

Duck Trackmen Face WSC Sat

Washington State's defending ND champion tracksters will be looking for one of their toughest meets of the season this Saturday afternoon when they take on the Oregon Ducks in a two-team affair at Hayward field. Starting time for the meet is 2 o'clock.

The Cougars of Jack Mooberry, who defeated the Ducks easily last season 86-44, are slight favorites as a result of illness and injury to three of Oregon's key performers.

Distance runner Al Martin is still out of competition with a pulled leg muscle and 440-yard dash men Ted Anderson and Gordon Dahlquist are both out with bad colds.

Top performers for the WSC squad are Bob Gary, Bill Link and Howard McCants. Gary is the defending champion in both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Link has done the 880 in 1:52.5 and McCants is one of the best high jumpers in the country with a best mark of 6' 7".

In addition the Cougars have ten other returning lettermen.

Frosh Stop Rooks

The Oregon Frosh track team scored an impressive 79½ to 51½ victory over the Oregon State Rook team in a dual meet here yesterday.

Completely sweeping firsts in the field events and in the sprint races, the Duck youngsters grabbed 10 of the 15 first places. Only in the distance running events did the Rooks show superiority, winning all five.

Outstanding performances for the Frosh were Hank Loumena running the 100 yard dash in 10.2 against a stiff breeze, Dave Newland pole vaulting 12' 8", and Ed Bingham tossing the javelin 194' 4". Loumena, Martin Pedigo, Gary Miller and Bud Keck each picked up two firsts for Oregon.

That's the difference between a high school and a college senior. The difference is strictly intellectual of course.

Seniors have the terrible habit of getting carried away with events of the future. For the men's it's events concerning Uncle Sam, and for the women it's the men.

Oregon Tips Idaho, 4-1; Trenton Huls Fans 15

Idaho's baseball Vandals are wondering today just what happened to their booming bats in Thursday afternoon's contest with the Oregon Ducks at Howe field. The Vandals, although they haven't won any ND games to date, have always displayed a good hitting attack in all their tussles. That is to say, until Thursday.

In the final game of their series with Oregon, Idaho found the pitching arm of southpaw Trenton Huls much too tough to handle and went down to a 4-1 defeat at the hands of the jubilant Ducks.

Huls, hurling with the precision of a professional, set the visitors down with six measly hits and in the course of the game struck out 15 Idaho batters. A fluke fly ball doable by first-baseman Bob Haines in the ninth inning scored Frank Teverbaugh from first base to give the Vandals their only run of the tussle. Huls was that close to a shutout.

Huls Finds Victims

Two of Clem Parberry's proud players, Captain Mike Cygler and shortstop Larry Morrison, were especially allergic to Huls' slants. Both of them whiffed four times in four tries. Hard-hitting Bob Falash was another of Huls' victims, going down on strikes three times in his four trips to the plate.

All in all it was a great day for Mr. Huls who was a last second pitching choice of Coach Don Kirsch. Right-hander Farrell Albright was supposed to go to the firing line for the Ducks for this game but he came up with a sore arm just before game time and Kirsch had to give Huls a rush call to warm up.

Big Trenton, using a mixture of drops and curves along with a sizzling fast ball, was seldom in trouble during the game. In the third inning singles by Reg Frazier and Jerry Quane put two men on base but Huls quickly got out of this jam by striking out pitcher Dick Dodel, Falash and Cygler in succession.

Almost a Shutout

After this threat had been thwarted, Huls allowed only two singles in the next five frames and went into the ninth with a shut-out very definitely in sight. Teverbaugh got on a walk but Huls forced Flip Kleffner to fly to right and fanned Morrison to seemingly squelch any Vandal hopes of scoring. But the next batter, Haines, looped a long fly to left which fell just out of Bernie Averill's reach for a double and Teverbaugh came all the way to tally.

PETE WILLIAMS, Oregon baseball captain, came out of a ND batting slump in Thursday's Idaho-Oregon game. Williams singled and scored one of the Duck runs.

Although Oregon's batting onslaught died down somewhat in this game, the Ducks did produce enough punches at the right time to score the win.

The first marker came in the third when Huls and Bob Wagner singled and George Shaw drew a base on balls to load the bases. With Neal Marlett, who hit two homers Wednesday, at the plate Dodel was a little too careful and walked him to force in Huls with the first score of the game.

Johnson Triples

The Ducks picked up two more counters in the fourth. Captain Pete Williams was hit by a pitched ball. Second-sacker Jim Johnson scored him with a triple to right and then scored himself on John Keller's one-baser just over the shortstop's head.

The final Webfoot run came in the seventh when Shaw walked, stole second, was singled to third by Dick Schlosstein and scored on an infield roller by Marlett.

OREGON	3	1	.750
WSC	1	5	.167

The win for Oregon pulled them into a firmer hold on second place in ND standings. The Ducks now trail OSC and Washington by a single game.

The Webfoots have two non-conference games this weekend. They play the Salem Senators of the Western International League at Salem Friday and return to Eugene Saturday for a return game with the same team at 2:30 p.m. on Howe field.

Linksters Oppose Beaver Golf Team

Oregon's linksters are opening their defense of the Northern Division dual match play crown today against Oregon State with an all day, 36-hole match to be played at Corvallis.

A vastly improved OSC team will be out to stop the 26 dual match play win streak currently held by the Duck golfers. Oregon State's team will be led by Don Donnelly, the state junior golf champion in 1952.

Don Krieger and Al Mundle form a capable pair to lead the Oregon team, however, the loss of Beltin' Bob Atkinson, one of the top amateur swingers in the state, due to graduation will undoubtedly be felt in their chances to nab their sixth consecutive Northern Division crown.

Justin Smith, Bob Takano, Howard Zenger and Al Cross will also play important roles today in the Oregon chances of making it 27 matches in a row.
