

Five Lettermen Spark Basketball Sessions

A hard-working group of Oregon basketball players rolled into its third week of practice Monday and Tuesday as Coach Bill Borchert primed the team

Hunter Hall, Sig Eps Win

Hunter hall easily captured the League VI crown in class A play Tuesday by turning back Cherney hall twice, 15-4 and 15-8. Hunter completely dominated the first game as Captain Kerry Livingston led his warriors to an 11 point margin over the losers. It appeared the second panel would follow suit until Cherney suddenly started to rally. However, they were too far behind to give the Huntermen anything more than a brief scare.

After the league finished in a three-way deadlock Hunter won the privilege to meet Cherney by defeating French hall Monday, 15-5 and 15-6. Today Hunter will meet favored Phi Delta Theta in their bid to continue to the finals.

ATO's Eliminated

Sigma Phi Epsilon, League II IM kingpins, crumpled Alpha Tau Omega, League IV champs, in a class A volleyball meeting Tuesday 15-4 and 15-10.

The Sig Eps, applying an infallible system of teamwork, smothered ATO in the initial chapter by an 11 point margin. ATO came to life in the second contest, though, and at one point held a commanding 7-3 lead.

However, the Sig Eps, although briefly stunned, wasted no time in evening the count at seven-all. ATO still proceeded to maintain a slim lead, but it was short lived. Once in control the Sig Eps wasted no time in leveling the score and went on to win.

In their quest for the IM crown Sigma Phi Epsilon will next face the winner of the Hunter hall and Phi Delta Theta match.

Westfall May Play In Oregon Contest

The prospect of top physical condition for the Oregon State Beaver football team cheered Coach Kip Taylor as he began workouts Monday and Tuesday for the Saturday Homecoming game with the Oregon Ducks.

Quarterback Ray Westfall, the sophomore pass artist, may be back for the Webfoot contest. He has been out since early in the season when he was hurt in the Washington contest.

Although having lost seven straight games after an opening win over Idaho, the Staters have uncovered a fine pair of senior tackles, Ron Aschbacher, a 215-pounder from Prineville, and Howard Buettgenbach have drawn raves from USC and Minnesota coaches in recent weeks.

Fraternity Kegling Action Continues

Two shutouts, a 3-1 win and a 2-2 tie marked fraternity bowling league action Tuesday night, with Delta Upsilon and Pi Kappa Alpha recording the blankings over Sigma Chi and Tau Kappa Epsilon.

The Alpha Tau Omega kegglers topped Theta Chi in a 3-1 match. Bryce Reimer had the high singles for the winners, a 190, but Theta Chi Don Krieger posted a 194 high for the match.

Lambda Chi Alpha deadlocked with Phi Kappa Sigma as Phi Kap J. P. Oliver posted a 178 for the high singles game.

High singles game for the night was bowled by Jim White of DU with a 196. The top triples score was racked up by White with a 520 total.

for its opening game, 16 days away.

Nearly a score of men have been working out under Borchert's sharp eye with emphasis on fundamentals of the fast break and the constant-screen offense employed by Oregon. The youthful mentor has also worked the squad hard in several informal scrimmages.

Monday and Tuesday the freshman team and Everybody's Drug, a strong local AAU team, provided the opposition for Borchert's hopefuls.

Five lettermen are available as the nucleus of the 1954-55 Duck cage team. Heading the list is Guard Howard (Lefty) Page, a two-year letterman and a back-court performer for Borchert when the two were at Marshfield high school.

The others back for another season of Webfoot ball include Center Max Anderson, a regular as a sophomore last season; Ray Bell, a 6'5" forward from Klamath Falls; Guard Jerry Ross, another dependable junior and Jim Loscutoff, an all-Northern Division second-team center back from the 1951 campaign.

From drills held thus far, it appears that these five veterans will constitute the Duck quintet for the initial game with the strong Santa Clara Broncos. Two sophomores, Ed Bingham and Jack Sherman, back at Oregon after a stretch in the service, have shown promise and are expected to see considerable action.

The team is expected to get an added boost when three of Len Casanova's football players report for hoop drills Monday following the Oregon State game. Phil McHugh, a forward, Center Bill Moore and Guard Dick James have been working out part-time with the basketballers and should give the regulars a fight for their positions when they devote full time to the winter sport.

Holland JV Mentor

Assistant Coach Barney Holland, an all-Northern Division guard for Borchert last year, will handle this year's junior varsity team, made up largely of the varsity sophomore candidates. The Jayvees will bow in competition December 7 when they encounter the Tongue Point Navy team at McArthur court.

Coach Don Kirsch's freshmen have also been working to get in condition for their limited ten-game season. The Ducklings' opener is January 10, in a preliminary to the UO-WSC varsity contest.

Leading the Frosh candidates so far have been four big men and four guards. Included are the tall boys: Paul Tucharth of Oakridge, Eli Morgan of Portland, Norm Willoughby of Eugene and Dave Shelby of Albany; and the guards: Bob Ayre of Marshfield, Don Delbon of San Francisco, Wendy Razor of Eugene and Wimp Hastings of Bandon.

Oregon-Aggie SDX'ers Cancel Football Game

A scheduled second game between the Oregon and Oregon State chapters of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, will not be played by agreement reached Monday by the two groups.

The first game, played at Oregon two weeks ago, went to the UO journalists by forfeit when the Aggie team failed to appear. A game was played between substitutes sent by the Oregon State SDX chapter, and Oregon lost, 45-0, but the game was officially rated a forfeit.

Blocking Theme Of Duck Practice

After witnessing movies of last weekend's game on Monday, the Oregon Ducks moved into full-scale workouts again Tuesday afternoon with victory in the annual "Civil war" battle Saturday with Oregon State as their goal.

Concentration of work was on blocking in the line, with the first and second forward walls running through their assignments against Oregon State offensive formations. The backfield men worked separately also, before joining the rest of the squad in dummy scrimmage sessions.

Three Webfoot regulars, linemen Ron Pfeister and Jack Patera and halfback Dick James, worked out without pads and were held out of contact work.

Coach Len Casanova warned the team Monday that Oregon State was not to be taken lightly, in view of their four straight wins over the Ducks, and the fact that they controlled the ball on 70 plays against the California Bears' 42 in last week's 46-7 loss.
