GOP Blasts Demo Candidates; Charge Communism, Scandal

From the wires of Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Republicans took aim at two Democratic candidates Tuesday night and sought to link one with Communism, the other with a New York waterfront scandal.

These developments came on the eve of President Eisenhower's departure from Washington for a two-day talking-and-politicking tour of Connecticut and New York.

A "nonpartisan" Eisenhower address Wednesday night at a New York celebration marking the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Jewish faith in America will be broadcast nationally on TV and radio.

Sen. Irving M. Ives, GOP candidate for governor of New York, accused Averill Harriman, his Democratic-Liberal opponent, of being involved in a reported $250,000 pier lease payoff in the mid-1920's.

Harriman replied by repeating a denial given under oath at the time to a federal grand jury.

Target for the other volley was Glen H. Taylor, Democratic Senate candidate in Idaho who was the Progressive Party's nominee for vice president in 1948.

The Senate internal security subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), released sworn testimony by two men who said Taylor and Henry A. Wallace, the Progressive presidential candidate, knew the party was Communist-controlled when they agreed to head its ticket.

Both witnesses said they didn't believe Taylor or Wallace were Communists.

At Idaho Falls, Idaho, Taylor commented, "If there were any Communists in the Progressive Party, I never recognized them as such." He challenged the subcommittee to get his statement under oath.

Neuberger, Cordon Praise UN

PORTLAND—Sen. Guy Cordon and his Democratic opponent, Richard L. Neuberger, both praised the aims of the United Nations in separate speeches Tuesday.

Neuberger, speaking at Oregon State College, said that support of the UN was a cardinal feature of American foreign policy.

Cordon, addressing a rally at Hillsboro, said: "I feel there is no doubt we will come to the day when the lion will lie down with the lamb through the work of the United Nations."

But Neuberger, in his Corvallis talk, said that Cordon had recently said in effect, that there has developed a tendency to regard the U. S. treasury as a joint checking account for the U. N.

This, he said, stirs opposition to the U. N. and "it is evident that Cordon follows his mentor, Sen. Knowland, in tending toward American withdrawal from the U. N." Foreign policy has become a major issue in the campaign, he said, because "Cordon has sided with the isolationists."

Earlier at a Portland luncheon club meeting, Cordon contradicted statements by Democrats that Morse was responsible for preliminary moves that led to construction of The Dalles Dam.

Cordon said funds for the dam had been requested in President Truman's budget message months before Morse claimed to have urged the budget request.

Senator Attacks Power Contract

WASHINGTON—Sen. Langer (R-ND) said Wednesday the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract may take the spotlight away from the McCarthy censure issue in the Senate session opening Nov. 8.

The North Dakota senator is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and head of its anti-monopoly subcommittee, which has been investigating the Dixon-Yates proposal to feed private power into lines of the Tennessee Valley authority.

Describing himself as a "bitter opponent" of the proposed contract, Langer said in an interview that full-blown debate on it is likely to come when the Senate meets to decide whether Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) should be censured.

"In my opinion," Langer said, "The McCarthy censure issue will shrink into insignificance in the fight to prevent a few private utility companies from getting a monopoly of the electric rates in Southern states."

US Band, Morse Here Next Week

Two top visiting attractions are scheduled for the campus next week.

On Tuesday, the U.S. Air Force band and the Singing Sergeants will appear in McArthur court under the joint sponsorship of the athletic department and the school of music.

On Thursday, Senator Wayne Morse, Oregon's controversial junior senator, will speak to a University assembly. Classes normally scheduled for 1 p.m. Thursday will be changed to the same hour Tuesday to permit students to attend the Morse assembly.

The Air Force band, originally organized in 1942, has 100 members. Some members of the band formerly played for the Philadelphia Civic orchestra, the Tommy Dorsey dance band, the Arthur Pryor concert orchestra, and other concert bands. The band plays both popular and classic selections.

Accordionist Featured

Featured with the band is accordionist-arranger Staff Sgt. Daniel Desiderio, who has made recitals in the Philadelphia Hall of Music, Carnegie hall and Town hall.

The air force band is directed by Col. George S. Howard. Lt. Robert L. Landers, directs the singing sergeants.

Tickets are on sale at McArthur court and Thompson's Record and Appliance center downtown. General admission is $1.50 and student tickets are 50 cents.

Morse to Speak

The Thursday assembly speaker, Senator Wayne Morse, is expected to speak on issues in Oregon's key senatorial campaign. He has been "stumping" around the state for Democratic Senatorial candidates Richard L. Neuberger.

Morse was dean of the law school at the University from 1931 to 1944, when he resigned to take his seat in the senate. He was re-elected to the senate in 1950.

Limited to Issues

As in the case of the Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay, Morse has been asked to limit his talk to issues rather than candidates in the campaign, according to Robert D. Horn, chairman of the University Assembly committee.

Morse holds the record for the longest speech ever made in the Senate. In 1953 he held the floor for 22 hours, 26 minutes, talking on the tidelands oil controversy.
