

Ducks, Frosh Travel Today

Aberdeen Clash Set by Ducklings

Oregon's Frosh football team left by bus for Aberdeen, Wash., at 9 a.m. today for their second game of the season to tangle with the Grays Harbor Junior college team tonight at 8 p.m.

Coach Bill Hammer's team has been drilling hard this week in an effort to polish up their offense for the battle with the strong Washington club. Grays Harbor has won three games, lost two and tied one so far this season while the Ducklings have a 13-6 win over the OSC Rooks in their only previous outing.

Henkel to Lead Frosh

Former Eugene star Jack Henkel is expected to lead the Frosh team which last week played sluggishly for three quarters before scoring two fourth-period touchdowns to win over the Rooks. Henkel surprised Duckling supporters at the game with his fine running while seldom throwing passes from his quarterback post. He was picked as an all-star in high school mainly on his passing ability.

Hammer has been working the 38-man squad on correcting the many mistakes which came in their initial contest. Fumbles caused a big headache to the Frosh offense and emphasis has been put on holding on to the ball.

Grays Harbor Team Tough

Grays Harbor is reported to be a big team with linemen weighing well above the 200-pound mark. With a grid campaign of six games already under their belts, the Aberdeen team will offer a big challenge to the relatively inexperienced Frosh eleven.

Expected to start for the Ducklings on offense are Ken Klauer and John Robinson at ends, Hal Duffy and Jerry Kershner at tackles, Bill Alvarado and Jerry Collins at guards, Bob Reiter at center, Henkel at quarterback, LeRoy Phelps and Jim Shanley at halfbacks and Chuck Withers at fullback.

Teams Await Grid Clashes

The top three of national football—UCLA, Ohio State and Oklahoma—will enter the week-end's action in the favorite roles, according to a majority of the gridiron "experts."

The Bruin-Oregon clash in Los Angeles has been tabbed as a three-touchdown Uclan win. Ohio State's powerful Big Ten leaders meet independent Pittsburgh at Columbus and are ahead of a 14-point edge. Oklahoma, rated number three, engages Iowa State in a Big Seven conference battle picked for a 28-point win.

Two toss-up battles between other top teams are on tap for Little Rock and Iowa City. Rice, twice-beaten but ranked 13th, is pitted against fourth-ranked Arkansas in a vital Southwest loop game. Purdue tangles with Forrest Evashevski's Iowa club in a Big Ten affair.

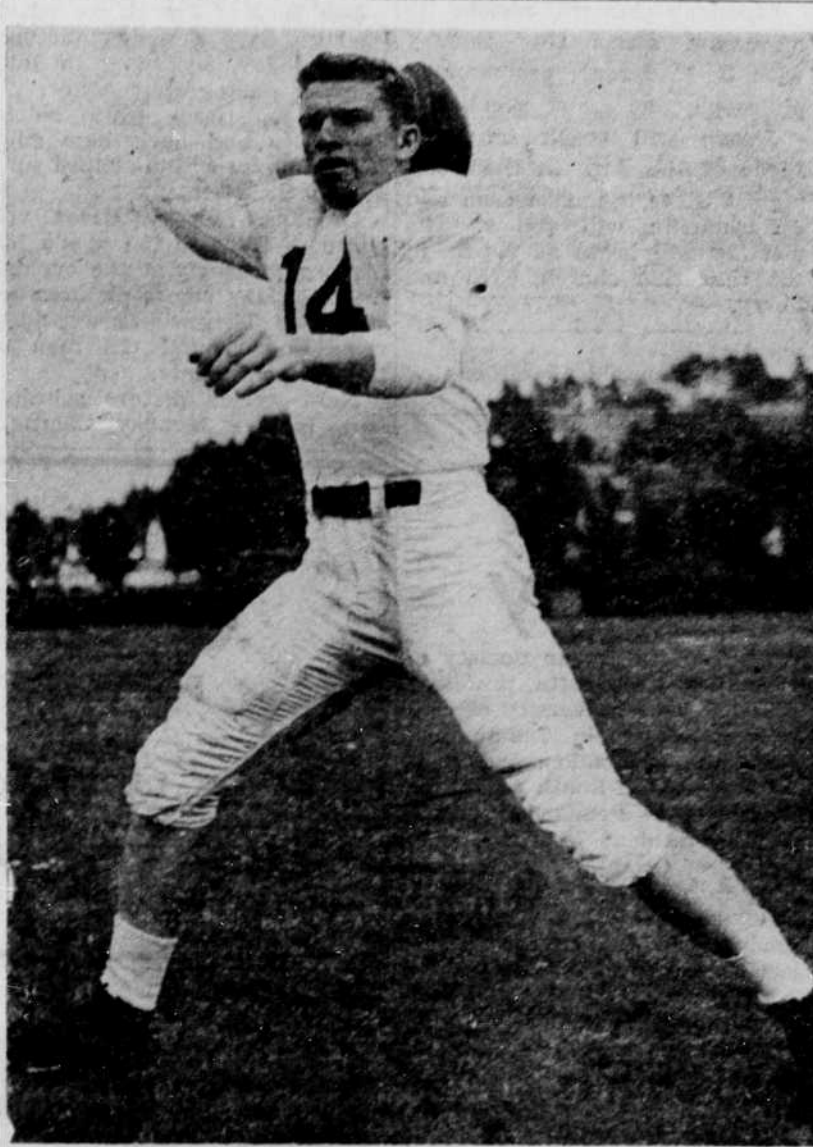

Television fans will be greeted to another Southwest battle from Waco between Baylor's Bears and the Texas Longhorns. The game will be viewable locally

George Shaw, Oregon's All-American candidate at quarterback, will probably throw a lot of passes at the UCLA Bruins in Los Angeles when the Ducks seek to post an upset over Red Sanders' league-leading team.

Oregon Team Set For Hockey Meet

Oregon's Field Hockey club will go to OSC this week end to participate in the annual Pacific Northwest Field Hockey conference.

A combined team of 15 girls, taken from members of the two field hockey club teams, the Cascades and the Evergreens, will represent Oregon in the conference, according to Miss Janet Woodruff, field hockey coach.

The Oregon team will see action against three other teams in the Pacific Northwest conference. The three games will be Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon, and Sunday morning. Oregon's opponents have not yet been announced.

Other teams participating in the conference are OSC, University of Washington, Washington State College, University of Idaho, University of Vancouver, and University of British Columbia.

The Pacific Northwest Field Hockey association is affiliated with the United States Field Hockey association. Last year the conference was held at the University of Washington, and the year before, at the University of Oregon.

Coliseum Game With UCLA Set

By Gordon Rice
Emerald Sports Editor

The Oregon Ducks, free from injuries for the first time this year, face their toughest test of the season Saturday afternoon when they meet the UCLA Bruins in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The Bruins, who have been shooting for the No. 1 ranking in the country ever since the season started, finally made it two weeks ago on the United Press poll, and last week on the Associated Press survey.

The Uclans, who have no intention of giving up their ranking this week, are ineligible for the Rose Bowl because they made the trip last year, but that hasn't hurt their spirit any.

Bruins Unbeaten

Paced by Tailback Primo Villanueva, who took over for the graduated All-American Paul Cameron, UCLA has roared through San Diego Navy, Kansas, Maryland, Washington, Stanford, Oregon State and California without a defeat.

They scored 61 points against OSC, 67 against San Diego Navy and 72 against Stanford. The only close call they've had all year was a 21-20 scare thrown into them in the last quarter by Washington. In seven games they've scored 292 points while holding their opponents to 40.

Ducks Try Defense

Needless to say, Oregon Coach Len Casanova has had his club working on defense much of the week, in the hope of at least slowing down the powerful Bruin single wing attack.

Frosh Coach Bill Hammer, who scouted the Bruins, came away impressed with the power of the team as a whole, including their large all-veteran line. Jack Ellena, who is being pushed for All-American, and Hardiman Cureton drew special mention.

In Los Angeles, Coach Red Sanders of the Bruins isn't taking anything for granted. The Uclans also have been working on defense in an attempt to bottle up Oregon's own All-America candidate, Quarterback George Shaw.

Sanders, somewhat worried after Cal's Paul Larson completed 25 out of 38 passes against UCLA last week, drilled his squad on pass defense often during the week. However, the Bruins lead the conference in pass interceptions this year with 22, and in spite of Larson's field day California did not score a single touchdown on his passes.

UCLA also spent one day on the ground—working on both offense and defense—in an attempt to get their own going and stop the Oregon attack which ground out 223 yards rushing last week against Washington.

The game will start at 2 p.m. and will be broadcast locally over radio station KASH in Eugene.

Aussie Miler Picks Oregon

half-mile is 1:52.4 and 4:12 for the mile. He hopes to do better than 1:52 and 4:10 for both races this coming season. He is not training yet because of his foot injury.

Bailey is eyeing the 1956 Olympics as a participant for Australia. He also thinks that Australia will have a good chance to gain international fame at the world meet.
