

Oregon Daily EMERALD

The Oregon Daily Emerald is published five days a week during the school year except examination and vacation periods, by the Student Publications Board of the University of Oregon. Entered as second class matter at the post office, Eugene, Oregon. Subscription rates: $5 per school year; $2 a term. Opinions expressed on the editorial pages are those of the writer and do not pretend to represent the opinions of the ASUO or of the University. Unsigned editorials are written by the editor; initiated editorials by the associate editors.

A Good Idea

A proposal to make some sort of an award for outstanding service on the ASUO senate will be presented to that body at tonight's meeting.

We think it's a good idea. The award, as we understand it, would be made after spring term elections to that senator who had contributed the most to the senate during the year.

He would be selected by a committee composed of the two faculty members of the senate, Donald DuShane, senate adviser, and the ASUO president and vice-president. The president and vice-president would, under the present plan, be ineligible for the award.

The committee, headed by Germaine LaMarche, senator at large, presenting the plan feels that this would give incentive for more active work on the senate as well as giving recognition for that work.

We don't feel that any such incentive should be necessary. Any person elected to the senate should have a sense of the responsibilities that go with his election. He shouldn't need a "prize" for doing good work.

However, we realize that not all senators in the past have realized these responsibilities. And we realize that not all senators in the future will enter the senate with an eagerness to work hard. So we agree with President Bob Summers and Miss La Marche that this award for outstanding work would be a good thing.

Also we feel that outstanding work in any field should be recognized. The senate is no exception. The award would go to that senator who attends meetings, accepts committee responsibilities and carries them out, who stays informed about campus issues and doesn't feel his duties end with election. —(J.W.)

How to Stop Smoking

The Emerald is not campaigning to remove the smoking habit from the University of Oregon campus. However, in the interest of public service and for whom it may concern we submit the following suggestions on how to cleanse yourself of the "feelthy" habit.

First a few short, quick, never-miss techniques:

1. Take up something worse.
2. Keep your head continually doused in a bucket of water.
3. Kill yourself.
4. Establish a hermitage at (a.) the North Pole, (b.) an uninhabited South Sea island, (c.) the South Pole, (d) the Belgian Congo, or (d.) Willamette university.
5. Put a sack over your head and keep it there (possibly this would be a good idea even if you don't smoke).

"These ideas are fine," you say, "but I want to continue going to the University and still stop smoking." For you we have some slower, but equally successful suggestions.

The instant you stop smoking begin telling everybody you see that, "I HAVE STOPPED SMOKING!" Insist on explaining to them how much more superior you are; what great will power you have; how much better you feel; how your wind has improved, and in general just what a good guy you are. In short become so obnoxious and so vociferous on the subject that you won't dare break down for fear of being razed out of town.

Another sure fire method of quitting is to bet someone a large sum of money that you will quit. The sum need not be any larger that will be necessary to bankrupt you, your family and your fraternity house! We at the Emerald volunteer to hold all stakes in these wagers.

Of course, if you give up one vice, you are supposed to engage vigorously in two or three others immediately so as to keep your mind off the original sin. Any vice of your choosing will do, well almost any.

We know of one young fellow who took his mind completely off smoking by alternately eating fire, inhaling Bensedrine and shooting out street lights with his beebie gun. This isn't our idea of vice, but do as you please.—(D.L.)
