WASHINGTON - (AP)-Voters of 33 states selected governors Tuesday in the climax of the state campaigns which could have unusual national significance.

For one thing, the outcome in California and New York could be decisive in the heavy votes these key states will cast in the 1956 presidential nominating conventions and election. The two states cast 77 of the 531 electoral college votes which name the President.

The total lineup of governors, when ballots are finally counted, may determine how far President Eisenhower will go in continuing his attempt to give the state house leaders a larger role in national affairs.

The President has made several moves to carry out a post-inauguration pledge to rely more upon the judgment of the governors than had been done in the past.

Going into this campaign, the Republicans held 29 governorships, to 19 for the Democrats. The seats of six holdover Republicans and eight Democrats were not at stake.

Tuesday's votes decided the party balance of power by determining the outcome of battles for 22 Republican and 11 Democratic governorships. Democratic nominees were unopposed in Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and Tennessee.

In the one other race, Democrat Edmund S. Muskie upset Republican Governor Burton M. Cross in Maine's September election. Muskie takes office in January.

In New York, W. Averell Harriman, onetime roving ambassador for two Democratic presidents as well as secretary of commerce and foreign aid administrator, ran against Senator Irving M. Ives, a strong supporter of Eisenhower, in a bitter campaign.

At stake was the governor's chair, vacated after 12 years by Thomas E. Dewey, and the political advantage of leading the nation's most populous state.

Another withdrawal threw open the fight in California. Earl Warren, Republican governor who won bipartisan support for three terms, resigned to become chief justice of the US supreme court. His successor, Republican Governor Goodwin J. Knight, made his first direct bid for the office, against spirited opposition from Democrat Richard P. Graves, a former college lecturer on government.

In 1929, Republican governors outnumbered Democrats, 31-17. Three years later, the Democrats took over the advantage and held it until 1944. The peak Democratic year, 1938, gave that party 39 seats, to seven for Republicans and two of other parties.

Since 1944, the advantage has see-sawed, with the GOP gaining a 25-23 margin in 1952.

Demos 'Rebound'

Four Democrats and several coffee cups were still on duty at the Lane county Democratic headquarters in Eugene at 2 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Natalie Nash, vice-chairman of the Lane county central committee said "We're awfully proud of our boys. They put up a clean fight and we feel that the Democrats in Oregon have gained a great deal by this election."

Robert Straub, candidate for county commissioner, will probably win, she added. She also thanked the Emerald for its support.

Another Democrat on the scene continued, "After 40 years of Republican rule, we have made a terrific rebound. We are not discouraged."

The Republican headquarters had closed a few hours earlier.

Case Edges Back Into Senate Lead

New Jersey senatorial candidate Clifford Case, Republican, whom the Republican party had chalked up as "one lost" early Tuesday evening, edged back into the lead in a dramatic early-morning shift in voting totals.

Case, the incumbent, had trailed his Democratic opponent, Charles Howell, by thousands of votes before midnight. During the early morning hours, Howell's lead was cut, until at 5:45 a.m. EST Case broke into the lead with a margin of 87 votes. Most of the seven precincts yet unreported in New Jersey at that hour were considered "traditionally Republican."

The campaign in New Jersey had been colored by a split within the Republican party.

Webfoots Open Hoop Sessions

Bill Borchers' Oregon Webfoots invaded McArthur court Monday night and Tuesday afternoon as they joined other Northern Division teams in opening basketball workouts.

Twenty-two hopefuls were on hand for the initial drills, including four 1954 lettermen and a 1951 veteran. That returnee was Center Jim Lescutoff, a 6-6 performer who has been out of school playing AAU basketball.

Forwards Jerry Ross and Ray Bell, both juniors, Center Max Anderson, another junior, and senior Guard Howard Page were back. Non-lettermen Gary Mc-Manus, Kent Dorwin, Bill Sherman and Rex Davis were also on hand.

Newcomers from the freshman team were Bob Anderson, Ed Bingham, Larry Barnes, Richie Costi, Berge Borrevik, Frank Werner, Darrell Tyberg, Dennis Rapp, Jerry Pool, John Lundell and Don McClain.

Borchers ran his charges through shooting drills, scrimmages, footraces, rebound-fast break work and tipping practice in a pair of two-hour sessions.

The fresh group ran through workouts both days also, under the eye of Don Kirsch. Tuesday afternoon they moved into the P.E. building, while the varsity took over McArthur court's floor.

In other practice sessions Monday and Tuesday, a liberal sprinkling of lettermen bolstered turnouts at the University of Washington and Oregon State college.

Slats Gill, head coach of the defending champion Beavers, counted eight returning veterans plus two non-lettermen. Missing, of course, was 7'3" Center Swede Halbrook, still ineligible for action.

Forwards Tex Whiteman, Jay Dean, Tony Vlastelica, Larry Paulus and Reggie Halligan were out, as were Guards Ron Robbins, Bill Toole, Johnny Jarbee, Ron Fundingsland and Jerry Crimins.

Husky Coach Tippy Dye greeted eight veterans also, including Captain Dean Parsons at center. Forwards Jim Goshaw and Karl Voegtlin and Guards Jerry Johnson, Ron Olsen and Doyle Perkins reported for practice at Seattle.

UCLA Coach Expects Fight

LOS ANGELES - (AP) - Bill Barnes, assistant to head coach Red Sanders of UCLA, said at a football writers luncheon Monday that the Bruins expect lots of fight from Oregon in Los Angeles Saturday, but the odds-makers have installed UCLA as an 18½ point favorite to beat the Ducks.

Coach Jess Hill of USC said that his club will begin scouting Ohio State Saturday, but indicated that his team was "right now interested in Stanford."

California coach Pappy Waldorf said the Bears' game with Washington at Seattle should provide a great passing duel. He called Washington "probably the best passing team on the coast."
