

'IN PARTY HANDS'

AGS Seeks Primary Ouster

In the closed primary system used previously by AGS in selecting their nominees, a defeated candidate could "step down" to another office.

In a prepared statement distributed at the meeting, the "marked decrease in the number of voters this year as compared with last year," was cited as a criticism of the primary plan.

The "undermining of the very basis of a political party" was also listed as a drawback of the primary. Jim Light, ASUO senator-at-large, expressed the opinion that the convention would instill a great deal of party spirit. As Glass put it, "It would put the control of the nomination back in the hands of the party."

A suggestion that the ASUO primary limits the boundary of political freedom for the voter in the coming elections was also professed.

Earlier this year, in a statement regarding the functions of his party, Glass said that the purpose of AGS is to promote the interest of its members in student government of the University in harmony with the best interests of the student body as a whole. "Active participation by students in campus politics is perhaps the best means of insuring good student government," he stated. Glass last week was selected as the AGS candidate for senior class president.

Platform Announced
The complete platform of the Greeks, which was passed unanimously except for the plank relating to the primary amendment, is as follows:

"The Associated Greek Students stand on the following platform for the 1954 ASUO elections. It is the desire of AGS to elevate the position of student government at the University of Oregon and this platform is designed for that purpose. The proposals herein described are not abstract but are actually within the reach of capable student government.

"1. The ASUO should strive toward the formation of a Northwest Federation of Collegiate Leaders. There is much value in meeting and discussing problems with representatives of other Northwest schools of similar size and nature.

"2. Believing that the exchange assembly program is vital to the public relations program of the University, and that strict censorship is undesirable, the Associated Greek Students advocate re-establishment of the ASUO entertainment commission to evaluate the effectiveness of student entertainment which is intended to be publicly presented.

"3. The Associated Greek Students favor the adoption of the two amendments to the ASUO constitution which are to be voted on at the same time as the ASUO elections.

"A. The amendment concerning freshmen class elections: to elect a freshman candidate only to the office which he is seeking.

"B. The amendment to elect the graduate student member of the ASUO senate at the same time as the freshman class elections are held.

"4. The Associated Greek Students favor revision of the ASUO senate procedure to include use of standing committees.

"5. The Associated Greek Students favor the return of primaries to party level.

Last spring term, one week after former ASUO Vice-President Don Collin had outlined the United Independent Students platform including the statement that "UIS favors an all-campus primary which will allow students democracy in choosing their party candidates, ASUO President Wrightson stated the AGS stand as: "AGS is in favor of the all-campus primary. We feel it would allow the parties to maintain their individuality and at the same time would provide a more expedient method of filling party slates."
