

Spartan Gals Nab Spotlight

San Jose State's gorgeous gussies of gridiron cheerleading nearly stole the show from football Saturday afternoon at Hayward field.

When they appeared Oregon rooters spontaneously yelled, "San Jose girls, come over here! San Jose girls, come over here!" Yell kings from both schools "captured" opposing cheerleaders, giving both Webfoots and Spartans an impromptu treat.

Betty Richert, the girl whose exuberant skirt-swinging yells landed her picture in last week's issue of Sports Illustrated magazine, was the headliner of the group of high stepping coeds.

Miss Richert said she was stunned when an Oakland news photographer told her his shot of her at the California game was one of the best action shots he had ever taken and that he wanted to send it out over the wire. As a result Sports Illustrated picked it up, and Miss Richert became a momentary celebrity.

"I decided to be a good sport about it," she chuckled, "and have been getting crazy notes from different universities, appearing on radio and television in the Bay Area, and also being written up in local papers near San Jose."

The girls were organized last year as a group of song leaders, but Miss Richert admitted they have yet to lead a real song.

"We found out that people wanted something more than just cheers and songs, so we've been entertaining them," Miss Richert said. "It's a lot of fun. We've appeared before almost every group in San Jose, you know, business clubs, high schools, Chamber of Commerce, teaching them the yells, and getting them interested in Spartan spirit."

The new approach is so successful that people are following Spartan football a lot better than they used to, she reported.

Webfoots got a taste of what she meant Saturday. Although they didn't have much to cheer about, the spirited Spartan coeds dipped, kicked, spun and cheered with as much precision, but a good deal more flourish, than many heel-clicking military groups.

Offensive Billed For Duck Team

"Offense all the way," said Webfoot coach Len Casanova in describing Monday's workouts, and offensive they were, as the Ducks ran through heavy drills in preparation for the coming tilt with the Washington Huskies in Seattle. This should lead to a much better offensive game than was played against San Jose State last week, according to Casanova.

The Ducks began the workout with the usual warm-up drills, and then split up with the line working on offensive blocking and the backfield following up the offensive theme by concentration on pass patterns. After about an hour of this work, the whole squad teamed up again, and ran through various passing and running patterns, with both the line and the backfield working on blocking.

Quarterbacks George Shaw and Johnny Keller worked the very spirited team like clockwork, mixing the plays up, while coaches Len Casanova, Jack Roche, Vern Sterling and Johnny McKay checked the blocking. In the backfield, Dick James and Jasper McGee looked exceedingly fine as they both ran the ball and interference.

But fun has some grueling work with it, Miss Richert said. The girls drove up from San Jose together, and after fourteen hours on the road, pulled off on the side to sleep some twenty-six miles south of Eugene. They arrived Saturday morning.

This is Miss Richert's last year of cheerleading Spartan style. She's a senior in physical education, will be doing practice teaching next spring, and plans to teach high school next year.

Hot Rods Roll To New Mark

The Hot Rods team of the University of Oregon faculty bowling league set a new high for a total team series with a scorching total of 2654 pins in their match with the Flying Saucers. With that one exception, all of the records stand as they were last week, with the Physical Plant still on top of the heap.

Individual high scoring records are still the same, those being high average, Case, 175; high net series, Wiper, 593; high gross series, Helle, 617; high net game, Safely, 214; and high gross game, Skolaski, 223.

Southern Cal Team to Beat

Southern California continued to look like the team to beat for the Rose Bowl tilt as they kept their PCC slate clean with a 29-27 victory over the University of California.

Tied with USC for the Coast lead is UCLA, who registered a 61-0 rout over Oregon State. Stanford replaced Oregon in third place by virtue of its 13-7 victory over Washington.

The biggest upset of the day in PCC competition was Idaho's stunning 10-0 victory over Washington State. This was Idaho's first win over a Coast conference team since it defeated OSC in the last game of its 1952 schedule.

Team	W	L	T	PF	PA

Sigma Nu Wins In First Game

Sigma Nu downed Phi Sigma Kappa in the best two out of three games in the volleyball intramurals Monday afternoon.

Sigma Nu got off to a fast start and held the lead in the first game all the way. The score was 15-11. Phi Sigma Kappa came back to take the second game 15-9. Sigma Nu turned the score around and won the third game 15-9 to take the match.

Fijis Edge DU's

Phi Gamma Delta edged out Delta Upsilon in two fast hard fought volleyball games Monday afternoon.

Phi Gamma won the first game 15-12 and the second game 16-14. The lead in the second game changed back and forth with Phi Gamma finally edging out the two points needed.

Clubbers Win

Campbell Club took two games in a row from Philadelphia House to win their volleyball game yesterday.

Campbell Club had an easy time in the first game, getting a 15-0 victory. Philadelphia House after getting off to a shaky start made the second game tough for the Clubbers. Campbell club proved to be too much as they came from behind to win 15-12.

Cherney Rallies

Cherney Hall, after starting off poorly, came on to win in two straight games from French Hall Monday afternoon.

French Hall took the lead only to be overtaken and defeated 15-6 in the first game. In the second game the two teams battled back and forth but Cherney came through to win 15-10.

Easy Win

Hale Kane defeated Gamma Hall 15-0 and 15-1 in Monday's IM game.

The Hale Kane team showed very fine teamwork which proved to be more than Gamma Hall could handle.

Frosh Take Two

John Straub Freshmen had an easy afternoon yesterday as they downed Nestor Hall in two games, 15-6 and 15-4.

John Straub showed fine teamwork along with some outstanding individual play. They started right off in the lead and were never overtaken or challenged by Nestor.

Hetherington, don't be a heel...

NOW THAT YOU'RE SO WELL-HEELED through my offices. How can you refuse to loan me your Jaguar for my vacation, when it was through me — and me alone — you have been enjoying peripatetic comfort incomparable. On the slopes, when you went climbing with the Mountain Club . . . in the forests, clomping with the exotic Dolores . . . on the bridge path, cantering with idem . . . on the fairways, putt-ering in the rain . . . in the freezing stadium the day we beat the tar out of Oregon State College . . . in the sun, in the sand . . . in the sage-brush, where you were protected from cactus, snakes and centipedes . . . and in your own little study, where you said the darn things were more comfortable than slippers. And — oh, Yes! — in the pocketbook, where they saved you upwards of forty simoleons for a shoe wardrobe. You're darn tootin', and you're darn tootin' it was I who told you about FRYE JET BOOTS. Well, if you're the kind of a guy who can forget a favor like that—well, that's all—that's all is all I've got to say.

P.S. You, too, will realize how eternal is Hetherington's obligation when you know the whole inside (and outside) story of the famous FRYE JET BOOTS. For instance, they're made of finest chrome-tanned Calfskin specially crimped on the last for instep-and-ankle sculpture-fit, and are leather-lined for extra-wear and protection. For hiking, hunting, riding; for horse, auto or plane; for wind, sun, or rain, they're the best friends a man's feet ever had. The one and original FRYEs cost not more than the others, sometimes less.
