, women's swimming honorary will be presented tonight at 8 p. m. at the men's pool. Tickets cost 80 cents and may be purchased at the booth outside the pool before the performance. The show opened Thursday night.

Decorations, costumes and acts will be coordinated to the central circus theme. Ten main acts, intermission entertainment, and a grand finale will be included in the production, which is to be a water version of a real circus.

Scott Lehner, sophomore in speech, will be master of ceremonies. He will play a sideshow barker and "call" the audience to each act. Featured at the intermission will be clowns who will also do exhibition diving.

Other features included in the main acts will be a Merry-Go-Round, the use of black light and "body lights" to create unusual effects.

Johnston to Deliver Memorial Address

The eighth annual Eric Allen Memorial lecture will be given today in the SU at 2 p. m. by William F. Johnston, managing editor and editor of the editorial page of the Lewiston, Idaho Morning Tribune.

Johnston's lecture, "The Ingredient of Integrity," will be addressed to all interested students and to the Oregon Press conference, meeting for the 35th year on the Oregon campus.

Women Elect 3 Presidents

Three juniors — Janet Wick, Mary Wilson, and Nikki Trump — won the top offices of three campus women's organizations in the annual winter term women's elections held Thursday.

Miss Wick was elected president of the Associated Women Students, defeating Rosemary Hampton, who will become vice-president. Miss Trump is the new president of the Women's Recreation association. Her opponent, Sally

Nan Hagedorn, and sophomore commission secretary, Annie Laurie Quackenbush. Betty Anderson, who opposed Miss Hagedorn for the sophomore commission chairmanship, will serve as vice-chairman of the commission.

Constitution Passed

The new WRA constitution was passed with only two opposing votes, Mary Jordan, present WRA president reported.

Installation of the new officers for all three groups will take place at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the Student Union, according to Jean Mauro, out-going AWS vice-president who supervised the elections.

JANET WICK
New AWS President

Stadelman will serve as WRA vice-president.

Elected to head the campus YWCA, Miss Wilson defeated Camille Wold, who will assume the duties of first vice-president of the YW. Carol Cross was elected YW second vice-presidency.

Other Winners Named

Other winners in the AWS elections were: Secretary, Jane Bergstrom; treasurer, Edna Humiston; sergeant-at-arms, Margaret Tyler, and reporter, Marcia Mauney.

The other victorious YW candidates are: Secretary, Hope Holgeron; treasurer, Gail West; sophomore commission chairman,

Tuesday Assembly Features Britisher

A native Britisher, Sir Ernest Llewlyn Woodward, will address a University assembly at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Student Union ballroom. Woodward will be introduced by W. H. Stephenson, professor of history.

Woodward is currently editing an official collection of documents from the British foreign office archives on British foreign policy, from 1919 to 1939. He is also a professor at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, New Jersey, and an honorary fellow of Worcester college, Oxford.

A member of the American Philosophical Society and a former Rhodes travelling fellow, Woodward is the author of "Christianity and Nationalism in the Later Roman Empire," "Three Studies in European Conversation," "The Twelve - Winded Sky," "War and Peace in Europe," "French Revolutions," "Great Britain and the German Navy," "The Age of Reform," "Short Journey," "British Historians," and "History of England."

He has been awarded an honorary degree of doctor of literature by Princeton. Woodward has served as lecturer and professor in modern history and professor of international relations at Oxford university.

Badeau Explains Need for Interest

by Joe Gardner
Emerald News Editor

The United States must take an interest in the Near East for the area's own sake and not for the sake only of gaining an ally against Russia, John Badeau, president of the Near East foundation in New York told a crowd of students, professors and townspeople Thursday afternoon in the Student Union ballroom.

Appearing in the fourth University assembly of winter term, Badeau spoke on the topic "What Is at Stake in the Near East?" The speaker returned from a trip through Egypt, Iran, Syria, Lebanon and Greece only last summer. He has worked in the area for more than 20 years.

The Near East is more than the Suez Canal, more than the oil fields of Arabia or the airfields in a Middle-East defense pact — the Near East is its people, Badeau said, and it was from their point of view that he approached his topic.

Phrases Used

Three phrases, which Badeau expressed in Arabic words, sum up the problems of the area in the mind of the speaker. The phrases are: 1) "To get together," 2) "The Rule of Things," and 3) "Food." The major part of his address was devoted to an explanation and elaboration on these three points.
