

Duncan Writes Article About Former Editor

Charles T. Duncan, professor of journalism, wrote a valedictory article on William Tugman, former editor of the Eugene Register-Guard, which appears currently in the Nieman Reports, a journalism magazine.

The article is entitled "The Tugman-Baker Team of Eugene, Oregon," and was written to commemorate Tugman's 28 years on the Guard and mark his becoming editor and publisher of the Reedsport weekly, The Port Umpqua Courier.

Alton Baker, who is also discussed in the article, came to Eugene 28 years ago, with Tugman, and has been publisher since then.

Tugman was given complete editorial freedom by Baker, who did not apply "front-office" pressure.

The Nieman Reports, in which the articles appears, are quarter-

Fulbright Offers Four $800 Aids

The Austrian government has announced four awards for graduates to study in Austria during the academic year 1955-56 in conjunction with the Fulbright awards of the Institute of International Education.

The award covers approximately $800, which should be sufficient to cover room and board as well as tuition and incidental expenses. One travel payment of approximately $55 will be offered. Grantees will be responsible for all other expenses including round-trip travel.

Students may study at any Austrian university or institution of higher learning in all fields, including history, social sciences, language, literature and other liberal arts subjects.

Applicants must have the following qualifications: United States citizenship by the date of application, bachelor's degree by date of departure, demonstrated academic ability and capacity for independent study, good moral character, personality and adaptability, a proficiency in the German language and must meet health standards for insurance coverage.

Further details and application forms may be obtained from K. S. Ghent, Fulbright adviser, in Emerald hall.

Two Professors Awarded Grants

Two University professors have been awarded Ford Foundation fellowships for study next year. They are H. E. Dean, professor of political science, and William A. Williams, assistant professor of history.

Dean plans to study constitutional law and American political theory at Harvard university. He has been at the University since 1947, except for one year in the service, and is a graduate of UCLA and Columbia university.

Williams will participate in talks on historical change at the University of Chicago, the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard. He will also spend some time reading on the subject.

A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and the University of Wisconsin, Williams has been at Oregon for three years.

ly publications of the Nieman Foundation at Harvard university.

Function of the foundation is to provide a year of concentrated study for selected journalists throughout the country. The foundation perpetuates the name of the late Louis Nieman, former publisher of the Milwaukee Journal.

Noted Editor To Talk Here

Max Ascoli, editor and publisher of The Reporter magazine, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Dad's Lounge of the Student Union.

Ascoli, author of many books as well as being active in journalism, came to this country in 1931 after being exiled from Italy because of anti-fascist sentiments. He became a citizen in 1939 and has done much government as well as literary work since.

He appears as another feature of the year long Allen Hall dedication. All students will be welcome.

Sale Adviser Lists Committee Heads

Chairmen for the AWS-sponsored rummage sale have been announced by Ann Pettersen, AWS adviser for the sale.

General chairman will be Mary Jo Williams, and her sub-chairmen include: Cay Mundorff, publicity; Ann Henderson and Ann Curry, collections.

Taffy Jones and Bev Landon, promotion; Joan Bailey and Joan Kraus, appraising, and Pat Cushnie and Eleanore Whitsett, sales.

Date of the sale has not yet been decided, Miss Pettersen said. It will be announced later, as will names of committee members.

Recorded Lecture Will Be Broadcast

A tape recording of a lecture presented by L. G. Seligman, assistant professor of political science, will be broadcast over station KOAC Wednesday night at 8:30.

The lecture is entitled "The American Presidency and Political Leadership." It was originally presented as a browsing room lecture April 13.

Workshop Calls For Creative Art

Student work in the field of the creative arts is now being called for by Sally Calkins and Dick Frear, co-chairmen of the University Creative Arts Workshop.

The Workshop, scheduled for May 19, under the sponsorship of the Student Union board, is a program entirely composed of student literature, drama, music choreography, art work and photography. Entries may be original short stories, poetry, one-act plays, short musical compositions, choreography routines, photography in black and white or color, and all types of art work.

Entries must be turned in to Bernice Rise in the SU browsing room by May 6 at 5 p.m. All work will be returned after the Workshop is over. Only student work is eligible to be used on the workshop program.

All work should be clearly identified as to author or artist, either by a cover sheet in the case of plays, poems, and stories; or by some other clear mark of identification. Entries in the literature division should be typewritten on the standard 8 1/2 x 11 paper on one side only.

Photography should be 8 by 10 for black and white pictures. Any size is acceptable for color entries which may include slides.

Tentatively planned for the Workshop program is the production of a one-act play, the reading of several poems and short stories, and exhibits of art work and photography. Also planned are a choreography number and several musical compositions.

Work to be used on the program will be chosen by a committee of student judges and final review rests with a faculty committee, to be announced later.

Further information about the Creative Arts Workshop may be obtained from Miss Rise in the browsing room.
