

Italian, Mexican Grants Offered

Six fellowships for graduate study in Italy have been offered by the Italian government, according to a recent announcement by the Institute of International Education.

Minimum period of study is six months between October 1954 and July 1955. Each grant carries a stipend of 600,000 lire ($970) and free tuition at a school or university for the entire academic year.

Candidates for the fellowships must be U. S. citizens, preferably under 35, have master's degree or equivalent in advanced work, have a project for advanced study or research and have demonstrated academic ability.

The Mexican government is also offering scholarships for the academic year beginning March 1, 1955, at any college within the country.

Prerequisites for the scholarships are U.S. citizenship, good knowledge of Spanish, good academic record, valid project or purpose in study and good health.

The five undergraduate and eleven grants to be given in this program are designed to cover full maintenance and tuition.

Further details concerning the two programs can be obtained at the office of Kenneth Ghent, foreign student adviser, in Emerald hall.

Onthank Tells Award Winners

Announcement of scholarships other than state fee and tuition awarded for the year 1954-55 to sophomores, juniors and seniors presently enrolled at the University has been made by Karl W. Onthank, associate director of student affairs.

ASUO traffic court scholarships have been awarded Marlis Clausen, $165; Harriet Hornbeck, $165; Genevieve Eachus, $165, and Doyle Higdon, $50.

Rockwell scholarships of $165 each were won by Bruce Bloomfield, Karleen Evans and Gail West. Joseph and Eva Zimmerman scholarships, also of $165 each, were received by Helen Bersie, Dolores Eachus, Nona Glazer, Joanne Hardt, Laura Harper, Loris Larson, Nancy Moore, Emsley Rogers, Thomas Taylor and Marjorie Travillion.

Gary McAdams was awarded the Jimmy Burleson ROTC Transportation Corps scholarship of $100. The John J. Rogers pre-med scholarship of $500 went to Walter Meihoff. Tom Crabtree was awarded the $600 Richard Shore Smith memorial scholarship.

Drill Teams Perform On Campus, In Eugene

By Buzz Nelson
Emerald Feature Writer

Performing in many campus activities and in the general Eugene area as well, both the Air Force and Army drill teams have proved to be hard working organizations.

Relatively young groups, they have made rapid strides in the past few years. The Air Force drill team came into existence in 1950 and this year participated in competition with the Army drill team, Portland university, Willamette university, and Oregon State college drill teams.

The Army drill team has existed on campus for a number of years but underwent a complete reorganization in 1952 under the direction of M-Sgt. Walter C. Ledbetter.

Both groups performed for a loggers convention and a Boy Scout convention in Eugene this year. They also handle color guards at athletic contest, and perform special movements at parades and presentation reviews.

Next year the Army team plans to perform at various high schools.

The goal of competition between the two teams is the Ledbetter trophy, donated by Sergeant Ledbetter. Won by the Air Force this year, it will be retired at the end of ten years by the team which wins it the most times.

Both teams have special uniforms and perform a number of exceptional drill movements, known as "monkey drill."

In the past the Air Force has had two drill teams one for freshmen and another for advanced cadets. But the new policy is to concentrate all the attention on one squadron.

The Army has had one drill team, but will work with two in 1954-55.

Actual drill practice averages from two to three hours a week for the teams.

Faculty adviser for the Air Force is Maj. Lewis Tiffany, who succeeded Maj. N. N. Mihailov. Cadet commander is David Lanz, executive officer is John Greulich, and first sergeants are John O'Keefe and Sam Kent.

Army cadet major is Gary Meredith and drill sergeant is Herbert West.
