

Congress Selects Leaders

WASHINGTON-(AP) - Democrats and Republicans set up their command organizations for the senate and house Tuesday, clearing the way for the start of the 84th congress at noon Wednesday.

In a series of closed-door caucuses, both parties picked the leaders they were expected to pick and senate Republicans agreed to try to present a "united front" on controversial issues, thus soft peddling differences within their party.

Democrats, ready to take control again after two years in the minority, promised there will be no opposition just for the sake of opposition to the policies of the Republican administration.

GOP senators unanimously chose Senator William F. Knowland, Calif., as their floor leader.

No opposition developed in the wake of Knowland's public differences with the administration on foreign policy while majority leader in the 84rd Congress.

Senate Democrats made their 1953-54 leader, Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader again for the new session—this time leader of the majority.

Likewise according to form, Democrats picked Say Rayburn of Texas for speaker of the house while the Republican speaker of the last house, Joseph W. Martin Jr., Mass., was unanimously elected minority leader.

Massachusetts' John W. McCormack was returned to his old spot as house Democratic leader. He later picked Republican Carl Albert, Okla., to be assistant leader.

From Democrats came one indication that they expect the cooperation they have been promising to work both ways.

Rayburn told house Democrats some things were said and done by Republicans in the 1954 campaign which he could not forgive or forget.

DuShane in Eugene School District Group

Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs, has accepted a position as chairman of a new lay advisory committee being formed by the Eugene school board.

Virgil M. Cameron, board chairman, announced DuShane's appointment Friday.

The committee, formed for the purpose of studying school building and finance problems, will consist of about 30 members from all the individual school areas in district 4.

After studying the separate problems, the committee will make recommendations of the best methods of procedure to the school board and budget committee.

An immediate problem to be considered by the new committee will be how to finance needed school construction in the next five years. The district may need at least two more junior high schools and another senior high, according to school officials.

A $600,000 serial levy running for five years and now in operation will take care of many of the needs of elementary and junior high schools in the near future.
