

'Fete' Bleachers Nearly Finished

"Saturday night should see the end of building bleachers," reported Jerry Maxwell, chairman of the Canoe Fete property set-up committee, after another day of work Thursday.

It was the second day of bleacher building, and despite difficulties involving wet weather and low manpower the project was running ahead of schedule. Come what may, members of the committee were on the job.

Each day members of designated fraternities meet by the millrace to continue the bleacher construction. Thursday Theta Chi worked in the morning, Delta Upsilon in the afternoon. Saturday morning, under the supervision of Ward Patterson, Phi Psi will take over; Saturday afternoon Phi Kappa Sigma will start work supervised by Dean Beck.

Assisting Jerry Maxwell with the property set-up committee are Al Morris and Jack Marsh.

Trophies Offered To Living Groups

Two trophies will be awarded to the living organizations with largest attendance of mothers' Weekend, according to Margaret Tyler and Karen Kraft, general chairmen for the weekend.

Awards will be made based on the largest percentage attendance for members in each living organization.

Students are urged to write to their mothers immediately and invite them to the weekend. This will make housing more certain and will insure each mother of a place to stay in Eugene.

A housing list is being prepared and will be sent to each living organization. It will be kept up to date as vacancies are filled.

President O. Meredith Wilson will be guest speaker at the breakfast being held in the Student Union ballroom Saturday morning, from 8:30 to 10:30.

Audrey Mistretta will be guest soloist at the breakfast. John Richards, chancellor-elect, and his wife will attend, as will Gordon Williams, president of the Dads' Clubs.

Decorations for the Mothers' tea, to be held from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday in Gerlinger, will follow the Canoe Fete theme, "As I Sit and Dream at Evening."

The Eugene mothers' club is decorating for the event, and a garden-party scene with canopies of umbrellas overhead is planned.

Senator Wayne Morse, (D.-Ore.) will speak Saturday at 8 p.m. at Springfield Junior high school. A barbecue dinner will be held prior to the speech, starting at 7 p.m.

Canoe Fete Features UO Singers, Orchestra

The 40-voice University Singers will open the 1955 Canoe Fete with their rendition of the Fete theme, "As I Sit and Dream at Evening."

Janet Wick and Jackie Jackson, program chairmen for the Fete, announced today that musical arrangements will be provided by Singers and the 35-piece University symphony orchestra.

As each of the 15 floats moves down the millrace, the orchestra will provide appropriate background music conveying the theme of each float in music. Conducting the symphony orchestra will be E. A. Cykler, professor of music. M. D. Risinger, associate professor of music, will conduct the University Singers.

Narrator for the program will

BOB CHAMBERS Will Narrate "Fete"

Preliminary entertainment will be furnished by students paddling down the race in canoes. Any students who have had some experience in the art of paddling or riding in a canoe are asked to contact Miss Jackson at 3-6701.

While the judges are selecting the winning floats, special guests and dignitaries will be introduced to the audience.

Barges, Barrels To Be Distributed

Barges and barrels for Canoe Fete floats will be distributed Saturday at 10 a.m. at the physical plant, according to Sally Jo Greig and Darrell Brittan, float committee co-chairmen.

Miss Greig stated Friday that "at least one representative from every pairing must be present to receive the barges."

Barges and barrels will be assigned to each pairing, and anchor and building areas will be outlined at that time. The barges will be lined up in order of their appearance at the Fete with the last one, the comic float, anchored at the bridge near the east end of the physical plant lot.

The floats will be pulled down the race by an endless rope pulley connected at each end of the race. The rope will have various sections with snap connectors, one end to be connected at the front of the float, the other at the back end. When the float reaches the west end of the millrace it will be disconnected and the rope will be snapped together again.

Judges for the Fete will be announced later when the house float chairmen have made final decisions.

Election Rules Are Discussed

The ASUO Senate Thursday night defeated a motion which would have put teeth in election rules, forwarded the rifle team request to the budget board and heard a series of routine committee reports closing the group's business for the year.

The motion to provide for enforcement of election rules failed when it was brought out in the discussion that such a provision already exists. The provision states that any violation of the rules may be grounds for contesting an election. Such an election protest would be considered by the constitutional committee.

Poll-Watchers to Go

In other election business, ASUO Vice-President Hollis Ransom recommended that the practice of having poll-watchers be discontinued. His suggestion was accepted without dissent. Ransom announced that polling places for Wednesday's elections will be in the same places as for the primary elections last week. Infirmary patients will also be allowed to vote.

The Senate heard Capt. H. D. Wolaver's request of $300 to establish an ASUO rifle team for all interested male students. The program would be coached and managed by the ROTC department. Only John Whitty, graduate student representative, and Ransom opposed the motion that the rifle team's request be considered by the ASUO budget board.

A petition for funds for the rifle team may now be presented at the Saturday meeting of the budget board.

Athletic department plans to honor Oregon athletes in a Hall of Fame in the lettermen's lounge, now under construction, were explained to the Senate.

Shaw Automatically "On"

As a result of previous Senate action, the name of George Shaw will be placed in consideration automatically for the honor. Shaw's jersey currently has been set aside. Selection for the Hall of Fame will be made by a final committee from nominations made by alumni.

The appointment of Sue Lamb, freshman in journalism, as editor of the Ore-Nter was approved by the Senate. Miss Lamb was recommended by the student publications board.

Discussion Held On Chapel Plans

House chaplains last night discussed plans for the proposed campus chapel.

Results of interviews with Dean S. W. Little, Dean V. P. Morris and D. M. DuShane were announced, reports Bill Swenson, president of the House Chaplains association. Varying opinions on the desired size, cost, function and location of a chapel were discussed.

Research on the chapel project is continuing, with more interviews scheduled for next week.

A list of religious periodicals and books, representing several faiths, has been compiled by the literature committee. This list is available to everyone.

Plans were announced for a leaflet on the function and nature of the association, which will be sent to all house presidents. House chaplains will also try to get material on the organization in next year's Ore-Nter.

Anne Ritchey Wins Contest

Anne Ritchey, junior in journalism, was awarded first place in the ASUO Senate-sponsored essay contest on student government. Second place was awarded Bob Pollock, senior in economics, and third place went to Bob Biggs, junior in pre-law.

Miss Ritchey's winning entry will be printed in the Emerald. She will also receive $20 first prize. Pollock and Biggs will receive $10 and $5, respectively.

Betty Herrman Files Petition

Betty Herrman, freshman in liberal arts, Thursday became the second person in three days to file a non-partisan petition for an office in the Wednesday elections.

Miss Herrman will be a candidate for sophomore class representative. She will oppose Jim Hilands, AGS, and Sam Whitney, UIS, who were nominated in the April 20 primary elections. Two representatives will be elected.

Miss Herrman told the Emerald that she had decided to run after a conference with the present freshman class officers and the Greek candidates for sophomore class offices. She said she would campaign along with the Greek candidates.

A losing candidate in the primaries, she explained that both she and Hilands, who defeated her, had thought that two candidates were to be nominated by each party, instead of just one. The primary was decided on the fifth transfer of votes, with Hilands winning 173 to 121.

She said that she believed that each party should nominate a full slate of officers for each class. She added that she thought the lack of any real contest in the class offices was one of the causes of student apathy.

Miss Herrman is a member of the debate squad and is pledge class social chairman and assistant membership chairman for Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is also working on the terrace dance committee for Junior Weekend and is vice-president of Westminster foundation.

Fred Hogg, junior in business, was the other person filing a non-partisan petition for senator-at-large Tuesday.
