Ducks, Trojans Clash In Conference Game

The powerful Trojans of Southern California and the giant-killing Ducks of Oregon clash head-on tomorrow afternoon at Portland's Multnomah stadium in the 19th renewal of UO-USC football hostilities.

Fresh from their 33-27 conquest of the California Golden Bears, Len Casanova's charges encounter a Trojan team that romped over its first three foes before losing a 20-7 decision to Texas Christian last weekend.

A nationwide television audience will be looking in on the game, scheduled for a 1:30 kickoff. Last year's contest was a resounding upset win for the Ducks over the then-ranked USC eleven, 13-7.

For the first time this season, Oregon will be at peak physical strength, except for quarterback George Shaw. Still slightly favoring a leg injury, Shaw may be hampered in running. His passing will still be the Ducks' big threat, however.

With the development of Jasper McGee as a plunging fullback, the Duck ground attack may be a more potent factor than in past games. Halfbacks Dick James and Walt Gaffney are expected to add to the offensive punch, as well as providing pass targets.

USC boasts four speedy backs in the varied offensive patterns

KVAL-TV, channel 13, will carry the Oregon-Southern California football game on the NCAA "Game of the Week" program beginning at 1:15 p.m. Saturday afternoon. KASH has the game set for airing at the same time.

Both Portland television outlets, KOIN-TV and KPTV, will screen the contest. Originated by ABC-TV, it will be the first live national television presentation from Portland.

of coach Jess Hill. Sophomore Jon Arnett is second in the conference scoring race, though ranking behind senior veteran Aramis Dandoy. Speedy wingbacks Lindon Crow and Jim Decker complete the quartet.

Regular quarterback Jim Contratto may not start the game because of a back injury. In that event sophomore Ellsworth Kissinger will get the starting nod from Hill. Contratto has been the team leader in punting and passing for the Trojans—so far this season.

Two line regulars, end Leon Clarke and guard Orlando Ferrante, are expected to be back in harness for the Oregon game. Clarke, a 6'4", 210-pounder, is the top target for Trojan passing and the 195-pound Ferrante returns after an opening-week injury. Two giant tackles, Ed Fouch and Mario DaRe, spark the Troy forward wall. Fouch scales 227 pounds and DaRe hits 214.

Primarily a defensive team capitalizing on opponents' mistakes, this year's Trojan team has also gained a reputation as being a hard-hitting offensive club. USC has tallied 27, 39, 12 and 7 points in its opening games.

Currently holding a 1-0 mark in conference action, the Trojans are in solid contention for the Rose Bowl bid. With the Oregon defeat of Cal lowering the Bears' chances somewhat, the men of Troy loom as the favorite for the trip.

Oregon has a 2-1 mark for conference action, with the wins over Cal and Idaho and the loss to Stanford. USC drubbed Washington State 39-0 in the season's opener for its win.

Beavers Hold Drill With Mason Filling Quarterback Post

CORVALLIS-(AP)-Lett half Dick Mason quarterbacked for Oregon State again Wednesday as the Beavers drilled in their last practice before Saturday's intersectional football game with Nebraska.

Mason drew the assignment from Coach Kip Taylor after the team's regular QBs, Jim Withrow, Ray Westfall and Bob Clark were sidelined with injuries.

The Beavers were scheduled to leave here at 7 a.m. Friday for Lincoln, Neb.

Rains Are Here But Don't Despair

When the rains come and the wind howls, a shodow of gloom settles down on the Oregon campus — picnic season has come to an end. Gone are the days at the beach . . . the beverages, the babes, the blankets. Oh sad! But don't despair—there's a place on the Glenwood Strip where the picnics last all year long. Instead of sand there's sausage; instead of blankets there's popcorn . . . but the beverage remains undaunted . . . and cold. For a picnic in the rain it's

Shaw Boosts Offense Lead

LOS ANGELES-(Special)-Oregon Quarterback George Shaw has opened up a commanding margin as the Pacific Coast conference's total offense leader with 661 yards and four touchdowns after four weekends of play, according to statistics released this week by the PCC commissioner's office.

Shaw also is the No. 1 passer while Duke Washington, Washington State's fullback, has a big edge in rushing. Shaw has completed 41 of 83 passes for 580 yards and three touchdowns to lead Paul Larson of California, who has 37 completions in 55 tries for an exceptional 67.3 per cent completion mark.

Shaw has also picked up 81 yards rushing for his total offense mark of 661 yards. Sandy Lederman, Washington quarterback who is sidelined for the year with a broken leg, has 443 yards total offense and Larson has 438.

Duke Washington has smashed for 367 yards in his first four outings and has averaged 6.8 yards per play to top the running department. Bill Tarr, Stanford, has 316 yards and Bob Davenport, UCLA, 234. Davenport and Dick James, Oregon, lead in scoring with six touchdowns each for 36 points. Jon Arnett, Southern California, is next with 30 points.

James also is the top pass receiver with 16 receptions for 187 yards and one touchdown. Jim Hanifan, California, is in close pursuit with 15 for 191 yards and two touchdowns while Frank Teverbaugh, Idaho, has 13 catches. Bob Iverson, Washington State, has picked off the most enemy aeriels, with four interceptions, while four other men have two each.

Jim Withrow, Oregon State has the best punting mark with a 47.7 yard average, but has kicked only six times. Jim Contratto, Southern California, has averaged 04.2.

Doug Bradley has the most yards on punt returns, 89, for a 29.7 yard average, to 87 for James, while Larson has the most yardage on kickoff returns, 118, for a 39.3 average, to 94 yards for Gordie Young, Stanford.

Two Combo's Drill at WSC

PULLMAN, Wash.-(AP)-Coach Al Kircher used two backfield units Wednesday in Washington State's practice session for Saturday's Pacific Coast conference game with California.

Frank Sarno quarterbacked the first unit which included Duke Washington, Mart Purnell and Dennis Rath. The Cougars will be flying to Berkeley today.

Phi Deltas Reach IM Grid Finals

Phi Delta Theta overpowered Phi Gamma Delta 25-7 in the semi-finals of the intramural football Thursday.

The teams battled to a scoreless first quarter, but in the second the Phi Deltas capitalized on breaks to crack the scoring ice. Jim Spickerman intercepted a Fiji aerial on the Fiji 40 which set the stage for a later payoff toss, Schlostein to Carl Hastings. Later in the quarter Phi Delt Wegner picked off another Fiji aerial. Schlostein again took over and uncorked an aerial to Denny Ryan, who sped into the end zone.

Midway through the third period the Schlostein to Ryan combination clicked again, making the score 18-0. But the Fiji's came back late in the quarter and broke scatback Roy Karr loose and he sprinted 85 yards down the sidelines to score for the League Four champions.

SAE's Top Churney Sigma Alpha Epsilon, last year's defending champs, found themselves forced to go all out to defeat Churney Hall, the Frosh Champs, 7-0.

The SAE's usually-potent passing attack was slowed down considerably as Churney unveiled a strong pass defense and on several occasions stopped offensive thrusts completely by intercepting passes.

SAE, however, was not to be denied and in the second period Rex Davis found Stan Savage with an aerial and he went all the way for the game's only score. The play covered 30 yards.

The undefeated SAE's will tangle with Phi Delta Theta in Monday's championship game.

College Passers Scatter Targets

NEW YORK-(AP)-One of the strangest developments in this football season has been the unprecedented manner in which major college passers are scattering their fire.

Dick James, the Oregon halfback, is the pass-catching leader, having snared 16 throws, but that is the lowest figure a pacesetter has had in the past decade at this stage of the season, according to statistics released Thursday by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Shaw Helps Out Fourteen others are within six catches of James and the general volume of passes being completed isn't any smaller than usual. The main reason that James holds the lead is that his partner, George Shaw, is the nation's leading passer.

They'll both be on view Saturday when they play Southern California in the NCAA's television Game of the Week. USC, incidentally, has a pass catching leader of its own. He is Linden Crow, who has caught only four, but has carried them a fantastic 213 yards for a 53.3 yards-per-catch average.

Others Close

Bill Sennett of Georgia Tech has gained 218 yards, but he has caught 11 passes. Runners-up to James in the total-catch department are Jim Hanifan of California and Dick Rushing of Kentucky with 15 each.

Bob Iverson, a junior quarterback from Washington State, is the top pass interceptor with four.
