

Travel Tours for Summer May Be Joined by Any Woman on Campus

By Cornelia Fogle
Emerald Reporter

Several campus housemothers are to conduct tours this summer and all University women are welcome to go along if they have the time and the money.

Mrs. T. J. Graves, Sigma Kappa housemother, is conducting a Howard tour to Hawaii. Her group will leave Portland June 20 to fly to Honolulu. They will stay at the Islander hotel, which is right on the beach.

Events planned for the group include a boat trip to Pearl Harbor, a conducted tour of the islands, a luncheon and fashion show, a tea dance at the Officers' club, a luau and a hula. On one's own time it is possible to attend a Hawaiian church, hear a band concert by the Royal Hawaiian band or just wander around the town sightseeing.

University Study

Students who go on the tour, which lasts seven and a half weeks, may also study at the University of Hawaii. Courses which are available include history of Hawaii, art, swimming, drama and the hula. In this last course the girl makes her own costume in addition to learning the dance.

The group taking this tour will return to the United States aboard the "Lurline." Activities on the ship are numerous. The ship will dock at San Francisco August 15, five days after leaving Hawaii.

This will be the fourth year that Mrs. Graves has conducted a summer tour to Hawaii.

Brownell Tour

People interested in a tour of the European continent should see Mrs. Alma Twohy, Kappa Kappa Gamma housemother. She will be the conductor of a Brownell tour which leaves Quebec June 30 for a 50 day trip. This tour travels by ship to London, which is the first stop. On board ship, many activities will enliven the six-day crossing.

After traveling across the English channel, the travelers will be picked up in Holland by a motor coach which will take them on their tour of the continent.

From Holland, the tour takes them through Belgium, on a boat trip up the Rhine through western Germany and Switzerland. Next is a stop at Lucerne, Austria, and then they move on to Italy. There they will make stops at Venice, Rome, Sorrento and Florence. They will also visit the Isle of Capri, where they will visit the famed Blue Grotto. The group will travel up the French Riviera, then make stops at Nice and Monte Carlo before going on to Geneva, Switzerland. Then the group goes back into France, stopping at Paris before going to Le Havre, where the ship will pick them up and take them back to Quebec.

Emphasis on Visits

Mrs. Twohy states that the emphasis will be put on visiting museums, cathedrals and other well-known spots, such as the Leaning Tower of Pisa.

It is estimated that this year will see the largest group of tourists ever to travel to Europe.

Mrs. Agnes Biotti, housemother at Carson hall, is also gathering girls for an Hawaiian tour, which is to be lead by Mrs. Betty Mendenhall, a housemother at Oregon State. The girls on this University of Hawaii tour, which will last six and a half weeks, will live at the Royal Grove apartments in Honolulu.

On this tour the girls will fly over and back. They will leave Portland June 21 and arrive home August 5. Besides the study at the university many other events are planned.

World Studytours Of Europe Offered

The delights of travel, the lure of strange places, the satisfaction of developing one's understanding of people, and making new friends abroad are all combined in the program of World Studytours this summer.

College students are now being offered an unusually attractive tour which links three holiday seminars in England, France, and Switzerland. Sailing from Quebec July 4, students will spend some days in London followed by a weekend with a group of British young people.

American and French students will gather at Royaumont, about 20 miles from Paris, while in France. A marvelous 13th-century Abbey now converted for non-profit cultural activities will house the World Studytour group for this meeting.

In Switzerland, the Chalet les Bosquets, located in Les Diablerets Alps near Geneva, has been selected as the center for discussion and recreation. All expenses from leaving Quebec, July 4, to returning to Quebec on Aug. 16 is $830.

Tours of Landmarks

Other tours, stressing politics, music, art, or literary landmarks, are available through the World Studytour program also. These tours, which range from $595 for the economy tour to $2725 for a trip around the world, stress the interests of the participating students.

One Studytour includes trips to four great music and drama festivals and fourteen specialized festivals for only $1560.

For those who have more than a casual interest in art, another Studytour offers exciting opportunity. The trip goes to Italy, Germany, France, Holland, and Belgium where students will be introduced to famous artists of today and art of all ages. The all-inclusive fee is $1435.

Travel by Airplane

World Studytours, which is a non-profit agency chartered for educational purposes only, has chosen Pan American Airlines or Belgium's Sabena World Airlines for safe and comfortable transportation during the tour.

The price of the tour includes all air, sea, rail, and bus tickets; comfortable, clean, second-class hotels; three meals a day; tips; service charges, taxes, carfare and admission fees to regularly scheduled events; qualified educational leader, and travel accident insurance.

For further information on these and other World Studytours write Goodwin Watson, Box 523, Rye, N.Y.

Motor Tour Is Still Open

The University Travel club of New York still has a few spaces available for its chartered college motor tour of Europe. Tours are for bona fide college students and each group is limited to 30 members.

In addition to an experienced university graduate tour leader escort from New York, each group will have a multi-lingual tour conductor, a multi-lingual bus driver and local English speaking guides for extra convenience.

All-inclusive cost, including trans-Atlantic tourist class steamers, is $1295. Air travel is optional but there is an additional cost of $225. Remaining tours will depart from New York June 29 and 30. Arrival in New York from Europe will be September 3 and 7.

April 10 is the deadline for signing up for the tour. Inquiries should be addressed to University Travel club, 33 East 48th St., New York city.

Tusk Expected By UO Museum

Information concerning the seven-foot section of a tusk which was found recently in eastern Oregon is expected to arrive at the University soon.

J. A. Shotwell, curator of the museum of natural history, said that pictures and a description of the fossil are to be sent to him for further study.

The tusk has been tentatively identified as belonging to a hairy mammoth which roamed Oregon 25,000 years ago.

The discovery was made Saturday by Robert Attebury, Umatilla county truck driver, who was hauling gravel from an excavation a mile east of Umatilla.

The power shovel which uncovered the relic destroyed the large end to the tusk and broke it into three pieces. It was encased in a hard, blue sand bed, approximately 50 feet below the ground surface.

Gill coliseum, the basketball pavilion of Oregon State, was built in 1949 at a cost of $1,800,000.
