

SHOW MUST GO ON

UO Assembly Has Trials, Tribulations

By Pat McCann
Emerald Feature Writer

When you, the audience, see "Show Business — U. of O." at 8 p. m. Wednesday in McArthur court, you'll see a smooth running, enjoyable show that won't reveal the hours of work and the trials and tribulations that went into it.

For example, at last Tuesday night's rehearsal before the show went to Corvallis on Wednesday, it was discovered that the sets were missing. Janitor, thinking the sets were part of the Senior ball decorations, had burned them!

After the shock had worn off, Pat Henry, Keith Cameron, Don Foss, Scott Lehner and Don Finlay started to build new ones. They worked from 10 that night until 5:30 Wednesday morning, using any kind of scrap they could get. "The results were ultimately better," according to Henry.

This year's exchange assembly is a survey of show business. Using songs, dances, skits, magic and dialogues, the cast shows its audience scenes from the night club, the theater, radio, TV and the movies.

'Girl Hunt' Planned

Girl Hunt is a take-off number on Man Hunt from the movie "Band Wagon." The music for this dance number was arranged especially by Rodger Middleton to fit the movements and dialogue.

For the radio sequence, sections from "The Hour of Zorch," produced over KWAX last term were used. One of the most hilarious numbers is the parody on Ebb Tide.

Magician to Perform

Magician Don Finlay takes over part of the night club sequence to amuse and amaze his audience with feats of magic.

Donna Maulding uses another type of magic, woman's intuition and knowledge of her husband, played by Scott Lehner. Without ever looking at him she knows exactly what he is doing throughout their skit.

These and the other scenes in the assembly are integrated by the patter of master of ceremonies Jim Jones. Co-directors of the assembly are Gloria Lee, junior in speech, and Pat Henry, sophomore in speech.

Debate Team Goes To Linfield Tourney

Members of the Oregon speech squad will participate in the Linfield Debate tournament in McMinnville Thursday through Saturday. They will compete with teams from 11 western states in the annual tournament, the largest west of the Mississippi.

Competition is divided into junior and senior divisions with trophies awarded first place winners. The team will compete in debate, oratory, extemporaneous speaking and other forms of speech divisions.

At last year's tournament, Oregon placed first in debate, second in impromptu and tied for second in senior women's debate.

Math Senior Indicted On Charge of Extortion

The Lane County grand jury Friday indicted John Daily, senior in mathematics, on a charge of extortion.

Daily is accused of telling a Eugene woman he had pictures of her in embarrassing circumstances. He is purported to have offered the pictures to her for $250 and later for $200.

ASUO to Study Game Card Issue

by Jerry Harrell
Emerald Reporter

"We wish there was a better means of identifying students at athletic events," Athletic Director Leo Harris told the ASUO senate at its last meeting. "But pictures on athletic cards are not satisfactory," he added.

Because of the frequent checks of athletic cards this year, the senate has established a committee to determine a better means of identification.

Harris told the senate that the 150 athletic cards picked up at the Indiana basketball game Dec. 22 represented a potential $240 loss to the athletic department in admission prices. He said that the student pays $13.50 a year for his athletic card, a greatly reduced rate, and if he transfers his athletic card he is avoiding a tax.

Revenue Lost

Harris pointed out that it would be impossible to schedule top-flight teams unless a high guarantee could be made. When townspeople and students from other schools enter contests on borrowed cards, this represents a loss in revenue. It hurts the students as much as the athletic department, since the department functions for the students, Harris said.

The senate Thursday received a report of the constitutional committee, which stated that under the ASUO constitution, the delegation of power to the student traffic court was perfectly legal, but that the J. Kelly Farris case is beyond the jurisdiction of the committee. The committee, headed by K. J. O'Connell, professor of law, has the authority to pass on constitutional matters only.

Power Delegated

Director of Student Affairs Donald DuShane told the senate that Farris had overlooked the fact that a student comes to the university under his own volition, and is subject to the rules set up by the University under the power delegated by the state board of higher education.

The state board has specifically delegated the power to rule on automobile parking to the administration, who has in turn delegated the authority to the student court, DuShane added.

Business Machine On Display Today

An exhibition of business machines, held by the National Cash Register Co. will open in the old University high school building today. Company representatives will also lecture to business school classes. Students who wish to attend the exhibit during class hours must sign up at the school of business administration in Commonwealth hall or in room 127 of the old high school building.

According to A. B. Stillman, acting dean of the school, the exhibition will be open to the public from 1 to 3 p. m. today, at 1 p. m. Tuesday and 3 p. m. Thursday.

Job Interviews May be Slated Now

Representatives of General Mills Inc. will be on campus Tuesday seeking men with sound business education rather than specialized training for varied jobs in advertising, comptroller activities, production, production control, purchasing and sales in their firm.

On Wednesday recruiters from E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. will be interviewing doctoral candidates in chemistry and physics.

Prospects for salesmen, accountants, auditors and chemists will be interviewed by Barney Mullaney and H. R. Seeds of Crown-Zellerbach Co. on next Thursday.

Representatives of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. will interview graduates interested in sales, credit, sales accounting, and management, while they are on campus March 5.

Appointments for interviews are made through the office of Karl W. Onthank, Emerald hall. Any additional information may also be obtained there.

• Joanné Woodruff, freshman in liberal arts, has pledged Alpha Chi Omega during winter term women's open rush, according to the off ice of Mrs. Golda Wickham, dean of women.
