

AFROTC Okays Sophomore Men

A total of 48 sophomore cadets have been tentatively accepted into the advanced air force ROTC program. Final acceptance hinges upon the quota of advanced cadets assigned the University AFROTC detachment by AFROTC headquarters at Maxwell air force base, Montgomery, Ala.

Of the 48, 28 are in Category I (for pilot training), 14 in Category IA (radar observer), 5 in Category III (non-flight) and 1 in Category IV (veteran). The veteran and three of the cadets in Category I will not attend ROTC classes or drill for one year, because they are taking "legitimate five-year courses." They must graduate from Oregon and from the AFROTC program at the same time.

The 28 in Category I are Timothy James, Gerald Nelson, Robert Ransom, Arthur Weber, George Johnston, Bruce L. Reimer, Clifford Dorwin, Fred Gustafson, John Oney, Joseph Davis, Arthur Weatherford, Kenneth Moriarty, James Richey, Otto Crumroy, Daugherty, James Vickers, Richard Buffington, Elvin Reeves, Nicholas Smith, Dale Oderman, William Dellinger, Gary McManus, Robert Freirich, John Walker, Philip Hanson, Samuel Vahey, Earle Culbertson and Charles Clarke. Vahey, Culbertson and Clarke are in the one-year non-attendance classification.

Tentatively accepted in Category IA are James Duncan, Claude Nasburg, Richard Schlosstein, Keith Robertson, Everett Stiles, Robert Kubek, Otto Nelson, Robert Bond, Loren Wolfe, Malcolm Amondson, Eugene Nordling, Richard Briggs, Henry Mishima and Virgil Erickson.

Applicants tentatively accepted in Category III are Paul Guey, John Purkey, John Lighty, Arlin Ebert and Donald Erne. The veteran, also in the non-attendance classification for one year, is Arthur Knudsen.

To qualify for flight training (pilot or observer), applicants had to pass the flight physical and the air force officer qualifications tests, which measure such factors as pilot, observer-technical and officer aptitudes. According to present air force policy, virtually all air force reserve commissions are given to cadets accepted for flight training. (Five sophomores in the non-flight category have applied for advanced AFROTC; last fall the quota of non-flight advanced cadets assigned by AFROTC headquarters was three.)

Other factors considered by the University AFROTC detachment officers, screening applicants were University and ROTC grades, entrance examination psychological score, general evaluation by the office of student affairs, and general evaluation by the board of interviewing officers of the applicant's bearing and appearance.
