Democrat Gains In Late Returns

Oregon apparently had elected its first Democratic senator in 40 years this morning as Richard L. Neuberger, 41-year-old Democratic candidate, held a 2427 vote lead over his Republican opponent Guy Cordon. Only four of the state's 2449 precincts had yet to report.

Neuberger's count stood at 283,909, compared with 281,492 votes cast for Cordon. The contest may remain in doubt until the official canvass in several weeks.

The photo-finish senatorial race was one of the biggest surprises in the history of Oregon politics. Early returns Wednesday morning indicated a comfortable 10,000-vote majority for Cordon, and many assumed the GOP incumbent had been re-elected.

About mid-morning Wednesday, as votes from the Democratic stronghold in Multnomah county began coming in, Neuberger began to gain on Cordon. The Republican's lead dwindled and eventually disappeared as Neuberger edged ahead.

Upset Scored

A second upset was scored in the contest for US representative from the third district (Multnomah county), as Democrat Mrs. Edith Green, a Portland housewife, defeated T. Lawson McCall, Republican candidate. Mrs. Green had a lead of nearly 8500 votes. McCall, a radio news commentator, conceded his defeat Wednesday afternoon.

Governor Paul L. Patterson, Republican, easily won his bid for a full four-year term by defeating ex-Portland Mayor Joseph K. Carson, his Democratic opponent. Patterson led 301,927 to 226,804 for Carson, with returns from 2360 of the state's 2499 precincts.

Incumbents Returned

Republicans built up comfortable majorities in Oregon's remaining three congressional elections. The three incumbent representatives all won their bids for re-election.

In the fourth district, Republican Harris Ellsworth defeated Charles O. Porter, Democrat. Walter Norblad, Republican incumbent, piled up the state's largest lead in defeating Democrat Donald Mitchell in the first district. Second district victor was Republican incumbent Sam Coon, who defeated his Democratic opponent, Albert C. Ullman.

SU Vacancies Increased by 2

Two more vacancies probably will be forthcoming on the Student Union board, it was disclosed in Wednesday's meeting. Four vacancies already exist.

The vacancies will occur in the school of art and architecture and physical education. The present representatives from these schools have been unable to attend the weekly Wednesday meetings.

The joint ASUO-SU screening committee will meet Tuesday evening to interview candidates for the other vacancies. Petitioners include Lucia Knepper and Jack Socolofsky for representatives from the college of liberal arts, and John Shaffer and Jerry Farrow from the school of business administration. Bob Funk is the only applicant for the law school position. No one has petitioned for the graduate position.

The request from the Interfraternity council to use the SU ballroom for a benefit show to collect funds for the Ken Sweitzer memorial fund was approved.

Assistant Chairman Andy Berwick stressed that this would not be an SU special attraction since no set amount of money would be collected. A box will be placed at the door to receive donations.

Berwick also pointed out that this was not regular Student Union policy. This performance should not set a precedent, he said.

Movie Chairman Jo Anne Rogers reported on the Wednesday evening education theater and its progress this year. Attendance at the first two movies of the year showed a substantial increase over last year.

No election campaigning is to be done in the Student Union, Donald DuShane, director of student affairs, pointed out. Other ASUO campaigning regulations include: nothing is to be nailed or tacked to any tree on campus and candidates must pick up their own campaigning material from around the campus.

Oregon's SU is rated one of the best student union programs within this area, Berwick said in a report on the conference for college unions last weekend. This is particularly noteworthy since the program has been in effect only four years.

Pre-game Rally Is Held Tonight

An upset rally in preparation for Saturday's football game with UCLA will be held at 6:30 p.m. this evening in front of the Student Union.

Theme of the rally is "... the Harder They Fall;" and a skit will be presented following this theme. UCLA is currently in first place among the nation's football teams according to national ranking polls.

Houses will be paired for this rally, according to Rally Board Chairman Sally Stadelman. The pairings will be the same as those which have been drawn up for the Homecoming noise parade. Men's houses are urged to pick up their partners in plenty of time to get to the rally.

UCLA Confident Of Game Victory

Oregon's football team doesn't have much chance of staying in the game with mighty UCLA Saturday afternoon. At least this is the attitude of Bruin students before their coming game with the Ducks.

The information came from a former Oregon Student who is now a graduate assistant in political science at UCLA. He wrote a "Letter to the Editor" which appears on page two of today's paper.

Tickets Available For Homecoming

Tickets for the Homecoming barbeque luncheon are now on sale at the Student Union main desk and the Alumni office, SU M110. Price is $1.25.

Alumni who will be on campus for Homecoming weekend have been urged to attend the informal buffet luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 13, in the Ballroom.

Homecoming dance tickets will go on sale next week. The dance is scheduled for Saturday night, Nov. 13 in the SU ballroom and will follow the theme, "Diary of Dreams." Music will be furnished by Roger Middleton and "The Upperclassmen."

Homecoming buttons will be sold beginning Monday in the Student Union, Co-op and living organizations. Students have been selling buttons this week to Eugene and Springfield residents and high school students. A total of 5000 Homecoming buttons are available.

Romberg Concert Scheduled Tonight

An all star cast will sing songs and choruses from Sigmund Romberg's musicals this evening at 8 in McArthur court.

Selections from such favorites as the Student Prince, Desert Song, and New Moon will be on the program.

Heading the cast are Virginia MacWatters, coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, who starred two years on Broadway in Rosalinda, and has sung leading roles with the San Francisco Opera company and elsewhere; Nancy Keryon, mezzo-soprano star of Showboat, Helen Goes to Troy, and a popular guest on the TV Show of Shows; William Olvis, young Hollywood tenor star of radio, films, opera and concert; and Glen Darwin, known in Europe and America as the famous "Singing Sergeant" who appeared as soloist and emcee with the Army Air Force Band, and who has also sung on Broadway, at the Metropolitan Opera, and in network radio shows.

This company which presents music from "Immortal Musicals" is a new type of concert company. It presents music from the great shows by popular composers.

Music lovers who wish concert artists would include more "popular music" in their programs will find this performance made to order for them. It is a concert which will be enjoyed not only by regular concert goers, but by everyone who loves a romantic melody or a zippy chorus sung by top flight singers.

Romberg, who was trained as a civil engineer in Bucharest and as a musician in Vienna, settled in New York in 1909 when he was just 22. During the following years he wrote more than 70 operettas, and became our greatest master composer of light operas. Some of his works such as Blossom Time, Maytime, Desert Song, and The Student Prince have become top favorites.

Romberg's melodies have been known and sung by everyone in America. Few will not recognize the songs in this "Romberg Festival." Golden Days, Stouthearted Men, and Wanting You are all songs to be sung at the concert Thursday night.

This is a program for everyone. As one critic put it, "Immortal Musicals is a production one can just settle down to enjoy."

The members of Phi Theta Upsilon will usher for the concert.

Oregon Decides Senate Majority

Control of the Senate in the new Congress hinged on Oregon's Neuberger-Cordon race Thursday morning. The hotly-debated New Jersey senatorial race is being recounted, but apparently has been won by Republican Clifford P. Case, giving both parties 47 seats with one independent, Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse.

After losing Tuesday night and most of Wednesday, Senator Guy Cordon, Oregon Republican, began to slip behind Wednesday afternoon as late returns began to come in from Multnomah county. Democratic Candidate Richard L. Neuberger took the lead in the late afternoon, lost it once, and then regained the lead with 4 precincts still out.

The Democrats can control the Senate with 48 seats, because Morse has said that he will vote with them on organization.

The Republicans also need 48 seats for control, since Vice-President Nixon could cast a tie-breaking vote in their favor.

The Democrats gained control of the House of Representatives Wednesday, taking 232 seats to the Republicans' 203.
