

Honors Program Offers Training

Oregon's sophomore honors program has ceased to be an experimental program as it enters its third year this term, according to Kenneth S. Ghent, acting chairman of the sophomore honors committee.

The sophomore honors program is designed to offer basic training in liberal arts for more advanced students. The basic program fills the part of the student's schedule usually given to satisfying the lower division group requirements.

The group includes three-term sequences in literature, history, the study of society and a choice of biological science or physical science.

Approximately 300 students have been enrolled in the sophomore honors program to date. Fourteen completed the course last spring and 12 more have only one examination remaining and are expected to finish this fall. Before sophomore honors are granted, the student must pass comprehensive examinations in each of four fields of study.

The sophomore honors program is open to the top 20 percent of each entering class, as measured by high school records and scholastic aptitude ratings. Eligibility is calculated by the director of admissions and is indicated on a test result card issued to each freshman before his final conference with his adviser.

With the consent of the sophomore honors committee, the program is open to students who have previously attended Oregon and who have a cumulative grade point average of 2.75 or higher.

Students who have completed more than 93 hours are not eligible.

Tickets on Sale For UO Staff

The University Athletic department has announced that special season athletic tickets are available this year to all university staff members. The tickets, now being sold at the athletic ticket office, will entitle holders to admittance to all varsity athletic events during 1954-55 including football, basketball, baseball and track.

A married faculty member may purchase one ticket for each member of his family for whom he claims tax exemption. Single faculty members and civil-service employees may purchase two tickets.

Price of the season tickets is $15 each.

Board Meeting Rescheduled

The Student Union Board meeting originally scheduled for Wednesday was postponed when Chairman Bob Pollock was called out of town.

Assistant Chairman Andy Berwick said that the board will try to meet next week. If rushing schedules make further postponement necessary, the board will meet Oct. 6.

The 1954-55 budget will be discussed at the meeting and the filling of four vacancies, according to Berwick.

Open positions include two-year terms from the college of liberal arts and the school of business and one-year terms from the school of law and the graduate school.

Library Now Taking Faculty Assignments

Applications for the assignment of faculty studies in the University Library are now being received at the library office. The office will accept applications until October 1.

Faculty members who are engaged in research which requires the use of library materials will be given priority.
