

VOL. LV UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1954 NO. 147

Hayward Field Graduation Site

More than 1100 students will receive degrees, both baccalaureate and advanced, at the University's 77th annual commencement June 13.

New University president, O. Meredith Wilson, will deliver "An Address to Graduates" at the commencement services, scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

For the first time in the University's history, the services will be held outdoors at Hayward field. Another new addition to the ceremonies will be the campus chimes, which will play for the traditional processions to and from the field.

A total of 1163 students are candidates for degrees this year. The figure includes 849 candidates for baccalaureate degrees, 288 for masters' degrees and 26 for the doctorate degree.

Of the candidates for degrees, 445 are from the college of liberal arts. The school of education will graduate 294, the largest number from any of the professional schools.

The school of business administration will award degrees to 196 candidates. The school of architecture has 69 candidates; health and physical education, 42; nursing education, 41; music, 32; law, 30, and journalism, 14.

Eight Receive Theatre Awards

Don Van Boskirk and Sandra Price, both seniors in speech, were awarded the traditional "Neuts" for the outstanding performances as leading man and leading woman in the University theater's past season. The awards were made at a banquet held Wednesday evening.

Van Boskirk was presented his award for the title role in "Richard II." Miss Price received her award for the role of Elizabeth Proctor in "The Crucible."

Best supporting man and woman awards went to Sally Mollner, junior in speech, as Mary Warren in "The Crucible," and to Gerry Pearce, as Judge Danforth in "The Crucible."

Dick Hiatt, graduate in speech, was given the contribution award for outstanding service in the business field of the University theater. Lee Jackson, senior in speech, received a contribution award for assistant director-stage manager of "The Moon Is Blue." Paul Minty, junior in speech, won a special award with his set design for "The Crucible."

Ottile T. Seybolt, associate professor of speech, was awarded a "neut" for services as director, designer, actress and friend of the theater.

Hawk Announces DU's on Probation

Delta Upsilon fraternity has been placed upon indefinite social probation, according to Ray Hawk, director of men's affairs. The disciplinary action was the result of a raid on a local flower garden, May 24, Hawk said.

Presentation of the Turnbull-Hall Honor plaque to Kitty Fraser highlighted the annual awards banquet of the Oregon Daily Emerald held Tuesday evening in the Student Union.

Miss Fraser was honored as the outstanding senior member of the Emerald staff. In four years of work on the campus daily she has held the positions of assistant news editor, assistant managing editor, news editor and editorial assistant. She has been managing editor the last half of the current school year.

The Bill Gurney Memorial award went to Joe Gardner, who was judged the junior man in journalism who has demonstrated the most ability in writing in journalism courses and on campus publications. Gardner has been news editor of the Emerald this year and will be editor of the paper next year.

The Gurney award was presented this year for the first time. The $100 award will be made annually by the Oregon chapters of Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, in memory of Bill Gurney, Emerald staff member who was killed last year in a plane crash at ROTC summer camp. Jim Jones, ATO president, made the presentation this year.

The Winship-Pegg award for the most outstanding contribution to the Emerald's advertising staff went to Valera Vierra.

Four newspaper scholarships were announced at the banquet by Charles T. Duncan, professor of journalism. The awards and their winners are as follows: Pendleton East Oregonian, Dorothy Iler; Baker Democrat-Herald, Marcia Dutcher; Myrtle Creek Mail, Mary Salazar; and Hillsboro Argus, Gardner. A fifth scholarship, unnamed, went to Gordon Rice.

The T. Neil Taylor awards for outstanding theses in the school of journalism were presented by Gordon A. Sabine, journalism dean. First place went to Al Karr. Elsie Schiller was second, and Dave Averill was third. Honorable mention went to Miss Fraser and Don Wenzl.

Four awards were presented by Sigma Delta Chi. The senior scholarship award went to Miss Schiller, and the achievement award was presented Dave Averill. Rice was named outstanding sophomore man in journalism, and Travis Cavens was named outstanding freshman man in journalism.

Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women, picked Miss Iler as the outstanding sophomore woman in journalism. Kathleen Morrison was named the outstanding freshman woman in journalism.

Editor Announces New Oregana Staff

Members of next year's Oregana editorial staff have been announced by Editor Bob Southwell.

Serving as associate editors will be Laura Sturges and Dean McMullen. Co-layout editors will be Ann Erickson and Germaine LaMarche.

Supervising the Oregana writers will be Sally Ryan, copy editor. Turning out captions for next year's book will be Larry Guinn, captions editor.

Scheduling pictures will be the job of John Shaffer, photography editor. Art work for the annual will be handled by Bob Fudge, art editor.

Heading the business side of the Oregana staff will be Bob McCracken. Southwell and McCracken were appointed to their positions by the publications board April 21.

Southwell served as associate editor of copy on this year's staff, while McCracken was sales manager of the annual the second half of this year.

Last Emerald Issue

Today's issue of the Oregon Daily Emerald is the last edition of the 1953-54 academic year. Publication of the campus daily will be resumed next fall term during New Student week.

Editor Announces Fall Emerald Staff

Staff for next year's Oregon Daily Emerald was announced at the annual Emerald awards banquet Tuesday evening by Joe Gardner, editor, and Jean Sandine, business manager.

Top spots on the news-editorial side of the paper go to Paul Keefe, managing editor, and Jerry Harrell, news editor. Keefe has worked on the paper three years and has been chief makeup editor this year. Harrell has been assistant news editor this year.

The top position on the advertising staff will be held by Donna Runberg, advertising manager. This year Miss Runberg has been national advertising manager.

Named associate editors for next year were Dick Lewis and Jackie Wardell. Miss Wardell has been managing editor and associate editor this year, and Lewis has been news editor and feature editor.

Gordon Rice was named sports editor for the coming year, and Dorothy Iler will be feature editor. Sally Ryan was named chief copydesk editor. All three had been assistant news editors this year. Sam Vahey, who held the positions of sports editor and assistant managing editor this year, will be chief makeup editor next year.

Anne Ritchey, feature editor this year, was named assistant managing editor. Assistant news editors for next year will be Mary Alice Allen, chief night editor this year, Anne Hill, also a chief night editor this year, and Bob Robinson, sports editor this year.

Other members of the advertising staff for next year will be: Bill Mainwaring, business office manager; Mary Salazar, national advertising manager; Helen Ruth Johnson, classified advertising manager; Rick Hayden, circulation manager, and Marge Harmon, assistant office manager.

Emerald Staff

Posing for a picture is next year's Emerald staff. Seated in front are Dorothy Iler and Anne Ritchey. In the first row, from left to right, are Mary Alice Allen, Anne Hill, Dick Lewis, Donna Runberg, Sally Ryan, Editor Joe Gardner, Business Manager Jean Sandine, Jackie Wardell and Jerry Harrell. In the second row, Sam Vahey, Gordon Rice, Bob Robinson and Paul Keefe.

Oregana Staff

The editorial side of the 1954-55 Oregana staff takes time out to have its picture taken. Seated in front are Editor Bob Southwell, Germaine LaMarche and Bob Fudge. Standing are John Shaffer, Sally Ryan, Laura Sturges, Dean McMullen, Larry Guinn and Ann Erickson.