Featuring PAT CASE

PAT CASE is pictured above modeling a wedding gown at one of Eugene's downtown stores. Miss Case will be married next Spring term.

Pat Case, Future Husband Met First in Kindergarten

"We first met in kindergarten," reminisced dark eyed Pat Case, as she spoke of her fiance Gene Owen, who is presently in the air cadet training program at Brownsville, Texas.

Miss Case and Owen attended Hillside kindergarten in Portland together. "But of course we got much better acquainted at Grant high school," she twinkled.

After graduation the couple was temporarily separated as Miss Case came to Oregon to major in advertising, and Owen went to the University of Washington as a business major. Miss Case is a member of Pi Beta Phi and Owen a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

A wedding for next spring term is planned, as Miss Case will graduate next winter term. As yet, the future bride hasn't chosen her wedding gown. However, she does prefer the fluffy, feminine styles rather than the sophisticated satins.

Important in the bride-elect's hope chest are her silver and china patterns, "Decor" by Gorham and "Kingsley" by Lennox. Also numbered among her wedding treasures is an heirloom cake decoration, which is in the form of the traditional bride and groom and sits on top of the wedding cake. This decoration was used on the wedding cake of Miss Case's mother, sister, and several aunts.
