Sig's Shine in Shorts

THE "COOLEST MEN" on campus were the Sigma Chi's as they appeared at a Wednesday night dessert with the Pi Phi's. Every member wore Bermuda shorts, complete with knee length socks.

AMBITIONS ARTISTIC

Priscilla Harrington Comes To UO on $1400 Awards

By Marcia Mauney

"Ever since I can remember, Mother has talked about the state of Oregon,"—and now she is at the University, and on scholarships amounting to $1400. Priscilla Harrington, freshman in art from Montclair, N.J., and native of the Eastern coast, finds Oregon and the West amazingly different from her home of the past 17 years, but is obviously in love with her new life.

Outstanding talent, high scholarship, countless art activities during her high school career, "but mostly a great need," she modestly explains, brought her financial aid from the Montclair chapter of the American Association of University Women, the Montclair art museum, where she received art instruction for 10 years; the Montclair PEO group, and the Girls' club, a branch of the Women's club of the city.

Served as Art Editor

Art editor of the yearbook, she was also busy with art work for the newspaper at Montclair high school. "The most tremendous high school experience of all, though, was working with the Art-English class," she exclaimed.

One of only four like it in the United States, this progressive experimental class met two hours a day, with all studies in the two subjects correlated whenever possible. This talented group of students produced the color movie "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" three months before Hollywood bought the rights to it.

"We even produced the choral reading of "John Brown's Body" before we heard of Charles Laughton's group doing it," she said.

State Fair Winner

Moving to Oregon with her family last July, Priscilla entered several of her paintings in the Oregon state fair and has a collection of blue ribbons to show for it. "It was the first state fair I have ever been to," she commented. "We have never heard of anything like your rodeos and round-ups back there. And another funny thing—now I'm going to school in the third largest city in the state, and my old home town is so much larger, but not even on the map!"

One of the most obvious differences she noticed in coming West was the reaction of taxi drivers to non-tippers. At Grand Central in New York city they would chase a person half way across the station to demand a tip, in Chicago they would follow him fifty feet and suggest one, but in Spokane they would thank him for the fare and drive on.

Plans Commercial Art Career

After graduation and perhaps a year of graduate work, "Pris," as she is known to her many new friends, hopes for a career in commercial art.

Among the many phases of this field of which she has dreamed, the designing and production of TV sets is most recent. "And with color TV becoming such a broad, new field, it sounds more exciting and promising than ever," the ambitious young artist said.

WRA Needs Chairmen For Annual Carnival

Petitions for chairman and co-chairman of the WRA-sponsored carnival scheduled for Friday, Jan. 21, are being called for by the president of the Women's Recreation association, Nikki Powell.

All women are eligible for these positions and must turn in their petitions to the cage of the women's physical education department by Wednesday.

The carnival consists of booths sponsored by paired living organizations. It will be held after the basketball game with Oregon State college.

Pledges' Reps Elect Officers

Officers elected at the year's first meeting of Junior Panhellenic include Jean McPherson, president; Dotty Griffith, vice-president; Pat Gallagher, secretary, and Pat Thompson, treasurer.

Including the presidents of the 16 sorority pledge classes, the group was organized this year under the direction of Golda Wickham, associate director of student affairs, Nita Hamilton, adviser to the junior group from Panhellenic, and Olivia Tharaldson, last year's Junior Panhellenic president.

Among the activities of the group discussed at the meeting were the pledge banquet winter term and the tea for the high school senior girls spring term. Dues of 25 cents a term from each pledge will be collected for these projects.

Panhellenic Group Plans Joint Session

Meeting in the first Panhellenic Tri-Workshop held for many years will be the Panhellenic councils of Oregon State college, Willamette university and Oregon Thursday, Dec. 2, in Corvallis.

For the past several years, the groups from each institution have met separately, Carol Wenner, president of the University Panhellenic, said.

Meeting with the women from the three schools will be the dean of women from each and several members of each of the three cities' Panhellenic boards.

Oregon representatives will include Miss Wenner, Darlene Crawley, Joanne Hardt, Nita Hamilton and Sally Ryan.

Open Rush Closes As Four Pledge

Four women were recently pledged during the fall term open rush period ending today, according to Mrs. Margaret Kopp, student affairs secretary.

Pat Donovan, Janet Duffy and Leola Lorenzen are pledges of Delta Gamma, and Roberta McLean of Alpha Omicron Pi.

Pi Phi's to Host Annual AWS Tea

AWS will hold its annual Christmas tea at the Pi Beta Phi house Saturday, Dec. 4, from 2 to 4 p.m. for women faculty members, wives of faculty members and all women students.

Gift boxes, donated by campus living organizations, for needy Eugene families, will be on display.

Margaret Tyler is general chairman of the tea. Sub-chairmen include Jean Fay, invitations; Jo Ann Godfrey, entertainment; Jean McPherson, refreshments; Billie Bartle and Mollie Gross, collections; Evelyn Nelson, decorations; Bobby Harris, publicity, and Sharon Snyder, promotion.

Campus Merry-go-round

Alpha Xi Delta and Alpha Delta Pi both held a fireside Friday night, featuring a smorgasbord and autumn themes, respectively.

The past two weeks have also brought surprise romantic news to the Pi Phi's. Pat Case announced her engagement to Gene Owen, formerly an ATO at the University of Washington and now in the US Air Force, at a traditional "Cookie-Shine" Sunday evening. Last Tuesday Jackie Robertson announced her pinning to Ray Bell, ATO, and Friday Marcia Cook revealed her pinning to Don Gartrell, Phi Delta Theta. Molly Gross, a Pi Phi pledge, is also wearing a Phi Delt Pin, belonging to Ted Larsen.

Mortar Board To Convene

Delegates from eight colleges and universities in the Northwest will meet Saturday, Dec. 4, for the annual convention of Mortar Board, held this year on the Oregon campus.

Approximately 45 members of the senior women's honorary are expected to attend the conference, which will open Saturday morning with an address by Golda P. Wickham, associate director of student affairs.

Discussion groups will be held in the Student Union, with a tour of the campus and a YWCA coffee hour planned for the delegates.

Washington State college, University of Idaho, Whitman college, Montana State college, Montana university, Oregon State college and Oregon will be represented.

Advisers of the University Mortar Board group are Mrs. O. Meredith Wilson, Josephine Moore, manager of the news bureau, and L. E. Anderson, director of public services.

He's Handsome!

WHO IS HE?
"What's his name. I want a date with him," she says. Aha, we know who he is, and he IS handsome. Check those clothes he wears. Obviously he prefers hand-ironed shirts. And he's particular about the starch. Of course, he likes his cords pressed and his denims starched. Does he have a valet? Why should he when he can have this special service at the Washateria? He knows he can have his clothes FOLDED, too, at no extra cost. This handsome man has his laundry done at the
