

Staffmen Needed: Too Many Sports

With the many spring sports in progress at the present time there has come a need for additional fellows to write sports news. For any fellows interested in gaining experience along the sports writing line this is a good opportunity.

Many assignments are available with the bulk of the work being in covering intramural softball games. Anyone interested should contact Sports Editor Bob Robinson at the Emerald Shack between 2 and 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. If he cannot come in person, he should call ext. 218.

Could Miss Meet

DOUG CLEMENT, Oregon's half mile and 440 ace, might sit out the four-way track meet this Saturday which pits the Webfoots against Oregon State, Portland university, and Lewis and Clark college. Clement showed up with a pulled leg muscle at the Willamette relays.

Oregon Runners Return to Practice For Four-Way Contest in Portland

Bill Bowerman's University of Oregon track and field team returned to extensive practice sessions Tuesday afternoon after muddy conditions hindered Monday's workout.

The Ducks are now training for their weekend meet in Portland in which they are scheduled to compete against Oregon State, Portland university, and Lewis and Clark.

After a good showing in the Willamette relays last Saturday afternoon in Salem, the Webfoots are in hopes of coming home with high honors in this meet, also.

Lack Strength in Field
Bowerman, although he was quite pleased with many of his runners in the opening meet, is still quite concerned over the Duck's apparent lack of strength in the field events. Of the varsity performers who brought home ribbons last Saturday, only pole-vaulter Ken Hickenbottom showed well in the field events.

It is hoped that by this Saturday that distance men, Al Martin and Bill Dellinger, and half-mile artist, Doug Clement, will be back in tip-top shape. Their absence would be sorely missed in the coming meet. Martin and Clement are letter winners from last season and Dellinger is up from the Duckling ranks of one year ago.

Others Expected to Show
Other performers who are expected to show well for the Ducks this weekend are sprinters Bruce Springbett and Ted Anderson, hurdler Chan Sogge, high-jumpers Emery Barnes and Bob Fawcett, and shot-putter Jim Jones.

The Duck trackmen will have their first Northern Division duel meet of the season Saturday afternoon, April 17, on Hayward field.

Duck Bowlers Schedule Trip

Expecting to get their toughest competition from the University of Washington, the Oregon bowling team will leave Thursday afternoon, April 8, for the Intercollegiate Regional bowling tourney which will be held in Seattle this year, April 9-10.

The Ducks, who won the national crown last season, will be favored to win the regional but Lou Bellissimo, Duck coach, expects some rugged competition, especially from the Washington Huskies.

After the regional play-offs, the Oregon bowlers will remain in Seattle to participate in the big ABC tournament which begins Monday in the same city. Some of the top bowlers in the northwest will be competing in this meet and Bellissimo expects the Ducks to have a tough time if they are to place near the top in the standings of the affair.

Ducks, Pioneers Play Two Today

Due to the threatening conditions of the weather Tuesday morning, Tuesday afternoon's baseball game between the University of Oregon and Lewis and Clark college was postponed until today.

Although no rain had fallen early Tuesday, clouds overhead looked very threatening and it was decided by both schools that the best idea would be to change the date of the tussle by one day in hopes of getting better playing conditions.

In changing the game to Wednesday the two nines gained another advantage. The Ducks and Pioneers will have an opportunity to make up the tussle they were scheduled to play last Saturday in Portland which was called off because of an excess amount of precipitation.

Today the teams will play a doubleheader with the first game starting at 1:30 p.m. The second fracas will directly follow the first one.

Scheduling of the Wednesday doubleheader by the Webfoots gave them a slate consisting of seven games in the next four days. The Ducks, after their pair with Lewis and Clark, will travel to Corvallis Thursday for a game with Oregon State, will return home to host Portland University in a doubleheader Friday, and will conclude the week with still another pair of games at Howe field on Saturday against the Willamette Bearcats.

This strange clumping of games will probably keep the pitching staff somewhat overworked but on the other hand ought to give coach Don Kirsch a wonderful opportunity to use lots of substitutes and experiment with all his players. By the time all these contests have been played he ought to pretty well know just what his starting team will be for the opening of Northern Division play, opening of Northern Division play at home against strong Washington State.

Although he hadn't decided for sure Tuesday, Kirsch indicated that he might start right-hander Norm Forbes in the first Lewis & Clark game and use either south-paw Trenton Huls or right-armed Bill Blodgett in the nightcap. The stocky Oregon mentor will probably save one of these three hurlers until Thursday to face OSC's booming bats.

'Get in Condition' McKay Tells Men

"Get in shape for spring football practice!" These were the parting words of backfield coach, John McKay, at the conclusion of Tuesday's varsity football meeting at McArthur court.

McKay announced that official spring practice sessions would begin Monday, April 26, and warned all the players that it would be wise for them to start getting in good physical condition right away.

The main purpose of the meeting, which only lasted a little over 15 minutes, was to get all the fellows intending to go out for football next fall to sign up special class schedule cards for the purpose of checking eligibility.

McKay went through the roster and announced just how many hours it would be necessary for each player to pass in order to be eligible for the grid sport next fall term.

Another topic of discussion was that of summer job possibilities. McKay said that there were many good jobs available for those who were interested in working during the coming summer.
