

No Contests Develop In Presidential Race

By Bob Robinson
Emerald Assistant News Editor

ASUO primary petitioning ended Wednesday with a total of 37 candidates filing on the final day but still only one aspirant from each political party was entered in the race for ASUO president.

The two presidential hopefuls, Sam Vahey of the United Independent Students and Bud Hinkson of the Associated Greek Students, will run unopposed on their respective ballots, April 20, in the primaries.

The inactivity in the race for president, however, wasn't indicative of the situation in general. In the AGS competition, especially, two hot contests have shaped up.

Three candidates filed petitions on the last day for the office of senior class president and two more petitioners made their intentions known in the competition for sophomore class president, making a total of four in the running for that office on the AGS ticket.

Five Unopposed

The situation on the UIS slate was completely different. Besides Vahey, four other candidates in the running for class offices are unopposed. This makes the primary mere formality for these aspirants.

The petitioning ended with a total of 54 candidates in the race. Of these 34 represent AGS and 20 are from UIS.

In the AGS senior class president primary a real battle appears certain with Bob McCracken, Ev Stiles and Martin Brandenfels all on the ballot. All three held out until the final hour to make their intentions known and there appears to be some real party rivalry among them.

Hot Race

The four UIS hopefuls who have "no worries" in the primaries are Kip Wharton, senior class president; Sam Frear, senior class representative; Carl Groth, junior class president, and Dale Bajema, sophomore class president.

Following is a list of the candidates in each party primary:

AGS

ASUO president—Bud Hinkson.
Senator-at-large—Travis Ca-vens, Lewis Blue, Jerry Pool, Rob Roy, Darrel Brittsan, Walt Ching, Bob Kubes, Bill Hardin, Nan Hagedorn, Bill Moore, Marcia Mauney, Brian Booth, Ann Erickson, Linda Lundy and Anne Ritehey.

Senior class president — Bob McCracken, Ev Stiles and Martin Brandenfels.

Senate to Give Panel Tonight

A panel discussion on student government will be presented by the ASUO Senate at 8 p.m. today in the Student Union. Freshmen women may be excused to attend the discussion.

The panel, a part of the Senate's public relations program to increase student knowledge and interest in their government, will include four student leaders and three faculty members.

Students are also invited to attend the ASUO Senate meeting preceding the panel discussion.

Representing students on the panel will be Andy Berwick, chairman of the Student Union board; Bob Funk, former ASUO vice-president, editor of the Oregon and Emerald columnist; Don Rotenberg, president of the senior class, and Bob Schooling, co-chairman of the canoe fete steering committee.

Faculty members of the panel will be Les Anderson, former ASUO president who is now director of public services, and Bill Bowerman, onetime ASUO vice-president, now director of athletics. Herman Cohen, assistant professor of speech, will moderate the discussion.

William Faulkner Tells of 'Dream'

By Don Osborne
Emerald Reporter

William Faulkner, in his speech Wednesday on the "American Dream," called the dream "a sanctuary on earth for individual man," but said later that we have lost that dream.

A short but distinguished man with almost pure white hair, he talked in a low, fast voice that was barely understandable. The crowd that filled the Student Union ballroom remained silent throughout the speech, straining to catch what they could.

The country, he said, was founded by men who believed, "We will establish a land where the individual will live. A land where no man will be a king. He wouldn't even want to be a king."

The people all over the earth, Faulkner said, heard about that dream and came to live it. "There's room for all of you."

Comedy by Ferenc Molnar Will Be Presented by UT

"Arthur," a comedy from the pen of Ferenc Molnar, is the newest addition to the wide variety of productions offered to University Theater audiences this year. The production, under the direction of Daniel Krempel, instructor of speech, is scheduled to run April 22 through 30, except April 24, and May 4 through 7.

The play is cast with many new faces. The opening scene of this continental comedy finds Edith, played by Deneice Kenyon, the sophisticated divorcee, plagued by suitors after her considerable fortune. Darrell Keeney, who plays her father, comes to her rescue by creating "Arthur," the ideal husband. The results of this invention and the complications arising from "Arthur" bring the play to its "frantic and funny" climax.

Supporting them will be Don Holt, who has appeared in many University Theater productions, who will step into the romantic lead as Edith's sincere and stuffy suitor, Robert.

Jo Malango, also a veteran UT performer, will appear as the Bishop; Dan Frank will play the butler, and Cedric Hayden, in his first appearance, will play Ribaud.

Gloria Begenich will appear as Edith's maid, Julie, and "The Woman" will be played by Gail Monte. Both of these girls also appeared this year in "Bernardine."

The lawyer will be played by Hoyt McCachren and Chuck Stauffacher, assistant director for the production, will make his first University Theater appearance as the boy.

Tickets for "Arthur" are available at the University Theater box-office everyday except Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 5-1511 of ext. 401.

An Emerald Editorial

Washington Students Welcome

An Open Letter to the Students of the University of Washington:

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, noted nuclear physicist, will appear on the University of Oregon campus April 19 and 20.

Oppenheimer will deliver the annual Condon Lectures, sponsored by the Oregon State System of Higher Education. His topic will be "The Constitution of Matter."

We are certain that many UW physics students would find Oppenheimer's lectures both interesting and informative.

This letter is written, therefore, as an invitation to all those students who have been deprived of the opportunity of hearing such an outstanding physicist speak on scientific subjects.

We write this, not to further complicate the lamentable situation which exists on the Washington campus, but, rather, to express our sincere regret that, by the decision of University President Henry Schmitz, you have been deprived of what we feel might be important to a segment of your student body.

We are confident that the majority of our faculty would second our invitation, and that the regret we express is shared by students, educators, and administrators throughout the state system.

Sincerely,
The Editorial Board of the Oregon Daily Emerald

(Ed. Note: See editorial "Serious Situation" on page two of today's Emerald).

SU Board Adopts Tentative Policy

The Student Union fishbowl will not be available for fund raising organizations if the SU board continues the policy it tentatively adopted Wednesday.

The board will discuss whether or not to make the ban permanent at its next meeting, April 20.

The question of solicitation of funds in the fishbowl came up in connection with a letter from Gordon Ross, publicity chairman of the World University Service committee. The letter requested that WUS representatives be allowed to wait tables in the fishbowl during a Friday at Four, collecting tips for WUS.

Schooling Named

Bob Schooling has been officially approved to fill the board position from the graduate school, board members were told.

Creative arts workshop co-chairman, Dick Frear, presented plans for the event which will be held May 19.

The program will cover five fields: Literature, including short stories, and poetry; music, including classical, progressive and popular; art, weaving and jewelry; drama, one act plays and radio skits, and dance, both ballet and modern.

The workshop is tentatively planned for the SU ballroom.

Members Nominated

Members at large were nominated by the board for one junior position and two senior positions for next year. Sophomores nominated for the junior position were Lolly Quackenbush and Sally Jo Greig. Juniors nominated were Dick Gray and Lucia Knepper.

It was also announced that 1000 seats will be available at a student price of $1.00 for the Ed Sullivan show, May 3, in McArthur court.

Twelve Selected In Queen Race

Twelve semi-finalists for Junior Weekend, selected in interviews Wednesday night, will be voted on, April 21.

The women and their sponsoring houses are:

Barbara Bailey, Alpha Phi; Betti Fackler, Chi Omega, Phi Kappa Psi and Sigma Phi Epsilon; Patty Fagan, Sigma Chi; Janet Gustafson, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Jody Klahre, Alpha Tau Omega; Colleen Moore, Carson 2; Phyllis Pearson, Alpha Chi Omega, Beta Theta Pi, Carson 3 and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Baldinger to Give Talk On Buddhist Beliefs

The formal opening today of an exhibit of Japanese Buddhist images at the Museum of Art will feature a talk by Wallace Baldinger, curator of the museum, on "Buddhist Beliefs and Their Expression in Sculpture."

Baldinger's talk will be given at 4 p.m. in the museum library. Tea will be served following the lecture.

The exhibit includes four images of the Japanese Buddha, Sho-Kannon. The statuettes range in age from about 890 A.D. to 1300 A.D. They were carved out of Japanese cyprus and lacquered with gilt, some of which still remains on the images.

Each carving represents the Buddha in a different spirit and mood. The gallery arrangement will show how the images would have appeared in the Japanese temple.

The opening of the display was originally scheduled for April 8, the birthday of the founder of Buddhism, Gautama Buddha, but was postponed because of Good Friday.

The exhibit is also in honor of Jiro Harada, Japanese lecturer and author, who was responsible for the acquisition of the images by the University.
