

Resignation From Churchill Likely

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill, wearing full court dress and a flashing array of decorations gained in a half-century of service to his country, was host to the Queen Monday night at a glittering dinner party.

All Britain expects that Churchill will resign as Prime Minister today and hand his high office over to Sir Anthony Eden. Just why they expect Churchill to step down no one can say with certainty.

Included in the 50 guests were the young Queen and her husband, members of the Prime Minister's family, his closest personal friends, top members of the Cabinet, leaders of the opposition party and some of Churchill's old comrades of World War II days.

It was a list to add weight to the belief that the 80-year-old statesman was winding up his last full day as head of the British government.

Churchill Makes Speech

The British Press association said Churchill made a speech at the dinner but made no reference to his rumored resignation. He proposed the health of the Queen and praised the British monarchy, and the Queen in a brief speech proposed the health of "her Prime Minister," the press association said.

Word has got around in Britain's newspaperless capital that Churchill will drive to Buckingham Palace to hand his resignation to the Queen today.

He is expected to advise her to name Eden as his successor and there is no reason for the monarch to disregard him.

The Queen's schedule calls for her to visit the Isle of Grain in the Thames River Estuary at mid-day and it is possible Churchill's visit to her will be postponed until Wednesday.

Papers on Strike

This will be the biggest story of the year for Britain—and there are no newspapers here to tell it. London's national circulation papers have been closed down by a strike of maintenance men for 11 days.

The Prime Minister's actual retirement will be a much less colorful affair than the party, though no less dramatic.

He simply will drive to the palace as for one of his regular audiences with the Queen, hand her his resignation, then drive away.

On the return trip, his car may very likely pass Eden's as the 57-year-old new leader of the Conservatives approaches the palace in answer to the Queen's summons.

Then, according to precedent, a terse announcement of the change will come from No. 10 Downing Street.

Churchill has summoned a Cabinet meeting for noon today. He could then say farewell to his government colleagues who have served under him since 1951.

Later in the afternoon, he is to answer routine questions in the House of Commons. His last words as Prime Minister may be a reply to a Laborite demand that any Big Four conference be held in Scotland.

Propaganda Expenditures Needed to Win Cold War

Several college students around the country feel that the United States should spend more money on propaganda in an effort to win the "cold war." This fact was brought out in a recent poll by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The ACP asked this question of students from all parts of the nation:

"It has been stated by certain sources that the United States is losing the cold war because the Russians are producing more and better propaganda. Regardless of whether this statement is true or not, do you think the United States should spend more money on overseas libraries, Voice of America radio stations, the Point Four program, etc.?"

The answers revealed that most of the students definitely want more propaganda. Sixty-six percent of those polled replied yes to the question while 24 percent said no and 10 percent had no opinion.

Most of the students had a definite opinion on the matter. A junior at Adrian college in Adrian, Mich., was one of many who felt that "educational propaganda will show its mark in the long run."

'Pop Quizzes' Draw Disfavor

NEW YORK (ACP) — True-false tests took a beating and were characterized as "sometimes presented in a tricky manner," according to results of a faculty-student survey taken among approximately 300 Central State College students. "Pop Quizzes" drew even more unfavorable reaction.

Two hundred and eighteen students considered true-false tests "inadequate to measure the knowledge of a subject," while 69 students disagreed. Sixty-nine students thought that "pop" quizzes should be given, while 272 voiced objection.

A report in the University of Buffalo Spectrum gave the following figures:

Seventy per cent of those questioned thought that at least three to nine tests should be given during a semester before a semester grade was given. Fifty-seven per cent thought that from four to nine or even more tests should be averaged to estimate a final grade. Tests frequently given were thought to be written for past classes rather than for the current semester, 199 student said, while 136 felt that all tests appeared to be current.

Suggestions offered included study sheets which would indicate material a test would cover; and frequent tests to enable students to become familiar with the type of test presented by professors and to give better understanding of what to study.

"The survey seemed to reveal that if the instructors would give more tests the student would study for each individual set and thus keep his studies up to date," the Spectrum report concludes.
