

Neurgerger Was Morse's Student

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Richard L. Neurgerger, the Oregon Democrat who joins Independent Wayne L. Morse, also of Oregon, to give the Democrats apparent control of the Senate, is—as Republicans out here long have been aware—a former student of Morse.

In the days when Morse was dean of the law school at the University of Oregon 20 years ago, Neurgerger was a student there. Later he switched to journalism, although not until after an incident that figured in Neurgerger's campaign against Republican Sen. Guy Cordon this fall.

Oregon Republicans long have linked Neurgerger to Morse, and it is true that the 41-year-old Neurgerger has engaged in about as many controversies as Morse, who bolted the Republican Party two years ago.

Both are effective speakers and skilled debaters, and both have no hesitancy in plunging into disputes. Both also seem to dive in spontaneously, only to disclose later to their unsuspecting opponents that hours of research have preceded the plunge.

Neurgerger first caught the state's attention when, as editor of the University of Oregon student newspaper, he launched campaigns against fraternities and against military training on the campus.

Thereafter his writings kept him a controversial figure, as he argued for public power, proposed to do away with most of Oregon's counties or urged colored oleomargarine on a state where dairymen are strong.

In the course of the campaign, Republicans brought up a charge that Neurgerger was forced out of the Oregon law school years ago because he used forbidden notes in preparing a classroom paper.

Neurgerger denied this and got letters from his former dean, Morse, and the Oregon registrar to prove his point. He believes now he won support as a result of that charge.

After school, Neurgerger worked first as a newspaper reporter, then a free-lance writer. Since then, he has won national reputation as a magazine writer and author of six books. He has served three times in the State Legislature.

Oregana Prints On Sale in SU

Glossy prints of last year's Oregana photos will be sold next week on the first floor of the Student Union. Pictures will be on sale Monday through Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. and will be priced from ten to fifty cents apiece, according to size.

The photos will be arranged according to activities. Students living in houses will be listed under the name of the living organizations.

"Students should be sure to look for the red, white and black posters publicizing the sale, and to be certain not to miss it," said Sharon Snyder, chairman of Oregana Picture Sales.

Pictures of Gamma hall and Hunter hall will be taken today for the 1955 Oregana at Kennell-Ellis. Members of French hall are scheduled to have their pictures taken tomorrow.

White shirts, dark ties and dark blue suit coats will still be the appropriate attire, according to John Shaffer, Oregana photography editor. Pin-striped suits are not acceptable.

Oregana representatives will continue to visit the men's living organizations at the evening meal the day before pictures are scheduled to be taken. They will remind the men of their appointments.

Portland Demos Celebrate Victory

PORTLAND (AP) — Jubilant Democrats, who broke a long drought of office-holding in this Oregon election, celebrated the last-hour victory of Richard L. Neurgerger here Wednesday night.

Upwards of 200 of them accompanied their new champion to a press conference called at a downtown hotel at 11 p.m. after Neurgerger's lead became apparently insurmountable. Others in the hotel strewed paper streamers onto the Neurgerger party as it entered the building.

"It's a great day for Democrats. The two-party system has come to Oregon," the smiling Neurgerger told the crowd inside, mentioning the election of Mrs. Edith Green as Democratic congressman from Portland, Democrat Norman Nilsen as state labor commissioner, and the Democratic gains made in the State Legislature.

Not all the crowd could get into the second-floor room rented for the occasion. They overflowed into the hall and down into the lobby, which was jammed.

"I bear no ill will or malice to anyone on the other side," Neurgerger said in remarking on the campaign. He also said he believed the Democrats had conducted a clean campaign that should help "induce good people in all walks of life to enter politics."

YWCA Sponsors Children's Party

Members of the YWCA service commission gave a Halloween party for the children of Skipworth Home as part of their first project for the year. Every Wednesday evening girls go out to the home and entertain the youngsters whose ages range from 10 to 17. They are either homeless children or juvenile delinquents.

Phyllis Stalsberg is chairman of the service commission. Working with her on this project this term are Lola Wankman, Nancy Adams, Gretchen Eisenhardt, Fay Campbell, Jo Anne Smith, Ruth Hayden, Joan McKenice, Jane Meador and Sue Slauson.

'Bernardine' Plays Through Saturday

"Bernardine," the University theater's current production, will continue its run through Saturday. A few tickets are still available for every performance. Curtain time is 8 p.m. and seating begins at 7:30.

Mrs. Gene Wiley, theater manager, reported that this will be the last week season tickets may be purchased. The season tickets will include "Bernardine" and four other plays.

Scott Lehner and Loretta Mason, both juniors in speech, play the leads in "Bernardine." Fredrick J. Hunter, instructor in speech, is the director.

SU Currents

SU 'Birthday' Mixer Slated Friday Night

A special fishbowl mixer will be held Friday from 9 to 12 p.m. in honor of the fourth anniversary of the SU. The theme and decorations will be centered around the birthday cake.

Exploration Topic Art Gallery Exhibit

The "Age of Exploration," a photographic exhibition prepared by the editors of Life, will be on display in the Student Union art gallery until Nov. 20.

The exhibit, which deals with the period of discovery from 1400 to 1650, will feature 24 panels and some 50 pictures in addition to the photographs.

The exhibit was assembled under the direction of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

'Five Fingers' Film SU Sunday Movie

"Five Fingers," a tale of espionage, will be shown Sunday in the SU ballroom at 2:30 and 5 p.m. The cloak and dagger story stars James Mason, Danielle Darrieus and Michael Rennie. Admission is 30 cents.

Sorority 'Mom' To Be Honored

Members of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority are honoring their new housemother, Mrs. Jessie M. Kinnie, with an informal tea Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Kinnie came to the University from Fremont, Ohio. A retail buyer and style consultant for a large Louisville, Kentucky, department store, she was active in radio and TV work, giving many style show commentaries and lectures on fashion in several eastern cities.

KWAX Features Different Jockeys

Do you like variety in music? If so, tune in your radio to station KWAX which presents different types of music featuring a different disc jockey every evening who has a style and theme all his own.

Monday night's program features popular music, show tunes and instrumental numbers with Jack Dugan behind the turntable.

Jack Hickox appeals to those who like pop tunes, jazz and small instrumental groups on the Tuesday night show.

Those who prefer fast tempo tunes and peppy numbers should make it a point to listen to Jim Jones on Wednesday evenings, and on Friday night Mike Murdoch plays the older tunes along with more pops and show tunes.

surround yourself with an air of excitement

wear ELECTRIQUE

an unforgettable new fragrance

introduced to America

for the first time

by Max Factor

From the fashion capitals of the world comes Electricque... a thrilling new essence whose clinging fragrance will make the very air around you glow with enchantment.

Parfum cologne, large size $2.50

not shown: dusting powder $1.50

*all prices plus tax

AS SEEN IN LIFE

Party Season

Mode

for the young in heart...

... debuts a whirl-skirted party-goer that's bound to spend every evening out... with you! From shoulders to hemline you're wrapped in the cloud-like atmosphere of plain and shirred Chromspun acetate taffeta. And it's spot resistant too. In Hydrangea Grey, Frost Pink and Heliotrope; young-in-heart sizes 5 to 15..

17.95

Hart Larsen's

1080 Willamette St.

Phone 4-0034