

Hawaiian Club Relates Plans for Annual Luau

The annual Mele Menehune luau will be held April 30 at the Veterans' Memorial hall in Springfield. The feast is sponsored by the University's Hawaiian club, and Hawaiian students from all colleges and universities on the West coast are invited.

On April 29 the club will present a fishbowl mixer in the Student Union, with music for dancing and Hawaiian entertainment.

Part of the entertainment will be a contest for the best aloha or sport shirt, and for the best Hawaiian dress. Prizes will be given.

A further part of the entertainment will be teaching a University woman, who has no connection with the Hawaiian club and who has never been to the islands, to do the hula.

Auditions will be held for this, and interested students should contact Andy Toribio, 3-4078, or Hal Chang, at 5-9320. Prizes will also be given in this, to the best hula dancer.

This year there will be 75 tickets available for couples interested in attending the luau. Price will be $10, to cover the cost of food and decorations which are coming directly from the islands.

Lecture Tonight Features Seligman

"The American Presidency and Political Leadership" will be discussed by L. G. Seligman, assistant professor of political science, at the browsing room lecture tonight at 7:30 in the Student Union.

In his talk Seligman will concentrate on the leadership asserted by late president, Franklin D. Roosevelt. He will also deal with some of the trends since then.

The lecture will be a review and analysis of important events in the area of presidential leadership and what they mean. Discussion for the program will be E. S. Pomeroy, acting head of the department of history at the University.

Seligman has done much research in the area of political leadership. Currently he is completing a manuscript of a short study entitled "Presidential Leadership and the White House Staff." It will be published next year by Doubleday-Page.

He has also been invited to participate in a seminar this summer at the Brookings Institution in Washington, D.C., on presidential nominating politics of 1956. Seligman has been asked to contribute on the subject of presidential leadership.

Wisconsin History Prof to Be Guest

Merle Curti, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, will be on campus Friday.

Curti will meet with graduate students in social sciences and students who are interested in that field in the Student Union at 3p.m. on Friday. His recent study of democracy in a Wisconsin county will probably be the topic of discussion.

Visitors are welcome to hear Curti speak to a class in American history about the role of the intellectual in American society. This class is 9 a.m. Friday in 133 Commonwealth.

As a guest at a faculty luncheon Friday noon, Curti will discuss informally the relations of history and the social sciences.

Junior Honor Group Taps Miss Shreeve

Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary, tapped Sue Shreeve, junior in speech, Tuesday night during dinner.

Miss Shreeve will fill the vacancy when Edna Humiston failed to return to school spring term.

William Faulkner Describes

"Something," Faulkner said, "happened to that dream." He used a story to illustrate this point. It was a story about a critic who was offered a good sum of money by a magazine publishing house to do a series of articles on Faulkner.

Faulkner would not consent to give the writer information on the grounds that his was a private life. The writer, he said, would be invading one of his inalienable rights. The right to assert his individuality without answering to anyone. However, he couldn't stop the writer from trying.

He pointed to the case of Dr. Robert J. Oppenheimer, noted atomic physicist recently denied security clearance, saying that "all privacy was stripped from him." These days are days when "security or insecurity is all that counts."

When did America turn from this dream? Faulkner says "It goes back to the time when we repudiated what our forefathers meant by liberty. We didn't abolish truth. We couldn't do that. It merely turned its back on us."
