

CAMPUS.....merry-go-round

At Alpha Gamma Delta

Harriet Scroggins is the newly-elected president of the Alpha Gams. Camille O'Toole will serve as first vice-president for the coming year, with Georgialee Gayer as second vice-president. Marlene Jewell is corresponding secretary and treasurer and Nancy Brailsford is social chairman.

At Alpha Omicron Pi

Newly-elected officers at AO Pi, installed at the first chapter meeting of the term Monday, are headed by Abbie Andrews, who was elected unanimously at the end of last term.

Assisting her will be Carolyn Kaser, vice-president; Pat Wilson, rush chairman; Claire Thompson, recording secretary; Nancy Leake, corresponding secretary; Kay Whiteman, treasurer, and Anne Ritchey, social chairman.

At Delta Zeta

President Charlotte Martin and the other new DZ officers have been announced. Georgia Taggart is first vice-president; Dorothy Allen, second vice-president; Jacqueline Ferris, treasurer; Miriam Vaaler, recording secretary, and Darlene Lorrett, corresponding secretary.

Two DZ's were married recently. Margaret McNeil, sophomore in liberal arts, became the bride of James Maloney, senior in political science, Feb. 26 in Portland. Barbara Hoy was married to Gary Godfrey, junior at OSC. Sally Byron is engaged to Brooks Walker, junior at the University of Colorado.

At Kappa Kappa Gamma

Barbara Williams announced her pinning to Scott Page, ATO, this Monday. Cloe Fairweather also recently announced her pinning to Joe Erkenbrecher, Phi Psi. During final week Sue Ralston surprised the Kappas by revealing her engagement to Nick Collins, Theta Chi.

At Kappa Alpha Theta

Two weddings and a pinning take the romantic spotlight at the Theta house this week. Shirley Bier and Dave Lowe, Sigma Chi, were married at Spokane, Wash., during spring vacation, and Verity Kitchen and Phil O'Keefe, Chi Psi were married March 19. Both couples will continue their studies at Oregon. Nancy Adams recently announced her pinning to Phil Draper, Sigma Chi.

At Orides

Sally Barnum is the newly-elected president of Orides. Other officers are Connie Drury, vice-president; Rita Grislis, secretary; Helen Donovan, treasurer; Irma Coe, sergeant-at-arms, and Gwen Endicott, social chairman.

Pat Taylor and Carol Eldridge were awarded the Orides' mothers scholarships.

The pinning of Betty Jo Thomson to Martin Walker, of OSC was announced at a recent party of the organization.

At University House

Officers recently elected at University house include Annell Anderson, president; Jan Michael, vice-president and social chairman; Jean Miller, secretary; Alice Cashman, treasurer; Jean Heady, work chairman, and Carole Beech, chaplain.

At Pi Beta Phi

Spring vacation brought two weddings for the Pi Phi's. Marcia Dutcher, who was recently elected "Little Colonel," was married to Gary Jones, Theta Chi. They are presently living in Eugene and will both continue their studies. Mary Jo Carlson and Stan Russell, Phi Delta Theta at Oregon State, were married also during the vacation. The couple will make their home in Grants Pass.

Students Spurn New 'Flat Look'

By Cornelia Fogle
Emerald Reporter

College students are definitely turning thumbs down on Christian Dior's "flat look." While it may have made a big splash in more sophisticated circles, students think it doesn't have a chance in collegiate circles this year.

In a recent Associated Collegiate Press poll of collegiate students, only 11 per cent believed that the "flat look" will become more popular in 1955. Twelve per cent were undecided, but an overwhelming 77 per cent said they felt it definitely would not become more popular in collegiate circles.

Violent Disapproval

While some students were unconcerned with the problem, some violently disapproved of the new "flat look." And the students who didn't like it generally knew why. One co-ed at Southern Methodist university summed up general opinion by saying simply, "Boys like curves." And men seem to be in full agreement with the graduate student at SMU who says, "Dior would take away a 'sweater girl's' biggest asset—and sweater girl's happen to abound in colleges."

College men are not backward in expressing their dislike for Dior's "flat look." Their remarks range from outright rejection, like the senior from Ferris Institute, Big Rapids, Mich., who says, "Never! Most girls want to show what they got," to a more sophisticated denial like, "Girls will refuse to disguise their natural attributes," as one senior from the Richmond Professional Institute in Virginia put it.

Another senior took a philosophical approach. He said, "Girls recognize the aesthetic value of their figures."

The women students have just as strong opinions as the men. One senior from Regis college, Weston, Mass., feels the "flat look" is "unappealing to men," that it "smacks of the 1920's." A freshman co-ed from Regis college puts it this way: "Girls simply weren't made to be flat." A student from St. Catherine's college in Minneapolis sums up the arguments of many co-eds when she states, "They just can't take away a woman's natural assets."

A junior at Adrian college in Adrian, Mich., disposes of the matter by saying, "The American male likes to see a well-rounded woman, and I don't mean well-rounded intellectually."

Prizes for Photographs Of Personalities Offered

"Campus Stand-outs" is the subject of a nation-wide photography contest for collegiate photographers which will award $1000 in prize money for the best photographs and captions describing a typical collegian.

Rules for the contest are as follows: entries must be made up of one 8x10 glossy photograph and a suitable caption not to exceed six words. The name and address of the photographer and each of the students in the photo must be included on a single sheet of paper attached to the photo. Both photographer and students in the photograph must be registered at Oregon.

The contest is open to all students except employees of Campus Merchandising Bureau, Inc., Liggett & Myers Tobacco company or its advertising agencies and members of their immediate households and families.

All entries must be mailed to Campus Merchandising Bureau, Inc., 299 Madison Avenue, New York 17, and must be postmarked no later than midnight, May 16. Examples of poses and captions may be seen in current advertisements for L&M filter cigarettes running in the Emerald. The subject of the photograph must be a personality stand-out, an individual student representing a campus type.

The prize money is to be awarded to student photographers as follows: $100 each for the top five award-winning photographs; second prizes of $50 each for the next six best entries, and 20 prizes of $10 each to those achieving honorable mention. The best photos will be used in advertising for L&M filter cigarettes.

KUGN Broadcasts 'Fraternity Row'

Radio station KUGN, NBC affiliate in Eugene, will broadcast "Fraternity Row," a dramatic and factual account of the successful efforts of a college fraternity to free itself of discriminatory requirements imposed by its national organization. The program will be Tuesday, April 5, 7:30-8 p.m. (PST).

The radio program is a part of a special series entitled "The People Take the Lead."
