

Chairman Announces Noise Parade Rules

Rules for the Homecoming noise parade have been announced by Dick Van Allen, parade chairman. Representatives from paired living organizations will meet at 2 p.m. today in the Student Union to discuss the rules and other details.

General rules for the floats are:

1. Vehicle must be one single conveyance. Semi-trucks are permissible, but not extra trailers.
2. The vehicles must have the name of the organizations on both sides of the float. There will be a 10-point penalty if the names are missing.
3. The parade will start at 6:30 p.m. and will conclude at approximately 8 p.m.
4. The parade will form on University street with the head at 19th. Vehicles will assume their places in line on a first-come, first-served basis. Floats may begin formation on the right side of University street soon after 3 p.m. Any entrants not in place by 6:15 will be penalized 20 points. All floats should enter University street from 13th.

The parade will follow the general Homecoming theme, "Sh-

Boom, Hello, Hello - Again." Floats will be judged on sustained noise in the one-block judging interval, spirit of those on the float and following the float and ingenuity and originality in noise making.

SU Fishbowl Party Observes Birthday

The Student Union's birthday will be celebrated with a party next Wednesday in the Fishbowl.

Bob Pollock, SU board chairman, and Donna Shaffer, directorate chairman, will cut the cake. Free coffee will be served by the SU hospitality committee. The celebration, which marks the fourth year that the SU has been in operation, will be sponsored by the Student Union board.

Theater Seats Still Available

Tickets are still on sale at the University theater boxoffice for the first production of the current season, Mary Chase's "Bernadine."

The office will be open every afternoon this week and next week between 1 and 5 p. m. Tickets are one dollar each. The show opens Friday, plays Saturday and the following Tuesday through Saturday.

"Bernadine" has Scott Lehner and Loretta Mason, both juniors in speech, in its lead roles. Lehner plays "Wormy" Weldy, a teen-age boy who is trying to be a wheel in his crowd. Miss Mason plays Enid Lacy, the "Bernadine" of the show.

The production is under the direction of Frederick J. Hunter, assistant professor of speech, and has settings and lighting designed by Howard L. Ramey, technical director of the theater.

Morse Speaks Today in SU

Senator Wayne L. Morse will address a University assembly today at 1 p.m. on the topic "The Political Issues of 1954."

Today's 1 o'clock classes were held at the same hour Tuesday so that students may attend the assembly, according to Robert D. Horn, chairman of the University assembly committee.

Morse is currently in Oregon "stumping" for Senator Richard

L. Neuberger, Democratic candidate for the US senate. He has agreed to confine today's talk to issues rather than personalities involved in the political campaign.

Currently the senate's only Independent, Morse once described the record of the Eisenhower administration with the statement, "No runs, no hits, too many errors." Morse left the Republican party shortly before the 1952 presidential election.

He was elected to the senate in 1944, and resigned his post as dean of the University law school to take his seat in the senate. He taught at Oregon for 15 years before his election.

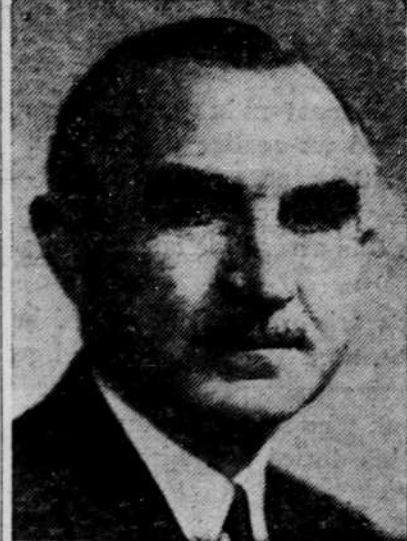

Prior to his election to the senate, Morse served on several state and federal government commissions. From 1936 to 1939 he was special assistant to the US attorney general, and then served as administrative director for the attorney general's office.

He was an arbitrator for the US Department of Labor from 1928 to 1932, and was instrumental in the settlement of an Oregon Longshoremen's strike during that period. He has also served as a member of the Oregon State crime commission.

Morse's talking feats in the senate, particularly on the tidelands oil and atomic energy questions, made him the all-time senate talking champion. His record was set during the tidelands debate, when he held the floor for 22 hours, 26 minutes.

He joined senate democrats in July to fight the administration-sponsored atomic energy bill. Despite Morse's 6, 8 and 12 hour speeches, however, the bill was passed on to the house by a 57 to 28 vote.

Morse's home is in Eugene.

Annual AWS Auction Postponed One Week

Postponement of the annual AWS Auction to next Friday, preceding the Friday at Four, of that day, was announced Tuesday by the chairman of the event, Judy Carlson. The large percentage of students leaving the campus to attend the Washington game caused the change.

Tryouts of the sorority pledge class skits will be held next Wednesday, from 6:15 to 7:30 p.m. and next Thursday from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Each pledge class will be notified of the time for its audition. The three winning groups will be auctioned off to the highest bidding men's organization immediately following the presentation of its skit in the Student Union Fishbowl starting at 3:30 p.m.

Men's groups may request the pledge classes to serve dinner and entertain at their houses for one evening.

Choice pieces of rummage collected in the drive among women's living organizations last spring term will also be sold at the auction. Proceeds from this and all other AWS-sponsored events go to the group's scholarship fund.

The winning pledge classes auctioned last year were Alpha Chi Omega, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Pi Beta Phi. They were bought by Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Theta and Alpha hall, respectively.

AGS Attacks Primary Vote

The policy committee of Associated Greek Students will recommend that the party go on record as opposing the all-campus primary election when the group meets this afternoon at Alpha Chi Omega, according to Bob McCracken, AGS president.

The all-campus primary, open to all members of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon, is held on campus at voting booths set up by the ASUO. Under the old "closed primary" system, AGS held the primary at member living organizations only.

Nearly 300 persons signed petitions circulated by AGS last spring term urging the end of the all-campus primary. At that time the AGS party endorsed a nominating convention patterned after those used by national political parties.

The proposed amendment which would have abolished the all-campus primary was defeated, however, even though it had more votes for than against. Two-thirds of the total votes cast (1166) were needed to pass the measure and it received only 996.

Both campus political parties, AGS and United Independent Students, favored the all-campus primary when it was on the ballot in the 1953 election. The measure was passed at that time, 1199 to 411. The all-campus primary then replaced the former closed primary, which was conducted by each party among its own members.

Also on the agenda for today's meeting are: discussion of a card filing system listing AGS members who are potential petitioners for campus offices; more enthusiasm within the party, and committee appointments.

Robinson Reviews 'Teahouse' Theme

The story of American Mares given the task of injecting nocratic beliefs into an East-culture formed the theme of a reading in the Browsing Room Tuesday night by Horace W. Robinson, associate professor of speech and head of the speech department.

Robinson read "The Teahouse of the August Moon," and introductory remarks were given by Robert D. Horn, professor of English. The comment, "Pain makes men think, thought makes men wise, and wisdom makes life endurable," by one of the characters in the book formed the general theme of the play.

Horn described the play as a "Combination of comedy and truth." The locale of the play was Okinawa.

Homecoming Finalists Interviewed Tonight

Final eliminations for this year's Homecoming queen candidates will be held this evening in the Student Union. The candidates are asked to wear short silks for the 10-minute final interview.

Five finalists will be selected tonight from the 12 candidates now remaining. A Homecoming queen will be determined from these five in an all campus election to be held on Nov. 9, 10 and 11.

The 12 candidates still in the running and their interview schedule follow:

Lois Powell, Sigma Nu and Delta Gamma; Barbara McNabb, Alpha Chi Omega, and Patty Fagan, Sigma Chi, Chi Psi, Pi Kappa Alpha, Delta Tau Delta and Phi Kappa Psi, at 6:30.

To be interviewed at 7 p. m. are Jill Hutchings, Phi Delta Theta; Loretta Mason, Sigma Kappa, and Audrey Mistretta, University House.

Betti Fackler, Chi Omega; Ann Erickson, freshman men's dorms, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Diane David, Susan Campbell at 7:30 p. m.

The final three are Loie Mead, Theta Chi; Mary Jane Rud, Sigma Alpha Mu, and Joyce Bearden, Phi Sigma Kappa and Alpha Tau Omega, at 8 p. m.

Woods to Give Piano Recital

William Woods, pianist, will play a concert tonight at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the music school.

Woods, an instructor of piano, is a graduate of the University of Southern California with both bachelors and masters degrees in music.

His program tonight will include Sonata in A major (Opus Posthumous), by Franz Schubert; Variations for piano, by Aaron Copland; Nocturne in E flat (Opus 55, No. 2) by Chopin, and the Ballad in F minor (Opus 52), also by Chopin.

Prices Still Dropping As Gas War Continues

The price of gasoline might go down to 20 cents by next Monday, according to the owner of a local gas station.

The gas price war began two weeks ago when two new Lucky 7 stations opened in town and posted the price of gasoline on their banners. Members of the retail gasoline association went to Jim Phillips, Northwest manager for the Lucky 7 company, and asked him to take down the displays.

Phillips refused and told the association that he felt that "the people are entitled to know what they will pay for their gas." The association member told Phillips that a gas war would result and began to cut their prices.

As a result, gas is now selling for 22.9 cents a gallon instead of the usual 31.9.

Most of the stations in town are now meeting the competition price, but the owners of the smaller stations don't like it. They want the price war to end soon, although few of them have any real hope that it will.

The manager of one station, owned by an oil company and run on a commission basis, said that he hopes the price war "goes on all winter."

"We are doing more business than we ever have before," he said.
