Two University students were injured Sunday when a small passenger plane crashed at the corner of 17th and Laura in Springfield, about 30 blocks west of the McKenzie airport. Two others, passengers in the plane, were unhurt. The crash occurred at 5:30 p.m.

Dick Zarones, junior in philosophy and pilot of the plane, and Nancy Hagglund, junior in English, were taken by ambulance to Sacred Heart hospital for X-rays where they were reported not in critical condition. Unhurt were Greta Greig, freshman in liberal arts, and Bob Crites, senior in speech.

The plane was en route from Salem and was at an altitude of 1500 feet when the crash occurred. According to Crite the plane's motor quit from undetermined causes.

Brockway to Speak Tues.

Fenner Brockway, former Labourite member of the British parliament and long a champion of African freedom, will speak at a University Assembly Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Student Union ballroom.

"The Challenge From Asia and Africa" will be the topic of Brockway's address. A coffee hour at 4 p.m. in the Dad's Lounge will follow the lecture.

Born in Calcutta, India, the son and grandson of English missionaries who served in India and Africa, he set out to earn his living by writing.

At 23 he became assistant editor of the Labour Leader, the Independent Labour Party weekly newspaper, and a year later became its editor.

When World War I broke out, Brockway became one of the younger leaders of the Non-Subscription Fellowship, composed of Quakers and other religious objectors to war. Brockway was one of 12,000 who were imprisoned during the war. He served sentences totalling three years.

In 1923, Brockway returned to the ILP and became editor of the New Leader, successor to the Labour Leader. In 1928 he visited India as the ILP fraternal delegate to the Indian National Congress. He became a close friend of both Ghandi and Nehru.

Elected to Parliament from East Leyton in 1929, he lost his seat three years later when the Labour party suffered an overwhelming defeat. Then followed 15 years of political inactivity during which time he established the Central Board for Conscientious Objectors to assist young men who were opposed to war and conscription.

Brockway resigned from the Independent Labour Party in 1945; he rejoined the party in 1946 and was elected M.P. for Eaton and Stouth in 1950.

US Warships Steam Toward Tachen Island

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Three U. S. carriers and other warships Sunday steamed toward the invasion-menaced Tachens to await orders to cover the evacuation of the garrison in a deal by which the United States would help to defend some offshore islands, a reliable source said.

The informant said the U. S. warships were ready for action in the event the Communists try to interfere.

Peiping radio heard in Tokyo cold-shouldered any plan for a United Nations cease-fire, declaring it was U.S. "plot" to "interfere in the domestic affairs of China."

Had it not been for the U.S. 7th Fleet, which guards Formosa "would have been liberated years ago," said Peiping, quoting People's Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Communist Party.

The perilous nature of the waters into which the warships were reported moving was underscored by these two latest flareups:

1. An air battle broke out south of the Tachens, which are 200 miles north of Formosa, when the Chinese Communists intercepted a flight of four Nationalist planes. No damage to either side was reported.

2. The Defense Ministry said Nationalist artillery broke up an attempt by a small Red force of more than 10 junks to invade one of the islands near the Matsu Island group 100 miles northwest of Formosa.

Matsu and Quemoy, across the strait from Formosa, would be brought under the 7th Fleet's protection as part of the deal, informants said.

Informed sources said the Nationalist withdrawal from the Tachens was contingent upon President Eisenhower setting a final seal to the plan for regrouping Nationalist forces and President Chiang Kai-Shek issuing orders to the Tachen garrison to withdraw. The Fleet hitherto has been assigned only to protect Formosa and the nearby Pescadores.

Man, Religion, Society Theme of RE Week

"Man, Religion and Society" will be the theme of the 1955 Religious Evaluation week on campus. RE Week is scheduled for Jan. 30 to Feb. 3.

Featured speaker Harry R. Rudin, Colgate professor of history at Yale, will deliver the theme address, "Man, Religion and Society," Sunday evening.

Monday's theme will be "Personal Religion at Work in the World and the Nation." Rudin will speak at 3 p.m. on "The Religious Individual and World Affairs." Edwin Halsey, professor of religion and humanities at Reed college, will speak at 8 p.m. on "Religion in Education."

Locations to Be Told

The locations of the addresses have not yet been released, but will be available later this week, according to Dick Allen, RE Week publicity chairman.

The same theme will be used Tuesday when Frank Williston, professor of far eastern studies at the University of Washington, speaks on Christianity's Future in the Far East," at 3 p.m.

Religion in Government

The Rev. Martin Thielen, director of education of the Roman Catholic Arch Diocese of Portland, will deliver the evening address, "Religion in Government Affairs."

"Personal Religion at Work in the Community," will be the theme of Wednesday's RE Week activities. Charles Leber, general secretary of the board of foreign missionaries of the Presbyterian church, U.S.A., will speak in the afternoon on "The Shaping Forces of Religion in the Community."

Nodel to Speak

Rabbi Julius J. Nodel will speak at 8 p.m. on "Religion in the Family." Rabbi Nodel is spiritual leader of the Temple Beth Israel in Portland.

Thursday's theme will be "Religion at Work in the Individual." Williston, Thielen and the Rev. Russell B. Staines, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Seattle, will be the members of a panel.

Staines will summarize the week's activities that evening with a talk on "Man, Religion and Society."

Billiard Champion To Appear in SU

Charlie Peterson, 77-year-old world-famous fancy shot cue artist, will give trick shot exhibitions at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the Student Union recreation area, according to Louis Bellissimo, SU recreation director.

Peterson will be available for free instruction in straight-rail and three-cushion billiards any time during the morning, afternoon or evening hours of the SU during his two-day stay on campus.

The purpose of his country-wide tour of college campuses is to teach beginners that billiards is a game easy to learn and easy to play. His tour is under the auspices of the Association of College Unions.

Revival of the former annual spring term event was recently approved by the Senate.

Registrar Announces Plans For Short Registration Lines

By Sue Lamb
Emerald Reporter
Registration lines will be limited to an absolute minimum next term, according to Clifford L. Constance, registrar.

The University's much discussed registration methods are getting a thorough going over by Constance, Donald M. DuShane, director of student affairs, and J. Spencer Carlson, director of admissions and counseling.

In interviews Friday, all three men expressed the idea of adding extra personnel to the registration staff, thereby making the checking procedure faster and the lines shorter.

A discussion of the preliminary registration program used in 1948 through 1953 was held by the ASUO senate at its last meeting. Constance, Carlson and DuShane presented the problems and complexities of the old system and of the one the University is now using.

"The members of the senate had a very good understanding and acceptance of the technicalities and problems of registration procedures," said Constance.

Process Explained

The old method of preliminary registration consisted of a period before the end of the term when students could complete almost all the steps of registration for the next term in their spare time.

Three main problems were evident in this method: (1) students who were unable to complete registration before the next term had to return their IBM cards so that they would remain in good condition. When the students returned for the following term it was necessary to stand in line to get the cards back. This process of filing and distributing the cards also produced an extra degree of work for the office staffs;

Ducks Asked to Invite Dads to Annual Affair

A sample letter including all the main events of Dads' Weekend is printed on the inside pages of today's Emerald for all students who wish to ask their dads to Dads' Weekend.

Dads' Weekend this year will include all those events listed and more for the enjoyment of the Oregon dads and students. In addition to these main events will be the sign contest held each Dads' Weekend.

This year the signs made by living organizations to welcome the dads will be based around the theme, "Viva le Papa." The signs will be judged Friday night, February 4, by judges to be chosen next week. All living organizations are requested to send a representative for the sign contest to a meeting Monday at 4 p.m. in the Student Union, according to Barky Herman sign contest chairman.

Another event of the weekend will be the selection of the Dads' Day hostess, traditionally a married student who has attended Oregon, or now attends. The first eliminations for Dads' Day hostess will be Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union. The second and final eliminations before the campus votes will take place Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

The campus will vote on the hostess finalists February 3 and 4, according to Mary Sandeberg and Julie Miller, co-chairman of the Dads' Weekend hostess selection committee.

Dads' Day luncheon tickets go on sale today, according to Peggy Gathercoal, luncheon chairman. Tickets will be $1.25 each. President O. Meredith Wilson will be the featured speaker at this luncheon.

Special seating will be arranged for the dads and their sons and daughters at the Saturday night basketball game between Oregon and Washington, according to Lolly Quackenbush and Gordon Summers, co-chairman of the special events committee.

The traditional trophies presented to living organizations with the highest percentage of dads attending Dads' Weekend will be awarded at half-time.
