Three '54 Frosh Get $1000 Awards

The Max D. Tucker Scholarship foundation has selected 10 Oregon students for $1,000 scholarships, according to G. Herbert Smith, chairman of the scholarship committee and president of Willamette university.

Winners who will attend the University of Oregon are Sandra Ann Schori, Salem; Claudia Wurtz, Franklin high, Portland, and Paul Kratzke, Lebanon.

Miss Schori will major in business. She has an extensive background of participation in music and speech activities in Salem and Galesburg, Ill., where she was a member of the all-state band.

Miss Wurtz, editor of the Franklin high Post and member of National Honor Society, will major in journalism. In 1953 she won the Dads' Club scholarship award.

Paul Kratzke, a three-sport letterman and member of Hi-Y and the International Relations league, will major in mathematics. He has attended Boys' State in Salem.

Money for the scholarships is provided by a $100,000 trust fund established in 1952 by the late Max D. Tucker for study at Oregon State college, Oregon, Willamette university and Lewis and Clark college.

High school candidates for the award must rank in the upper 10 per cent of their class and college applicants in the upper 20 per cent of their class. The scholarship committee consists of the presidents of the four colleges.

Nizolius' Writings Subject of Lecture

Writers have been turning out bad imitations of great literature ever since the Renaissance, believes Quirinus Breen, professor of history, who will give tonight's browsing room lecture at 7:30.

Breen, speaking on "The Apes of Cicero" will discuss Nizolius, Renaissance author whose writings closely copied those of Cicero, the great Roman writer.

During the Renaissance people believed that the only way to become a fine writer of Latin was to copy Cicero. Nizolius wrote a Latin dictionary based entirely on Cicero's works. It is still used today, although the last edition was printed in 1820.

Nizolius wrote several philosophical works which Breen also will discuss.

Sally Stadelman Named to Office

Sally Stadelman, sophomore in sociology, was elected vice-president of the newly-organized Oregon Athletic Federation of College Women at its organizational meeting last year. Miss Stadelman is Oregon Rally board chairman and vice-president of the University's Women's Recreation association.

Oregon is one of seven member schools of the state group. Other members are Pacific college, Oregon College of Education, Marylhurst college, Linfield college, Lewis and Clark college and Oregon State college.

The Oregon association is a member of a national federation which represents colleges and universities from 46 states. Founded in 1917, the federation is engaged in setting up and operating athletic and recreational programs for college women.

four people, two of which are young children.

"The speech work is fascinating," she says. "It gives me such a sense of satisfaction." For career ideas, Alma wants to work in a private clinic or teach school, preferably sixth to eighth grades.

She likes all the activities of Oregon, and "especially the people." Favorite hobbies for Alma include all sports, and making scrapbooks for children's homes and for her own enjoyment.

Now president of Phi Theta Upsilon, Janet also is president of Associated Women Students and is general chairman of this year's prom. She is a history major, and wants to be a teacher of history or commercial subjects, or else a counselor.

Skiing, swimming, weaving, ceramics and playing the piano are some of her favorite spare-time activities, and about the University of Oregon she says both her parents went here, and she likes "the subjects, the administration and the general atmosphere."

Wear The Green Or It's the 'O' Machine

Editor note: This feature was written for the Emerald by Doug Clement, president of Order of the O, which is responsible for enforcing Junior Weekend traditions. Since the time this story was written, the Emerald has received reasonably good evidence that Clement and his organization means business. A list of violators submitted by Clement appears elsewhere in this issue.

Order of the "O" President

It'll be too late, girls, when the murky, green waters of Fenton pool close over your heads. It'll be too late then to heed the traditions of Junior weekend.

Open season on freshman men and women not abiding by the old traditions will last all this week. Any frosh found violating these perennial rules will be subject to various corrective measures of enforcement by the Order of the "O" (a benevolent organizations devoted to the preservation of Oregon's hallowed traditions).

Men violators will receive hacks, paint the "O" on Skinner's Butte and scrub the seal at the Student Union.

Women who treat the regulations with abandon can expect a dunking in Fenton pool.

Applications Ready For Pre-Lawyers

All students who are not registered as pre-law majors and who plan to enter the law school next fall should obtain an application for admission immediately, according to Dean Orlando J. Hollis.

The blanks are available in the office of the law school. Application blanks have already been sent to out-of-state students who will be entering the school in the fall, he said.

Sigma Delta Pi Elects New 1954 Officers

The combined Oregon and Oregon State chapters of Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary, elected officers for the 1954-55 school year at a point initiation meeting Sunday.

The officers are: Jacqueline Saylor, Oregon, president; Terrell P. Robinson, OSC, vice-president; Dagmara Grisle Hill, Oregon, secretary, and Rita Kenyon, Oregon, treasurer.

Meet Scheduled Today For Red Cross Board

Old and new members of the Red Cross board will meet today at 4 p. m. in the Student Union.

The new officers of the board are Janet Gustafson, president; Geri Porritt, vice-president and Marilyn Call, secretary-treasurer.

Other chairmen are Jerry Hamilton, special events, Emerson Harvey, blood drive; Bud Hinkson, and Adrienne McRae, Roseburg project; Jean Fay, promotion; Sally Jo Greig, publicity and Jerry Farlow and Cynthia Vincent, disaster.

termed "Webfoots," many don't "take to water like ducks." So here are a few tips if you want to avoid the "wet stuff" this week:

- Frosh men: Wear green and yellow hats when on campus.
- Frosh women: Green hair ribbons are in order, day and night.

- Everyone is to keep off the grass on the campus grounds.

- Everyone says hello to strangers on the "Hello walk" which leads from 13th and University st. to the SU.

The names of violators involved will be published in the Emerald as a reminder that they are to report to Fenton pool at 12:30 p. m. Thursday and Friday for their medicine (some report that it tastes like water.)

In past years some difficulty was experienced in getting the shy, but guilty, girls to turn up at the pool as requested. This resulted in the bothersome and unfortunate task of leading, sometimes forcibly, the reluctant girls to the Fenton hall site. By the way, this is a direct contradiction to the old saying: "You can lead a frosh to water, but you can't make him drink."

Another bit of advice, if you do happen to get caught with your ribbon or hat off, you've had it; so surrender and show up for your punishment. No spot on campus will be safe from the ever-watching eye of the conscientious, serious minded authoritative body of lettermen.

One year the O-men were faced with the distasteful task of storming the Carson hall fortress in order to root out a renegade band of violators who had holed up in Carson 5. The action was taken strictly in the line of duty.

Actually, the lettermen are just a group of kind-hearted fellows who would like nothing better than to have the whole week go by without having to discipline a single violator.

Library Exhibits Valuable Papers

An exhibit representing the development of newspapers in Oregon is now on display in the Oregon collection on the third floor of the library, states Martin Schmit, curator of the Oregon room.

Among the papers being shown are a facsimile of the first newspaper printed in Oregon, volume one, number one of the Oregon Spectator. An original copy is owned by the library but it would be damaged by sunlight if put on display, says Schmitt.

Other newspapers on exhibit include a copy of the New York Herald Tribune carrying the story of Lincoln's assassination and several old Oregonians and Eugene papers.

The most valuable newspaper is the only known copy of the Grant County paper. The other copies were destroyed by a fire several years ago. The exhibit will be shown until the end of the term, according to Schmit.
