

Goldman to Lead UO Band Concert

Edwin Franko Goldman, leader of the well-known Goldman band of New York City will be guest conductor at the University concert band performance Wednesday.

The concert will be at 8:15 p.m. in Student Union ballroom. It is open to all University students and Eugene townspeople.

Goldman is one of the more noted men in the field of band music in the nation. Since 1911 he has directed his own band in concerts in New York.

For the University concert Goldman will direct 110 members of the concert and varsity bands in many of his own compositions including the most well-known, "On the Mall."

Goldman has composed more than 100 other marches and other compositions for band. He has also written many articles and books on band music.

Students May Find Lost Books in SU

Mrs. Jean Bailey, in charge of the lost and found department, has announced that many textbooks and notebooks have been found and are waiting to be claimed at the main desk in the Student Union.

Names in some of the lost books are: Dale Banks, Helen Bates, Joanne Brandon, John Eohiman, W. R. Bullahn, Jr., Norma Carson, Eileen DeWilde, Gordon Dahlquist, Don Dexter, Raymond Freauff, Raymond Green, Arlene Hardt, Chuck Harrell, M. P. Jacobsen, Shirley Kraus, Aimee Lifebare, Lynn Lemery, D. A. Maxwell, Shannon McGee, Barten A. McKagen, Fred Mehr, John O'Keefe, Ted Owens, Jim Perry, Robert Reaves, E. P. Remir, Bruce Titus, William Vibrans, Joanne Ware, R. Wilson and John Winkelman.

Many books in the lost and found department are without names, and the losers may claim by identifying them.

Tax Returns Help Available Mar. 28

Students who wish help in making out state income tax returns may receive aid from a representative of the state tax commission beginning March 28.

The representatives will be in the old Post Office building, 23 W. 6th, in Eugene from 8 to 5 p.m. on the following dates: March 28 to April 1, April 4 to 8, and April 11 to 15, inclusive.

UW Denies Student Bid To Invite Oppenheimer

SEATTLE (AP) — The University of Washington Board of Regents Saturday denied a petition, signed by 1,107 students, which asked that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer be invited to lecture at the university.

The petition, presented in person by 40 students at a board meeting, protested the action of University President Henry Schmitz in rejecting a recommendation by the physics department that the atomic scientist be invited.

This was the second time for the regents to uphold Dr. Schmitz in the Oppenheimer matter. Charles F. Frankland, chairman of the regents, assured the petitioners that the matter had been reviewed carefully.

Today's Staff

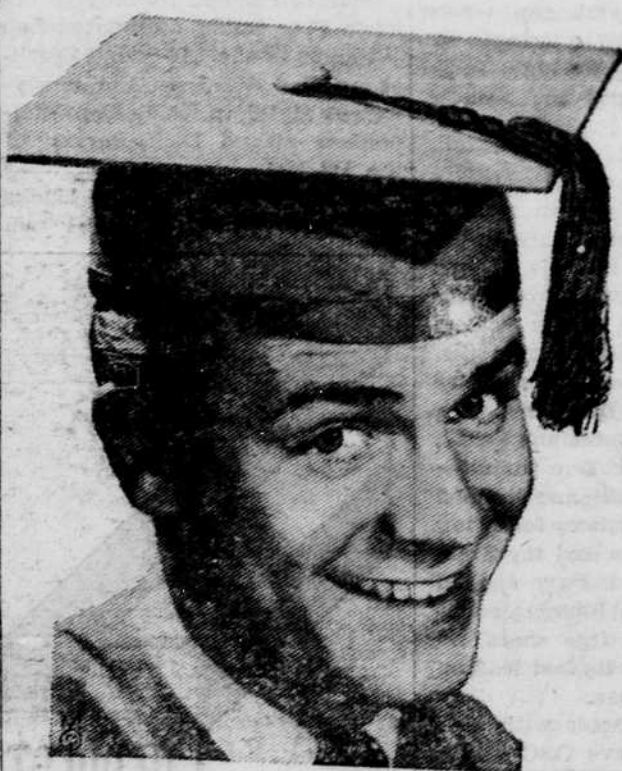

Makeup Editor: Valerie Hersh. News Desk: Bob Robinson, Anne Ritchey. Copy Desk: Marcia Mauney, Kathleen Morrison. Night Editor: Janet Kneeland.

Little Colonel Contestants

EIGHT FINALISTS in the Little Colonel contest have been announced, four each for the army and air force ROTC units. The four for the air force (top row) are, left to right: Joan Hunter, Ruth Joseph, Janet Wick and Pat Leonard. The four contestants in the bottom row, competing in the army contest, are: Diane David, Marcia Dutcher, Alma Owen and Charlotte Britts. The winner will be decided by preliminary vote and percentage of ticket sales and will be announced at the Military Ball Saturday night. See Little Colonel story on page 1.

PATRONIZE EMERALD ADVERTISERS

He Needs Experience, Too!

"Experience Is The Best Teacher"

Now! Learn Advertising

TRAINING SESSIONS!

Mr. Jack Weber, a former newspaper advertising manager now studying for a master's degree instructs Emerald ad staffers every Saturday at 1 o'clock. Talking over results of your account work speeds up learning. Get in on this if your aim is to learn advertising!

ACTUAL EXPERIENCE!

You can get some Emerald advertising accounts and gain actual selling experience. Call on as many or as few as you wish. You'll find there's nothing like talking to businessmen which will give you advertising know-how. And how this will pay off after you graduate!

For a chance to sell Emerald Advertising, or for layout or office work, talk to Donna Runberg or Bill Mainwaring at the Emerald office today!

