Nursing has plenty of activity and never a dull moment, Mrs. Darlene Werner, senior in the school of nursing of the University medical school, told the White Caps, pre-nursing club, at their last fall term meeting held Wednesday noon in the Student Union.

Mrs. Werner described the training that a student nurse will receive in her senior year by relating some of her experiences.

The training includes work in the public health field, tuberculosis hospital, children's hospital and the county hospital. She feels that the senior classes are particularly interesting.

"Nursing gets in your blood," she stated.

She also considers membership in Oregon State Student Nurses' association a "must" for future nurses.

As one of few married student nurses, Mrs. Werner believes that nurse's training and marriage can be combined successfully.
