Brotherhood?

This week is labeled National Brotherhood week. This week also the Oregon High School International Relations league is meeting on our campus.

It is ironic that this week our editorial page and our news columns have been filled with discussions on racial discrimination at the University of Oregon.

Discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion or creed has traditionally been one of the biggest barriers standing in the way of a national recognition of brotherhood. It has traditionally been one of the festering sores of a nation vocally striving for that brotherhood and the betterment of mankind.

Prejudice is the basic factor lying behind such discrimination. And prejudice is a lesson which has been long in the learning. It is deeply embedded in the very fibre of many segments of our population.

We can express shame for those who walk with prejudice. But we can never forget that they are people and that we too are people. And man is such a fragile little animal at times.

We know that laws are but an expression of a society. We know that written laws and rules do not eliminate beliefs and social mores. We do not like to see such practices driven underground. Let us keep a knowledge of our prejudice and our smallness out in the open where we cannot forget... where we must face our weakness day after timeless day.

Let us not sit as judges against our brother men. But rather let us reach out with the weapons on hand to eliminate the problems a law could only cover up.

Yes, let us reach out, with education, understanding, personal honesty and firm beliefs the tools we use to eliminate the very grassroots of American prejudice.

We must stem our impatience. Prejudice is such an awfully personal thing. It is one man and his conscience. We can only prod that conscience.

And if we are sincerely interested in eliminating this problem, we will not antagonize those unfortunates who see a world through the distortion of their prejudice. Remember, it should be easier to be discriminated against than to discriminate.

Appreciation Voiced

Emerald Editor:

Rally squad and rally board would like to voice their appreciation for the fine support which the student body gave us in the Wednesday night rally.

In addition, we would like to tell John Bigelow and the Oregon Pep band, and the combined Dixieland band from Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon how much their "music" did to promote rally spirit.

Congratulations to the Millrace houses on making the most noise.

Religious News Editor

Newman Club

Sunday is Newman Sunday, the day in the year set aside to honor Cardinal Newman, patron of Newman clubs on English-speaking secular campuses. The purpose of this year's theme, "Newman's Idea in Action," is to increase the students' awareness of the way in which local Newman clubs are carrying out the educational proposals made by Cardinal Newman in his book, "The Idea of a University."

All Catholic students are urged to attend the meeting Sunday at 7 p. m. in the chapel of Sacred Heart hospital. After the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, Rev. Lewis Sohler of Springfield will be the guest speaker. A social hour in the recreation room will follow the meeting.

Canterbury Club

A lecture in the series of inquirer's forums will be given Sunday by Rev. Robert Ellis, chaplain to Episcopalian students and faculty. The forum will center around the topic of the development of the church during the reformation period. A service of evening prayer will be held at 6 p. m. at St. Mary's Episcopal church, Thirteenth and Pearl streets, followed by an informal supper and the lecture.

Christian House

Tonight after the game there will be an informal open house at Christian house. Saturday at 6 p. m. cars will leave for Corvallis where Eugene students will be guests of the Corvallis Christian house at an after-the-game party.

Sunday the "Donut Hour" will be held at 9:15 a. m., followed by Bible study classes taught by Victor Morris, acting president of the University, and Clarence Elliott, dormitory food storekeeper. The latter group is for married students and graduate students. At 5:30 p. m. worship will be followed by a discussion centered around the purpose of Disciples' Student fellowship, with fourteen students who have attended national DSF conferences leading the participation. The international fireside will be from 9 to 10 p. m. with Bob Griffith, sophomore in political science, in charge.

Wednesday at 5:30 p. m. there will be a potluck dinner with Libby Briscoe, junior in sociology, in charge. The St. Patrick's Day motif will be used. Following the dinner, the executive council will meet.

Luther House

Lutherische Frauleinen, and any other kind too — This is a chance to confirm any convictions one may have as to the merits of men as cooks. Instead of the usual Sunday evening luncheons, a reverse basket social is to be held at Luther house this week at 5 p. m. The men are to make up the baskets and the women will do the bidding. Pastor Aalbue from the Central church will give the address following the social. His topic will be "Turning Our Eyes to the Cross."

On Friday and Saturday the basketball team will journey to Salem for the YMCA Regional Basketball tourney.

Beginning Wednesday and continuing on through the Lenten season there will be a twenty-minute meditation from 7:30 to 7:50 a. m. each Wednesday. A portion of the Scriptures concerning the passion of Jesus will be read at these meetings.

Westminster Foundation

Tonight after the game an open house will be held. Students from the Oregon State Westminster foundation will be the guests for an evening of dancing and games. Refreshments will be served.

Sunday at 9 a. m. there will be a coffee hour, followed by a Bible class which is continuing its study of Christian doctrine under the leadership of Rev. Thom Hunter. Transportation to local churches for the 11 a. m. service is available. At 6 p. m. at the vesper service a second in the exposition of the series on "Your God is Too Small," will be presented by Rev. Hunter, whose topic is "Unreal Gods." A coffee hour discussion will follow.

Channing Club

Channing club will hold an open forum meeting at the Unitarian church, 11th and Ferry Streets, Sunday evening at 7. The subject for the discussion will be "Concepts of Immortality." Refreshments will be served.
