

Ads to Appear In 1956 Oregana

Advertising will appear in the 1956 Oregana, and the price will be returned to the 1954 figure of $6.75 as a result of Wednesday night's meeting of the Student Publication Board.

The question of bringing back Oregana advertising arose in the course of a four-hour meeting held to plan budgets for the Oregana, Oregon Daily Emerald and Pigger's Guide for 1955-56.

The higher sale price and the return of advertising were recommended in order to provide extra pages, additional color pages, and a generally improved annual.

Page prices for organizations will be raised from $40 to $55 for the 1956 Oregana. The board passed the motion for the increase after it was pointed out that the per page production costs have risen drastically in recent years while no similar upward adjustment has been made in cost to organizations.

This year's Oregana is being sold for $6.25, a 50 cent per book reduction from 1954. Next year's the annual will return to the old price. Advertising, abandoned in 1953, will appear in the year-book next year.

The board also voted to raise the selling price of the Pigger's Guide to 60 cents per copy in order to meet rising production costs.

Price changes are final as a result of publications board action. Final approval of 1955-56 publications budgets rests with the Student Union and Educational Activities Committee. Budgets will be considered during early April.

Scheer Refuses Symposium Bid

Bradley T. Scheer, University of Oregon professor of biology, is one of six physiologists who have notified the University of Washington that they would not appear in a University symposium because of the school's ban on J. Robert Oppenheimer, the United Press reported Wednesday.

Scheer could not be reached for comment Wednesday night.

The UP reported Wednesday that Scheer, T. H. Bullock of UCLA, Lewis H. Kleinholz of Reed college, Ladd Prosser, author of a physiology textbook, C. A. J. Wiersma of the California Institute of Technology, and Karl Wilbur of Duke university, all had informed Washington of their decision not to participate.

The dispute came about when University President Henry Schmitz rejected a recommendation by the school's physics department that Oppenheimer be invited to Washington as a Walker-Ames lecturer. Schmitz supported his action on the grounds that it was in the best interests of the University students.

Early this week the University's board of regents upheld Schmitz's decision by a unanimous vote.

Higher Education Conference In SU

The sixth annual conference on higher education begins today in the Student Union with the opening address, "Faculty Growth in the Northwest," being given by University of Oregon President O. Meredith Wilson.

Paul B. Jacobson, dean of the school of education, will preside at this opening session.

Donald H. Morrison, dean of faculty at Dartmouth college, addressed the conference on the topic, "Fitting New Staff Members to Their Institution."

A coffee hour and general discussion period completed the morning's events.

At the luncheon session, Dean Gordon A. Sabine, dean of the school of journalism, will preside.

Miss Horn Has Fulbright Award

Elena D. Horn, senior in foreign languages, has received a scholarship for study in France under the Fulbright program.

Miss Horn will spend the coming academic year at the University of Clermont-Ferrand studying the French languages and literature. She is one of approximately 247 students who have received scholarships for study in France under the Fulbright plan as an International Education exchange student.

The program is designed to promote a better understanding of the United States in other countries.

Miss Horn's scholarship includes transportation costs, allowances for living expenses, books and tuition.

There are four other University students now studying in foreign countries under Fulbright scholarships.

John R. Richards, chancellor-elect of the Oregon state system of higher education, will speak on the topic, "High Education in the Next Decade."

At the afternoon session, Robert D. Clark, assistant dean of the college of liberal arts of the University, will preside. Morrison will again address the second half of the group.

Following this, the assembly will divide into three groups. Group leaders will be Rev. Michael J. Gavin, of the University of Portland; Morgan Odell of Lewis and Clark college, and Robert D. Gregg of Willamette university.

After a short break, the group chairmen will report to the general assembly and summaries will be given by Wilson, Morrison and Jones.

"On The Waterfront" Wins Academy Award

"On the Waterfront" was the best motion picture of 1954.

The Columbia picture received the Oscar for the year's best picture at Wednesday night's Academy Award presentation. Its star, Marlon Brando received the award for best actor.

Grace Kelly won the best actress award for her role in "The Country Girl."

Best movie song was "Three Coins in the Fountain" from the movie of the same name.

Best supporting actress was Eva Marie Saint for her role as Brando's girl friend in "Waterfront" and best supporting actor was Edmund O'Brien for his role in "Barefoot Contessa."

"On the Waterfront" carried off a total of seven Oscars out of twelve nominations. Besides

Ed Sullivan Will Be Here May 3

Ed Sullivan, originator and master of ceremonies for the television show "Toast of the Town," will appear at McArthur court May 3 under the co-sponsorship of the athletic department and the Student Union board.

Sullivan was originally contracted to appear in Eugene by the athletic department and the SU board voted to co-sponsor the event at its meeting Wednesday. The board will assume no financial obligation nor will they share in any profits but will assist the athletic department with publicity and promotion.

Sullivan will bring with him to Eugene a group of talent which has not yet been announced.

Bostic to Appear

Earl Bostic, a modern jazz artist, will appear in the SU ballroom May 25 under the sponsorship of the SU board. Bostic will appear with his recording group of seven pieces and a vocalist.

In other business Jack Socolofsky was unanimously elected for the position of assistant chairman of the board. He will also head the screening committee for the selection of new board members for the ensuing year.

The board reviewed its policy on publicity campaigns and solicitations in the building or on the grounds of the SU. Rules governing solicitations and publicity campaigns are as follows:

Solicitation Policies

1. Permission for soliciting or for publicity campaigns in the building or on the SU grounds must be obtained from the SU administrative office, stating expected hours of use at least 24 hours in advance.

2. Equipment—tables and folding chairs for use in soliciting—must be obtained from the SU administrative office. This will be the only equipment allowed in the building or grounds for this purpose.

3. Signs used for solicitation or publicity campaigns must be approved by the SU administrative office.

4. Signs are not to exceed two by three feet in size.

5. Only masking tape may be used to secure the sign.

6. No signs of a political nature may be displayed in, on, or around the SU building or grounds.

7. Tickets for campus events, such as dances and barbecues will be sold at the main desk by the employees of that area.

8. Solicitation in the main lobby will be made from the check room only.

Exceptions to these policies will be at the discretion of the SU board and the administrative office.

The new office plan for the third floor of the SU was approved by the board. The plan was drawn up to eliminate the overcrowding of certain offices and the infrequent use of others.

Violin Recital To Be Tonight

George Boughton, associate professor of violin, will give a faculty violin recital this evening at the school of music auditorium beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Boughton will be accompanied by William Woods, an instructor in piano at the music school.

Bethoven's "Sonata, Opus 96," will be the first number. It is the last of Beethoven's 10 violin sonatas.

Following this, Boughton will play an impressionistic piece of Polish music, "Dryades et Pan," by Szymanowski. This is a contemporary work by a composer who writes descriptive works as well as sonatas and concertos for the violin.

After a brief intermission, Boughton will perform "Sonata, Opus 27, No. 3," for solo violin, by Ysaye, a famous Belgian composer.

"La Campanella," by Paganini, will be the final program selection.

The public is welcome to the recital.

A $500 scholarship to be awarded annually to a qualified graduate or undergraduate of junior or senior standing in the field of audiology is being offered by the Delta Zeta sorority.

This scholarship is open to junior, senior, and graduate students who are preparing to teach audiology or a closely allied subject. Decision of the scholarship committee will be based upon the student's academic record, evidence of professional interest, personal qualifications, and need of financial assistance.

The applicant does not have to be a member of Delta Zeta in order to be eligible.

DuShane to Attend Fraternity Meeting

Donald DuShane, director of student affairs, will leave for Seattle Thursday to deliver an address at the Phi Delta Theta fraternity Founders Day Banquet.

DuShane's address will deal with problems faced by national fraternities.

Petitions Due For Mother's Day At 5 Today

Petitions for Mother's Day chairman must be turned in at the ASUO petition box by 5 p.m. today, according to ASUO President Bob Summers.

Petitioners for the position will be interviewed at tonight's meeting of the ASUO senate, Summers said. This is the first call for petitions, but the urgency of filling the position makes it imperative that the chairman be chosen tonight, according to Summers.
