

Plan for Greek Week Returns to Committee

By Sally Ryan
Emerald Associate Editor

One Emerald reporter was ejected and a second allowed to remain at a joint meeting of Panhellenic and the Inter-fraternity council Thursday night.

IFC reporter Pete Taussig was asked to leave the meeting on the grounds that some of the material covered in the meeting was not to be reported.

Previously Taussig had left an IFC meeting when he refused to let the council decide what it wanted printed.

IFC President Pete Williams pointed out that the organization was not strictly a campus group and therefore had the right to close its meeting at any time.

Under discussion at the meeting were plans for Greek Week. After an hour and a half hassle, plans as submitted by a joint committee from the two organizations were referred back to the committee with only one change: no pairing of living organizations.

Dissension arose first over the work involved in planning the weekend. Theta Chi President Gary Jones suggested that activities be cut to a single, all-Greek dance.

Williams concurred, pointing out that plans for the week as outlined by the committee were "somewhat different than our original idea."

According to Williams, the original plan was for a week of "planned spontaneity to have fun within our own orbit."

"We have lost our objective," Williams said. "I heartily recommend that we let it go until next year. Chaos has set in. This isn't our idea of Greek Week."

Sigma Alpha Mu President Don Rotenberg pointed out that

Schwary Orchestra Plays at Senior Ball

"DREAMS OF TOMORROW," at the Senior Ball Saturday night will be accompanied by music from Dick Schwary and his orchestra in the Student Union ballroom. Shown playing at a recent dance, the band has played in and around Portland and was the band for the Homecoming dance last year.

Winter term's only major all-campus dance, the Senior Ball, will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Student Union ballroom with music by Dick Schwary and his orchestra.

Something new in decorations for all-campus dances will be the "black lighting" planned by the decorations committee headed by Lorin Larson, class representative. "Modern" colors have been used in the decorations in keeping with the theme of the dance, "Dream of Tomorrow."

Two large mobiles suspended from the ballroom ceiling will complete the dance decorations.

Musical Entertainment

Intermission entertainment will be musical, but just exactly what was not revealed by Don Rotenberg, senior class president and chairman of the dance. Rotenberg will act as master of ceremonies.

Programs for the formal dance will be in the shape of non-symmetrical stars, in harmony with the decorations, according to Dorothy Kopp, class representative, who is in charge of the programs. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey, instructor in speech, will be the official chaperons.

Tickets at SU

Tickets for the formal dance are on sale for $1.80 a couple at the SU main desk today and tomorrow. Tickets will also be on sale at the door Saturday night. Flowers are optional for the dance.

During the past week, barber-shop quartets from Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Phi Epsilon have been issuing musical invitations to the dance.

Sculpture Institute Continues Meets

The second day of the Northwest Institute of Sculpture was opened this morning by a section meeting on historical papers, under the chairmanship of Mark Sponenburgh, assistant art professor.

A section meeting on theoreticcal papers met at 10:30 a.m. in the Student Union. Philip Gilmore, Southwest Oregon Chapter of AIA, was chairman for this section.

Ernst Scheyer, division of humanities, Wayne university, Detroit, Mich., will speak at the luncheon, also to be held in the SU, on "Universal Values in a Regional Expression in Sculpture."

An exhibition of Pacific Northwest Sculpture is also being held at the school of architecture and allied arts. This exhibition, held in conjunction with the Institute of Pacific Northwest Sculpture and the University's Festival of Arts, will be displayed in the school until March 11.

Collections containing sculpture of the prehistoric, aboriginal, the 19th and 20th century periods and the work of contemporary artists have been donated from various museums in the west coast for this exhibit.

A section containing the work of some Oregon students in sculpture has also been included in this display.

Dilliard to Give Memorial Talk

Irving Dilliard, editor of the editorial page of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, will deliver the ninth Allen Memorial Lecture tomorrow as part of the annual Oregon Press Conference on campus this weekend. The lecture will be in 221 Allen at 1:30 p.m. This is one of the few events which will be open to all students.

Other events of the Press conference tomorrow will be a panel discussion by a group of Oregon high school students on "Getting Young Readers Interested in the Newspaper," at 10:15 a.m., and an address by William Tugman, editor of the Port Umpqua Courier, and former editor of the Eugene Register-Guard.

"The Thirty Years War" will be the subject of Tugman's speech. These events will be open only to conference delegates and journalism students.

History Prof. Talks Tonight

L. R. Sorenson, assistant professor of history, will speak on "Calvinism and Capitalism" at 7:30 tonight in the SU browsing room.

Sorenson will tell how Calvinism influenced capitalism; and will penetrate the character of the Calvinists and show how they "saved and invested" to create Capitalism. Sorenson maintains this religious impetus refutes the strict economic interpretation of history.

Following the lecture will be a question and answer coffee hour.

Barrington Report Placed Before State Legislature

By Sam Frear
Emerald Reporter

A new salary schedule for state employees is now being considered in the state legislature which would affect all of the 1000 different state jobs—from Fish Liberator and Potato Specialist to University president and Student Union Director.

The plan, now being heard before the Ways and Means Committee was developed by Barrington Associates of New York after a survey of state jobs. All 17,500 state employees would be divided into 23 "job group" pay brackets. In each pay bracket there would be 5 upward pay steps, each a 6% increase of the starting salary.

The purpose of the plan is to place jobs of comparable worth in the same pay brackets. Promotions would be by merit review, held at least once every two years.

Most jobs connected with the University for the most part are in the upper 20% of state employees that are in the higher pay brackets. The other 80% of employees are in the first seven pay scales.

President's Salary Raised

Under the proposed pay scale, the University president would receive a salary ranging from $946 to $1228 a month. This would make a difference of over $4000 a year between the starting salary and the sixth stage.

Other salaries for University professors would be:

Dean of a school, minimum of $725 to a maximum of $941 monthly. Full professors from $606 to $788. Associate Professors, $512 to $663. Assistant Professors from $390 to $506.

1730 Employees Affected

The Barrington plan, if enacted by the legislature, would affect 1730 employees immediately, these getting pay raises right away. Another 14,500 employees would be readjusted to the new schedule over a two year period. Of the 17,500 state employees, 1250 would be classified as overpaid in their present position and would be readjusted to make the pay commensurate with the job done.

Senator Morse Now Democrat

EUGENE (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon switched his registration to Democratic here at his home city Thursday.

Morse was accompanied by Howard Morgan, the Oregon Democratic Central Committee chairman.

"I am convinced that I can best serve the people of Oregon and best develop a sound legislative course of action that will benefit the people of our country fighting shoulder to shoulder with the liberals in the Democratic Party," Morse said.

Regional ISA Convention Opens with Meeting Today

The regional Independent Students association convention will open at 2 p.m. today with a general meeting in the Student Union. Registration begins at noon in the SU.

Delegates from several Northwest schools will attend the session, according to Len Calvert, president of the Oregon United Independent Students, convention hosts.

Three Discussion Periods

Other meetings today will include three discussion periods from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the SU. Delegates from WSC will lead the discussion on party organization and dormitories. Sam Vahey, junior in business, will lead the third group, on finances.

The second annual UIS dance will be held in Gerlinger hall for convention delegates and all Oregon students from 9 to 12 tonight. Campus clothes will be in order. Admission is 50 cents per student.

Saturday morning discussion periods are scheduled from 9 to 10:15 in the SU. Hollis Ransom, graduate in political science, will preside over the discussion on student government.

Registration in SU

The registration desk in the SU will be open from 8 to 12 a.m. Saturday.

The last group of discussion periods is scheduled from 10:30 to 12 a.m. Saturday. Connie Drury, sophomore in music, will lead the discussion on off-campus students.

Luncheon Saturday

A luncheon will be held from 12 to 1:30 p.m. in the SU. Brad Blaine, counselor for men, will speak on "Oregon's Freshman Living Program."

The convention will close with a general meeting and election of regional officers from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Meetings Open

All convention meetings will be open to Oregon independent students. Oregon students who wish to be voting delegates, however, should pay a 75-cent registration fee, according to Calvert. Students who wish to attend the Saturday luncheon will be charged $2 for the luncheon and for registration.
