

Foreign Student Friendship Dinner to be Held Wednesday

The Foreign Student Friendship foundation will hold a farewell dinner for foreign students Wednesday evening at 6:30 in the ballroom of the Student Union.

The dinner is for foreign students who have attended the University during the past year and who will not be returning next year. Tickets cost $2 and may be reserved by calling extension 426 or 429.

The program will include informal singing, a feature address by William C. Jones, former dean of administration, and talks by four foreign students.

Jones will deliver a speech entitled "That All Men May Know." The students on the program will be Alfred Okeke, Nigeria; Sam Yamada, Japan; Luis De Alba, Mexico; Trudy Wergler, Austria, and Sue Shreeve, sophomore in speech.

Five Papers Read At WPA Meeting

Five papers prepared by students and faculty members of Oregon's psychology department were on the program of the Western Psychological Association's annual meeting at Long Beach, Calif., last weekend.

Samuel R. Pinneau, assistant professor of psychology reported on a new type of personality test which he has been developing during the past two years.

Burton Boyd, graduate assistant in psychology, presented a paper on a monograph developed by Pinneau and himself to facilitate the statistical calculations involved in the development of psychological tests.

Harold E. Hopper, graduate student in psychology, discussed a study which he has been making of factors related to regurgitation in infants.

Jerome Kristal, graduate student, reported experiments on a new device which can be used with groups of people to record the amount of perspiration in the palm of the hand during experiments on emotional stress.

James MacQueen, graduate student, reported on an experiment which aims to develop an objective means of defining what is meant by "patterns" of visual stimulation.

Leona Tyler, associate professor of psychology, also attended the meeting. She is serving as secretary of the Western Psychological association this year.

ROTC Instructor To Attend Meeting

Capt. Matteo A. Salemi, assistant professor of air science, has been selected by the University of Oregon air force ROTC detachment to attend the first semester AFROTC pilot workshop on leadership and management training at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala., June 14-19.

A total of 50 air force officers will attend the pilot workshops, to prepare for directing institutional workshops to be held on 21 college campuses throughout the nation during the summer. A workshop for AFROTC instructors from Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, on the subject of leadership and management, will be held at Oregon, Aug. 2-7.

Purpose of the workshop is to increase the officer's ability as an instructor. The pilot workshops are held to prepare leaders in their roles of organizing and conducting the regional workshops, as well as to improve their own instructing. AFROTC instructors from all 206 detachments in 46 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico will attend one of the institutional workshops in their own area.

The AFROTC workshop program was initiated in 1953.

Crane to Lecture In Browsing Room

This week's browsing room lecturer will be given by Ronald S. Crane, professor emeritus of Chicago.

Crane will speak on "Some Trends in the Study of Literature" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. P. W. Souers, head of the English department, will lead the discussion after the lecture.

Crane has been visiting lecturer on campus this term in the English department. Earlier this term he gave a series of three lectures on "Literature and the History of Ideas." Wednesday's lecture will be his last formal lecture at Oregon.

"Critics and Criticism: Ancient and Modern" which he wrote has been suggested by Crane as background reading for his lecture.
