Wesley Foundation

The Wesley council's annual spring planning retreat will be held this weekend at Laswell's cabin, located on the coast, near Neskowin. The primary function of the retreat is to evaluate the past year's activities and to make plans for the coming school year, mainly in the fields of program, worship and recreation. However, the weekend's activities will also include singing, fellowship, recreation, beach parties and food.

Sunday morning Rose Warner, junior in philosophy, will continue the series in the lives of the Apostles, which she will present to the group at the retreat. She will speak on the Apostle Paul, his reasons for turning to Christianity, his influence on the development of Christianity, the changes evident in the world at the close of Paul's ministry, as well as those which continue to take place due to the influence of his thinking and writing.

The Koinonia Klass and Sunday evening program will not be held as usual, due to the retreat.

Chapel service will be held Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at Gerlinger hall, led by Liz McIlveen, sophomore in liberal arts.

Christian House

Today many students will attend the statewide conference on Christian unity, which is to be held in the First Christian church of Salem. Featured speakers will be Ronald Osborne of Butler university, formerly of Eugene, who is to spend next year in Geneva, Switzerland, at the World Council of Churches; and Robert Tobias, who has done reconstruction work and who has supervised overseas work camps for the World Christian Youth council for the past eight years. Bob Griffith, sophomore in political science, and Jim Edwards, associate pastor of First Christian church, Eugene, will also be on the program. Students wishing transportation should contact Christian house.

Sunday services at the house will begin at 9:15 a.m. with the doughnut hour. This will be followed by Bible study at 9:45 led by Victor Morris, dean of the school of business. The 5:30 p.m. fellowship hour will be a concluding program in the series on "Love, Courtship and Marriage," with married couples discussing "How to Be Happily Married."

Most activities of the week will center around the final feature of the fifth birthday celebration, an Alumni banquet at the house on Saturday, June 5, at 6 p.m. Former students living in the Eugene area are in charge, with Wilma Chance serving as general chairman. Tickets are one dollar, and should be purchased ahead of time. Everett Cecil, Corvallis, Oregon graduate of 1953, will be master of ceremonies.

Sunday, June 6, at 5 p.m. the seniors will be honored at the annual outdoor buffet supper given by all students. Tickets should be purchased ahead of time. Seniors are the special guests.

Westminster Foundation

The entire weekend program, which includes tonight's fellowship, Sunday morning Bible study, and evening vesper service, has been cancelled because of the three-day holiday. The regularly scheduled fellowship supper will be held on Wednesday, at 5:30 p.m. as usual. Following the supper, Don Wadsworth, a University student, will present a "Slide Show" of Alaska.

Luther House

This Sunday there will be a picnic supper at Luther house from 5 to 7 p.m. The losing team in the membership contest was to serve, but since Carole Beech's team tied Roger Danielson's team, a potluck will be held. Each student attending is asked to bring a hot dish, salad or dessert. After the supper, at 7:30 in Central Lutheran church, Bill Smith, adviser last year, will be commissioned as a missionary to Tanganyika, South Africa.

Next Wednesday the last noon luncheon of the year will be held. A picnic will be held, with ladies from all the Lutheran churches serving. The new adviser for next year, Vernon Steinberg, is also expected to be there. Immediately after the luncheon Jim and Darlene Kallas with the two boys, will leave for the East. Everyone is invited to come and give the Kallases a send-off.

Tomorrow is the day of the deep sea fishing trip. Anyone interested should call Jim Kallas at 4-7373.

Bible study groups will also continue to meet next week.
