McKay Campaigns For Cordon; Urges Election To Support Ike

From the wires of Associated Press

PORTLAND—Election of a Democratic Congress "Would mean that our national government would be plunged into deadlock and chaos," Secretary of the Interior McKay said Tuesday.

Opening a four-day campaign tour of Western Oregon with a radio-television broadcast, McKay urged re-election of Sen. Guy Cordon and other Republican candidates. "This is no time to be pulling the rug out from under your President," he said.

He praised the accomplishments of Cordon and said he was a man "with tremendous influence." Of Richard L. Neuberger, Cordon's Democratic opponent, McKay said: "He promises like a medicine man to go to Washington and get from this very administration which he is abusing, hundreds of millions of dollars to be spent in the State of Oregon."

"Isn't it a little ridiculous that a newcomer with no prestige, with no seniority, and with no position of any importance on any committee even assured to him, proposes that he can do for the State of Oregon more than can a man who is a friend of the administration?" McKay asked.

Then referring to Sen. Morse, who bolted the Republican Party and now is supporting Neuberger, McKay said:

"I promise you that Guy Cordon will not, within two years, reverse his philosophy, betray the people who have elected him, and be out here campaigning against the party which bestowed upon him high honor."

McKay said "the very worst thing that could happen would be the election of a Democratic Congress. . . There will be no world peace if this country abandons its responsibilities of world leadership while it quibbles over divided leadership at home."

Neuberger Answers Cordon

PORTLAND—Richard L. Neuberger, Portland Democrat who is trying to unseat Republican Sen. Guy Cordon, said Tuesday that "small businessmen are the forgotten souls of the Cordon-McKay regime in Oregon."

He told a business men's luncheon that federal court figures show a 50 per cent increase in Oregon bankruptcies for the fiscal year of 1954. He said the national average was a 25 per cent increase.

Neuberger said industrial payrolls have declined in Oregon and the state has lost out on expansion of its aluminum industries because of policies favored by Cordon.

Sen. Wayne Morse, campaigning for Neuberger, told a rally in Albany Tuesday that Cordon is "misrepresenting the voting record which he claims entitles him to re-election."

He also accused Cordon of misrepresenting his stand on a federal dam at Hells Canyon. This was an attempt to avoid the unpopularity of the administration's "walkout" in favor of Idaho Power company's development plan, Morse said.

Elementary Teachers To be Trained Here

The University of Oregon is beginning an elementary teacher training program this fall as provided by the Oregon Legislature in the same bill which elevated Portland State college to four-year status.

The University has trained secondary teachers in the past, and for many years has had an agreement with the Eugene public schools to permit University students to gain practical experience in the classroom.

Begins in Eugene

The first supervised teaching on the elementary level will begin in Eugene schools in the 1955-56 school year. Selection of a committee which will advise the Eugene school board in establishing the co-operative program with the University for the training of teachers is now underway.

Paul B. Jacobson, dean of the school of education has outlined tentative suggestions for training procedures. The suggestions are not final and will be studied by the committee. Jacobson has recommended that the University provide funds to pay extra costs of facilities needed for the supervised training program.

Suggestions Listed

Among Jacobson's suggestions for the plan were:

1. That no cadet teachers be paid by the school district for the service performed as a practice teacher;
2. That no teacher of the Eugene public schools who does not wish to participate in the program should have practice teachers;
3. That participating teachers from Eugene schools be granted release time from classroom duties rather than additional compensation for their contributions to the program; and
4. The Eugene school district would be compensated in an amount to be determined to permit hiring other teachers who would make the release time possible.

The school board has approved the establishment of the committee to study the plan. After committee recommendations have been studied by the entire school board, the district's proposals will be submitted to the University for consideration.
