

Detour Violators Receive Tickets

Over 100 violators of the between-classes detour on East 13th avenue between Kincaid and University streets have been cited since the opening of fall term, Eugene Police Chief Ted Brown said Thursday.

As many as five officers at a time have been stopping errant cars and ticketing them in the drive to enforce the 10-minute detour. Chief Brown has said that the officers will continue their drive "as long as violations occur." The campus planning committee felt that traffic must be stopped to protect the heavy between-class pedestrian traffic, according to J. O. Lindstrom, University business manager. He said that the committee went to the city council and urged the approval of the 10 minute stops.

The city council agreed to recognize the stops, designed and tested by the state highway commission, and further agreed to share the cost evenly with the university.

In accordance with the agreement made, there is one city officer on duty in the area for eight hours a day. The University in return pays the salary of one police officer. This is in effect the same as a campus policeman but, said Lindstrom, the regular officer is better trained and more respected.

Lindstrom expressed regret that so many had been stopped but pointed out that they had been violating the law and that violations must be stopped if the 10-minute stops are to have any effect.

Flashing red blinkers are being installed near the stop lights to attract attention to them during the break because a number of persons had complained that the lights could not be seen, Lindstrom added.

UO Charter Day Features Huxley

Principal speaker at the first University Charter day and the inauguration of President O. Meredith Wilson, will be Julian Huxley, noted English biologist and author.

Huxley will speak on the topic, "The Bearing of Scientific Knowledge on Belief in a Free Society," at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 19. All 10 a.m. classes will be dismissed to give students an opportunity to hear Huxley's address.

The 67-year-old Huxley is well-known as an educator and lecturer as well as author and biologist. He received his education at Oxford and Eton and has taught at Oxford, Kings College and the

Students to Attend First Home Game

Oregon students will attend their first home football game of the season Saturday at 1:30 p.m. when the University of Oregon tangles with Utah. Student seating will be in the south end of the east stands.

Campus clothes are in order for the game, according to Kay Partch, campus social chairman. This means skirts and blouses or sweaters for the women, and slacks and shirts or sweaters for the men.

Royal Institute in London, and Rice Institute, Texas.

In 1946 Huxley joined the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization. He became director general of UNESCO a year later. He was an editor for the 14th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica and a member of the British Broadcasting Company "Brain Trust."

Author and co-author of more than 30 books, Huxley published his two latest books in 1953 on evolution entitled, "Evolution in Action" and "The Evolutionary Process." He has also written in religion, poetry, philosophy, as well as in his field.

Now living in London with his wife and two sons, Huxley is lecturing in the United States this fall.

According to a letter which the University recently received from Huxley, he will be accompanied on his trip to Eugene by his brother Aldous Huxley, author of many books, the best-known of which is "Brave New World," published in the 1930s. Aldous Huxley will attend the inauguration ceremonies, but is not scheduled for any public appearance while on campus.

Other events planned for the two-day celebration will be an academic procession preceding the inauguration and a reception for the president and Mrs. Wilson at 4 p.m. in Gerlinger Lounge. The earliest event planned is a concert by the Griller string quartet from the University of California Oct. 18 in the Student Union Ballroom.

Shakespearean Festival Records To Start Browsing Room Lectures

Fall term browsing room lectures will begin Wednesday with a lecture and recordings by Don Hunter, head of the University Library's audio-visual department. Hunter will play a recording from the Ashland Shakespearean festival.

The browsing room lecture series, sponsored by the library, the house librarians and the browsing room committee, includes nine lectures for fall term. The lectures are held each Wednesday evening.

W. A. Williams, assistant professor of history, will present the second lecture in the series. His topic will be "Notes on Natural History of the Cold War." Howard E. Dean, assistant professor of political science, will act as discussion leader.

Scheduled for Oct. 20 is "Where is Social Science Going," a lecture by R. A. Littman, associate professor of psychology. R. J. Richman, instructor in philosophy, will be discussion leader.

"Take a Giant Step," a reading by Louis Peterson, is scheduled for Oct. 27. Lecturer will be Horace Robinson, associate professor of speech. R. D. Horn, professor of English, will lead discussion.

Lecture for Nov. 3 will be "Utopian Romance in American Literature," presented by John C. McCloskey, associate professor of English. Discussion leader will be Carl L. Johnson, associate professor of romance languages.

"A Few Modern Poets," will be presented by James B. Hall, assistant professor of English, on Nov. 10. E. G. Moll, professor of

Autumn Peak In Enrollment

Fall term enrollment at the University of Oregon reached a total of 4242 as of Wednesday evening, Registrar Clifford L. Constance has announced. The figure marks a 4.4 per cent increase over last fall term's 4063 registration and a 22.6 per cent increase over the 3460 registered last spring.

University enrollment usually reaches its highest peak during the fall term, while spring term enrollment ordinarily marks the year's low point. Last fall term enrollment was 4.3 per cent below the 4231 students registered for fall term, 1952.

An upward trend has been noted in state supported colleges throughout the state this year. Portland State college this week recorded a substantial increase of 28 per cent, from 1629 last fall term to 2094 this year. Oregon State college enrollment jumped from 4868 to 4949, a 1.7 per cent increase.

The increase at PSC has prompted J. F. Cramer, dean of the extension service and head of the college, to request additional funds from the Oregon State Board of Higher Education for the hiring of more teachers to handle the flood of students at the Portland school.

The board had earlier budgeted PSC for an enrollment of 1930 and had approved the hiring of 12 additional staff members. Board officials are currently studying the enrollment problem at PSC and have announced that a decision will be reached Friday.

Pre-Game Rally Set for Today

A pre-Utah football game rally will be held at 12:25 p.m. today on the steps of Johnson hall. Students who have 1 p.m. classes will be able to attend the rally and still make it to class on time if they bring their books to the rally, Sally Stadelman, rally board chairman, has announced.

Oregon's pep band will be on hand to provide music for the song queens, and the singing of the Alma Mater and Pledge song.

Freshmen men who are rushing will be able to attend the rally, even though they have rushing dates at a fraternity during the noon hour, according to Pete Williams, Inter-fraternity council president.

Williams said that freshmen men could attend the rally at 12:25 in the company of the fraternity at which they were spending the noon hour.

Because women rushees will have to pick up their invitations and eat their lunch between noon and 1 p.m., some will not be able to make the rally.

Eugene Civic Group To Tour UO Campus

The University of Oregon will play host to the Eugene chamber of commerce, as the civic group comes to campus for a luncheon, talks and a tour.

President O. Meredith Wilson and Gordon A. Sabine, dean of the school of journalism, will speak at the luncheon to be held in the Student Union. Following the luncheon, the group will tour recently-completed Allen hall.

Jewelry, Paintings Displayed in SU

"The Artist as a Jeweler" is the theme of the present exhibit in the Student Union art gallery. Included in the display are jewelry and paintings by well-known artists of the east and west coasts, according to Mrs. Sandra Rennie, SU program director.

The exhibit was made available to the SU through the courtesy of the Kharouba gallery and gift shop of Portland, Mrs. Rennie said.

Two Eugene artists, O. H. Chatt and Zoe Everett, have work on display. Work of artists from Washington, California, New York and Colorado compose the rest of the exhibit, which will be in the gallery until October 9.

Other exhibits scheduled for later in the term are paintings by John Braun, those of William Justina, a progressive Oregon painter, and a "LIFE" exhibit entitled "The Age of Exploration."

Preference Dates Set For Rushees Tonight

One of the most successful rush weeks in recent years is nearing its finish today, with preference dates scheduled for both men and women rushees tonight.

A total of 417 men have been going through rushing, and 386 women signed up for rush at the beginning of the week. Both Inter-Fraternity and Panhellenic council leaders have reported that these figures constitute record turnouts for recent years.

Three Dates Today
Both men and women rushees will keep three dates today. Men's dates are at noon, dinner and in the evening. Times for women's dates are 4:15 to 5 p.m., 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. and 7:30 to 8:15 p.m.

Women may pick up invitations at the Panhellenic office in Gerlinger hall at noon. On Saturday, women will go to the house of their second preference from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. and the house of first preference from 7:15 to 8:15. After the last date they will return to the Panhellenic office to fill out preference cards.

Women rushees will pick up their bids Sunday morning in their dormitories. Pledge breakfasts will be at 9 a.m. Sunday.

The IFC office was open this morning for changes in men's rushing dates. Preference dates are from 7 to 10 p.m. tonight, and rushees will turn in their preference lists between 10 and midnight.

Fraternities will turn in their preference lists at the same time, and men will go to the house they pledged on Saturday morning.

FOR FALL TERM

Williams Directs AFROTC Officers

Peter D. Williams, senior in business administration, has been chosen as cadet commander of the AFROTC for fall term. Col. Edwin B. Daily, professor of military science, announced Williams' appointment this week.

Williams will serve with the rank of cadet colonel. He will be in charge of supervision of all advanced and basic students in the corps during their drill periods each Tuesday afternoon.

Serving on Williams' wing staff will be several men who will have the rank of lieutenant colonel and will help Williams in carrying out the general instruction of the students during drill periods.

Ranked as Lieutenant colonels are Michael Kilkenny, senior in liberal arts; James Spiekerman, senior in history; Jim Archer, senior in business administration; Alvan Arthur, senior in pre-law; Lowry Hoyer, senior in business, and Charles Greenley, senior in business.

Serving with the rank of major and in charge of the individual squadrons will be Howard Page Jr., senior in business; K. David Rosenlof, senior in chemistry; Stan Savage, senior in liberal arts; Don Simon, senior in business; Milan Stoyanov, senior in pre-law; Wilfred Watanaba, junior in liberal arts; Neil Dwyer, senior in business, and Henry Mannex, senior in history.

Other seniors who will be graduated as majors and will serve in either the executive or operations departments will be De Otis Marlett, senior in business; Elmer Jones, senior in business; Donald McIntyre, senior in business; Robert Kanada, senior in business; Michael McKenzie, senior in business and Phil Lewis, senior in foreign languages.

Three other top student officers in AFROTC will be Majors John O'Keefe, senior in business; Sam Kent, senior in business, and Gerald Campbell, junior in pre-dentistry. These three students will serve as the command group staff of the air force drill team.